Genetics and bioethics to be USI lecture topics

The USI Biology-at-the-Interface series will present two nationally-known scholars in early April lectures on genetics and bioethics. The event will honor the 75th birthday of Dr. Margery Shaw, former director of the Medical Genetics Center at the University of Texas, Houston, who has retired and returned to her native Evans-ville to live.

The lectures at 7 p.m. Thursday, April 2, in Mitchell Auditorium will feature Philip Reilly, J.D., M.D., president and CEO of Shriver Center for Mental Retardation in Waltham, Massachusetts, and Mary Faith Marshall, Ph.D., director of the Program in Bioethics at the Medical University of South Carolina, Charleston.

Dr. Reilly will discuss "The Genetics Revolution: What Does It Mean For You?" focusing on the impact of gene discoveries on the patient-doctor level of medical practice and on a person's opportunities for insurance and employment. Dr. Marshall's topic will be "Situation Ethics Revisited: A Perspective on Current Bioethical Dilemmas," focusing on substance abuse by the pregnant woman and on end-of-life decisions.

Dr. Reilly

Both will examine points where basic science, law, and medicine converge. The public is invited to the free lectures; tickets or continued on page 2

Speaker on Islam

Dr. Sayyid M. Syeed will give a public lecture, "Islam in America: A Misunderstood Religion" at 6 p.m. Thursday, April 2, in Carter Hall. He will also be a guest lecturer in Dr. Walter Everett's HUM 241 (Western Civilization) class at 10 a.m. Friday, April 3.

Dr. Syeed is the general secretary of the Islamic Society of North America (ISNA), an organization based in Plainfield, Indiana, with 300 affiliates in the U.S. and Canada. His visit to USI and to Evansville is being organized by Dr. Munir Quddus, chair of the Economics and Finance Department, with support from Academic Affairs and the University Core Curriculum program.

Dr. Syeed is a naturalized citizen who obtained his Ph.D. in sociolinguistics from Indiana University in 1984. He for-

World Trade Council speaker

Mr. James L. Yuen, director of the Chicago office of the Hong Kong Trade Development Council, will be the guest speaker at the next Tri-State World Trade Council (WTC) luncheon, slated at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, March 19, in Carter Hall (C).

Mr. Yuen has been with the Chicago organization since 1988. His principle responsibilities include exploring markets for Hong Kongmanufactured goods and creating a favorable image of Hong Kong as a trading and manufacturing center, promoting two-way trade between Hong Kong and the midwestern states in the U.S., implementing a program of trade promotion activities and providing business information to both Hong Kong and overseas businessmen, conducting market and product research studies, and advising overseas businesses of trade and business opportunities in Hong Kong.

The cost of the WTC luncheon is $8 in advance, $9 at the door. Reservations should be made by Monday, March 16. Call: 464-1864, fax: 465-7061, or e-mail: extserv.ucs@smtp.usi.edu For information, contact Mr. Tim Mahoney, WTC coordinator at USI, 464-1947.

Stained glass expert to lecture

Mr. Malcolm Miller, world-renowned expert on the stained glass and sculpture of Chartres Cathedral in Chartres, France, will give a free public lecture at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 17, in Carter Hall.

Chartres Cathedral contains more than 25,000 square feet of famous "Chartres blue" stained glass windows, some dating from the 12th and 13th centuries. The cathedral, an 800-year-old Gothic masterpiece, is famous for its beauty, grace, and magnificent works of art. Mr. Miller will illustrate his lecture with slides of the windows from his collection, some taken from high scaffolding.

An Englishman, Mr. Miller was educated at Durham University where he majored in French. As a student he wrote his final paper on Chartres Cathedral, spending a year there to do so. As a result of the paper and because of his desire to live and work at Chartres, Mr. Miller was authorized to begin lecturing at the cathedral in 1958. He has since earned an international reputation, speaking twice daily from Easter until November to tens of thousands of visitors. During the months he is not lecturing at Chartres, he is on lecture tours of colleges, museums, and art galleries in North America.

Futurist to speak

Futurist Francis Fukuyama, a George Mason University professor and author of Trust: The Social Virtues and the Creation of Prosperity, will deliver a public lecture at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 26, in Mitchell Auditorium and will visit with USI classes on Friday, March 27. His visit is co-sponsored by Citizens Bank and the USI Schools of Business and Liberal Arts.

Dr. Fukuyama provides a fascinating and distinctly unique look at business and organizations, offering views on the future of our society and our social virtues which he says will determine whether a nation will prevail in the new global economy. He explains his theories and projections in the new book Trust.

Dr. Fukuyama received a B.A. in the classics from Cornell University and Ph.D. in political science from Harvard University. He is a fellow of the Johns Hopkins University School for Advanced International Studies' Foreign Policy Institutes and director of its Telecommunications Project. He is producing a definitive study on the future of telecommunications and his next book will deal with technology and policy in the public sector and the corporate world. Dr. Fukuyama also has written widely on Soviet foreign policy in the Third World and on democratization and political economies. He is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Slavic Studies and the Council on Foreign Relations. He previously was a senior social scientist at Rand Corporation and a member of the U.S. State Department's Policy Planning Staff.

