

800TH
SIGNAL TRAINING REGIMENT
CAMP CROWDER, MISSOURI

Sunday Afternoon

Dear Jane,

Well here it is the day of rest and I am doing a little bunch of fatigues. I just came back from chow and after standing in line for a while you are tired out completely. That is the only thing I don't like about this camp is standing in line to eat.

I will be through school in another 3 weeks and it sure won't make me read. School sure does get boring after some time and especially after taking the same thing so many times.

I went to a dance here at the Post last Thursday night and I got a telephone number of a sweet little thing in town so I think I will buzz in town and see what cooks. This town called Jaconton is about 3 miles from camp and it sure is a typical western town. The other night they were riding horses down the main street in town. Evidently this gas rationing is quite a problem here. (Of course they don't know of that wonderful invention the four wheeled mechanical horse.)

All joking aside it really is a modern town and there are a lot of Indians.

Well June it is so hot I am going to home to get out side and get going. I will write you near the first of the week and tell you the goings on here at Fort Hill.
It is still a wonderful camp and lots to do.

P.S.

My new address is R.M.S. #1
instead of R.M. #24.

R.M.S. stands for Radio Mechanics Specialist #1. Calling us Specialist, they must think we know our business.

It sounds good though.
