Dearest Ann,

I got your letter today an just have got the day off so I will write you while I can because over here one never knows what he will be doing next. So here goes.
Ann I got back from town Sat. night an by what a time I had I got ^{on} one of those jabs I used to get an back there The M.P. told me a couple of time that I had better ~~straighten~~ ^{straighten} up or else they would take me in. Well Ann all I don't was get up an go to some other place. A couple of times I didn't know if I was come or going. But Ann the jobs over here just ain't worth a damn. for the first thing I can't understand what ~~they~~ ^{they} are trying to say, Ann I will wish you was over here we could really have a good time together. Ann you said that you had a good job now well I will am glad of that. If I was you I would work an not go to school, because you can always go to school after that job is over with. Ann I guess you will save a lot of that money. So after I get back from this war we can go out and have some good times again. "Can't we!" Ann I got a letter from Joe Coleman this morning on that boy is as crazy as he always was. I also got a letter from Jyl on that boy is still the same. Well Ann you said for me to take good care of myself I will but all I have to do is make just one little mistake and then it is all over with. and there won't be any body around to tell me you ought to of been careful. But Ann I will try my best. Ann I will have to close for this time so good bye & lots of good luck to you. Bye Bye -

Two sheet of paper Sir:

As Ever
Leo.
