

HUMAN RELATIONS INSTITUTE. The Human Relations Institute of Indiana State University was created in 1973 by a Title IV grant under provision of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Funded initially to serve only the Evansville-Vanderburgh School Corporation, the Institute has steadily enlarged its program and scope of services. The Human Relations Institute now provides service to the Evansville, East Chicago, Gary and Hammond School Corporations.

The Institute is directed by Dr. Glenn Kinzie. Ms. Judy Hummel, Co-Director, works primarily with Evansville participants, and Mr. Herman Matthews, Desegregation Specialist, works with participating teachers in the Calumet Region.

The activities and work scope of the 1975-76 Human Relations Institute provide participating school corporations with teachers trained in curriculum, methods, human relations, and conflict resolution. Each school city will have its own highly trained facilitator team, as well as a trained team within each high school feeder district and an experienced staff member to serve their evolving needs. The total number of educators participating directly in the Institute is 115.

Major emphases of the Human Relations Institute have been placed in three areas: racism, sexism, and bilingual programs, with regard to textbook analysis, curriculum revision, workshop implementation (building-level), and on-going human relations projects. To meet these identified needs the Institute will receive funds of $215,904.00 during the 1975-76 fiscal year.

LILLY LIBRARY FUNDS RESEARCH. The Lilly Library of Indiana University Bloomington has announced a program of small research grants and summer research fellowships. Supported by a $15,000 grant from the Lilly Endowment, these funds are to assist faculty members of colleges and universities in Indiana who wish to use the resources and facilities of the Lilly Library in their research. The small grants provide a maximum of $300 per scholar; the summer fellowships for 1976 carry a stipend of $1600 and a dislocation allowance of up to $400. Details and application forms for this program are available in Dr. Reid's office, Library 116.

FIRST ADVANCED GEOGRAPHY CLASS IN AREA. A geographer, who has spent the summer studying the traditional Irish culture of western Ireland, and who taught two years at Teachers' College, Kabwe, Zambia, will teach a World Geography course at Indiana State University Evansville this fall. This is the first time an advanced geography class will be offered in the Evansville area. Donald L. Hunter of 1100 Erie, Evansville, will be teaching the class.

FIRST ADVANCED GEOGRAPHY CLASS IN AREA, CONTINUED.

Mr. Hunter received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Hanover College, and a Master of Science degree from Indiana University. He also holds a Master's degree from Oregon College of Education. In working toward completion of his doctoral degree, Mr. Hunter spent the summer of 1974 at the University of Northern Colorado. He has worked first-hand with various world cultures.

STATE-WIDE IN-SERVICE PROGRAM SPONSORED BY IHETS.

Indiana State University Evansville faculty and staff will have the opportunity to discover recent developments in educational technology at a state-wide in-service program sponsored by the Indiana Higher Education Telecommunication System on October 2 and October 17 at Vincennes University.

The program content for the two days is completely different. October 2 will be concerned with instructional materials currently telecast on national public television and those available from large consortia, libraries, and commercial producers. October 17 programming will stress materials produced in Indiana in large studios and in classroom settings for use throughout the State and for individual student study.

The seminar is being conducted on ten campuses throughout the State with portions of the program brought through the distribution and instantaneous talkback facilities of the Indiana Higher Education Telecommunication System. Additional program input will be produced at the ten regional sites. ISUE personnel will attend the seminar with other college staffs of Southwestern Indiana, at Vincennes University. According to Dr. Donald Bennett, Vice-President for Administration, "Faculty and administrative staff are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to discover recent developments in educational technology at the in-service program. I do hope faculty will attend, and indicate their interest to the division chairperson as to whether or not they will attend."

For further information, contact Dr. Bennett. He is the campus representative on the State University Telecommunications Coordinating Council of IHETS.

MEDICAL INSURANCE CLARIFICATION. The Personnel Office, which administers employee benefits, has been asked to clarify medical insurance coverage as it concerns dependent children of covered ISUE employees.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield -- Dependent children are covered until December 31 following their 23rd birthday. The term "dependent" means any unmarried children, stepchildren or legally adopted children of the member or spouse who are dependent upon the member for support.

Major Medical-Dental -- Dependent children are defined as unmarried children under age 19 and unmarried children 19 years of age and under age 23 provided they are full-time students.

