The University of Southern Indiana's Mid-America Singers will perform on Sunday, March 27, at Disney World in Orlando, Florida.

Mrs. Sue Schriber, director of the Singers, said they will be on the Tomorrowland stage in the Magic Kingdom, presenting their contemporary program of jazz, swing, gospel, and rock music as part of a year-long feature, "Magic Music Days," Disney World's salute to the U.S. Constitution.

Mrs. Schriber said the Mid-America Singers were selected for the Disney World appearance by audition, having submitted video and cassette tapes of past performances to demonstrate their capabilities.
