Sat. Evening

Dear Mom,

I couldn't think of a thing when talking on phone so will drop you a line.

I think I will really like it altho I have not had enough to know.

We got up at five this morning and made up our beds and get down to chow. We spent most of the morning heaving up to get over to a swimming board and then have to wait a couple hours.

There is about 50 going through in our bunch and you have to wait on all of them.

We had our blood test and then got a x-ray of our lungs. After that we had the physical which last a couple of hours. I was sure glad that my blood pressure was alright as that worried me.

After all this examining, you feel like you have to be a physical wonder.

This afternoon we had to get out and scrub the damn barracks. It was colder than the devil and I didn't have any thing but my good cloths.

They tell you that you want need them any more as you have to work in them.

Well Mon I am going to chae for noon and get to bed. I am going to church in the morning with some of the fellows.

Don't write me at this address as I doubt whether I will be here long. I will call on you and you a telegram. Perhaps I am shipped out.

Yours
Love

P.S. I hope that you feel better.