TELECOURSES TO BE OFFERED FOR THE FIRST TIME THIS FALL. For the first time this fall, Indiana State University Evansville will offer credit for courses telecast over the Public Broadcasting System (PBS) and its local affiliate, WNIN, Channel 9. Two telecourses have been approved for three semester hours of credit each. They are "The Ascent of Man," offered by ISUE as General Studies 180X, The Ascent of Man, and "Classic Theatre," offered as English 222X, Classic Theatre: The Humanities in Drama. The courses are open to the general public as well as to regular students. Tuition will be $20.00 per semester hour, the same as for regular credit courses.

Each course consists of 13 telecasts and three required class meetings. For credit, students must view the 13 telecasts, read the textbook and anthology of related essays, and concurrently follow a prescribed study guide. There will be mid-term and final examinations.

The Ascent of Man is an award-winning series by Jacob Bronowski concerned with the history of man as a phenomenon in which science emerges as a natural activity of each age. The course is a cooperative program of ISUE and University of Evansville. The instructor is Dr. Russell Lewis of U of E. The first class meeting is September 16, 7:00-9:00 p.m., Lower River Room, Evansville Museum. The telecasts begin September 23.

Classic Theatre consists of 13 plays from classic literature and performed by premiere theatre companies. Each full-length performance will be preceded by a televised preview providing background on the play's author, setting, and literary significance. The first class meeting is September 23, 7:00-9:00 p.m. in Room 350, ISUE University Conference Center. The telecasts begin September 25. The instructor is Dr. Thomas Wilhelmus, ISUE Assistant Professor of English.

Contact the ISUE Office of Continuing Education (426-1251, extension 363) for a descriptive brochure or a mail registration form.

CAMPUS MINISTRY OPEN HOUSE. The ISUE Campus Ministry, Inc., an apostolate of service to the university community, fulfills various functions of campus ministry including liturgical, pastoral, counseling, education and prophetic functions at ISUE. The Campus Ministry Office is located in the ISUE Library, Room 119. Mr. Rupert Condict, a local architect, recently renovated the office and an Open House is underway this week. Faculty, staff, and students are invited to the Open House.

Fish, the student organization of Campus Ministry, sponsors various types of activities including liturgies and prayer experiences along denominational lines, seminars, workshops, outside speaker bureaus, rap sessions, counseling and referral services and community service projects. Father Bernard Lutz is chaplain of Campus Ministry.

MEAL TICKET PROGRAM BEING OFFERED. Recognizing the expense food has become, Saga Food Service is offering a 10% discount for meals in the Cafeteria. One hundred dollars ($100.00) worth of coupons can be purchased for ninety dollars ($90.00). Also a ten dollar coupon book will be available, at 8% savings, for $9.20. → SPOUSE PROGRAM APPROVED. A new program for spouses of full time faculty members and administrators designed to allow spouses to enroll in one course for one half fee each enrollment period, (Fall, Spring, Intersession, First and Second Summer Terms), has been approved to begin the Fall Semester of 1975. Applications, rules and regulations regarding this program may be secured from the Office of Student Financial Aids.

LIBRARY DISPLAY. "Choices for Survival: 2000?" is the focus of a new library display by John M. Barnes, Assistant Professor of Geology and Geography. In addition to his own publication, he has used newspaper and magazine articles to emphasize the fact that we are deciding our own fate and quality of life by the way we are using energy resources today.

SECOND ANNUAL ISUE GOLF OUTING. The Second Annual ISUE Golf Outing for faculty, staff and administration is being planned for Tuesday, September 23rd at Hamilton's Golf Course. Last year's outing was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone that took part. The committee for this year urges an even greater response from all interested parties. It is a grand occasion to play golf, socialize and as the saying goes..."eat, drink and be merry."

This year's agenda includes 18 holes of golf followed by an evening buffet at the Sand Trap (Club House). Net scores will be determined by the Calloway system. Trophies and prizes will be awarded following the evening meal.

President Rice has granted approval for this event and encourages all interested employees to participate. It should be noted that employees are given the option of participating in all or part of the activities.

Make plans to attend this annual event. The greater the response, the greater the fun! Complete the form attached at the end of the University Notes and return it to the Athletic Department by Friday, September 19.

(HEALTH SERVICES MOVES TO NEW OFFICE. Health Services has moved to a new office, AD 30. The new extension number is 307.)