Mr. Augustine J. Fredrich, Engineering Technology Department chair, teaches a "Great Cathedrals of England and France" course and leads a cathedrals tour for USI Extended Services. He made contact with Mr. Miller when planning the June 1998 cathedrals tour of Brussels, Chartres, Paris, and London. Mr. Miller is on tour in the U.S. now and offered to include USI. Mr. Fredrich will be in England in May as a visiting professor at Harlaxton College, teaching the cathedrals course he has developed for USI evening and graduate students. After finishing that assignment, tour members will meet him in England and begin their ten-day cathedrals excursion.

The Miller lecture is sponsored by the USI Schools of Liberal Arts and Science and Engineering Technology. The cathedrals tour is scheduled June 17-29; deposits are due in mid-March. Call 464-1863 for tour information.

merly was president (1980-83) of the Muslim Students Association of U.S.A. & Canada, saw its evolution into ISNA, and remained affiliated with it to 1988. He was secretary general of the International Islamic Federation of Student Organizations (1988-90) and also was director (1984-94) of Academic Outreach at the International Institute of Islamic Thought near Washington, D.C. Dr. Syeed has traveled widely in his various positionsn. He had a prominent role in the founding of numerous Muslim councils, maintains close touch with human rights activists in Asia and East Europe, and is actively involved in fostering understanding among the world's religions. He is a frequent speaker at interfaith dialogues and his expertise is used frequently by national news organizations.

reservations are not needed. The series is sponsored by the USI Biology Department and School of Science and Engineering Technology, and is coordinated by Dr. Marlene V. Shaw, professor of biology (no relation to Dr. Margery Shaw).

After graduation from Columbia Law School in 1973, Dr. Reilly spent two years as a research associate in the UT laboratory of his mentor, Dr. Margery Shaw, then went on to medical school at Yale University. He visited USI in March 1986 as the first Biology-at-the-Interface lecturer. Dr. Marshall wrote her doctoral dissertation in religious studies (applied ethics) at the University of Virginia on the evolution of Joseph Fletcher's ethical thought. Dr. Fletcher was a mentor and dear friend of Dr. Margery Shaw.

"Biology-at-the-Interface is pleased to celebrate the intellectual lineage of these accomplished professionals," Dr. Marlene Shaw noted.

Dr. Reilly also was a part-time private-practice attorney for a decade, focusing on health law issues. He is board certified in internal medicine and in clinical genetics and is a founding fellow of the American College of Medical Genetics. His most recent professional affiliations have included consultant with Genzyme Genetics, Inc., and Bioethics, Millennium Pharmaceuticals, Inc.; a member of SmithKline Beecham Genomics Advisory Board; chair of SmithKline Beecham Clinical Genetics, Ethics, and Public Policy Advisory Board; various positions with the American Society of Human Genetics since 1988; former chair of the National Center for Genome Resources Advisory Board; and 1997 editorial board member of Genetic Testing and BioLaw. He also has been affiliated with several DNA testing organizations, including being a former member of the FBI's DNA Advisory Committee.

Dr. Marshall teaches graduate course work and conducts research in perinatal substance abuse, women's health, and reproductive issues. Her recent interests include perinatal substance abuse (cocaine), cord blood banking, and end-of-life decision making (do not resuscitate orders, physician-assisted suicide). She is the author of a book, articles, and chapters on clinical and research ethics. She is chair or a member of various MUSC ethics, scientific integrity, institutional review, transplant selection, and confidentiality organizations; an elected fellow of the American College of Critical Care Medicine; and president-elect of the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities. She has held review/advisory positions with the National Institutes of Health and is a consultant to the South Carolina Medical Association Ethics Committee and the Governor's Coalition on Advance Directives.

Names in the news:

Dr. Abbas Foroughi, associate professor of business, was informed that his paper, "Minimizing Negotiation Process Losses with Computerized Negotiation Support Systems" has been accepted for publication in the Journal of Applied Business Research.

Welcome:

The University community welcomes Ms. Karen Burks, accounts clerk I in Accounts Payable; Mr. Vincent A. Frazier, electronic equipment specialist in the School of Science and Engineering Technology; and Mrs. Martha Gilbert, application processing clerk in Student Financial Assistance. Ms. Burks previously worked as a temporary cashier at USI. Mr. Frazier was a lab technician at Bristol-Myers Squibb for 12 years and senior analyst at Science Resouces, Inc., for three years; he has an A.S. degree from Vincennes University and has studied laser-electro optics technology, chemistry, statistics, and computer at the University of Evansville. Mrs. Gilbert has an A.S. degree in computer programming from Ivy Tech State College and formerly was a computer operator in the USI Computer Center.

Employee transfers/promotions:

Mr. Steven F. Baker has transferred from audio/visual technician in Media Services to telecommunications technician in the Computer Center. Ms. Karen Hobgood has transferred from student records clerk to senior administrative clerk in the Registrar's Office.

Spring show '98

The Mid-America Singers and Band will present their Spring Show '98 at 7:30 p.m. (a time change from the USI March calendar) Saturday, March 21, in Forum I. The concert will feature the music and high-impact choreography that has made the Singers popular with Tri-State audiences the past 28 years. The concert also will include several solo and group selections by cast members that have been auditioned especially for this concert.

Mr. Daniel R. Craig, assistant professor of music and the group's conductor, said, "This year's Mid-America Singers and Band concert will be especially lively and entertaining. The music performed in this concert is a great blend of intense energy and simple beauty. The musical selections range from the sounds of explosive pop and rock, to the more harmonically rich a cappella jazz standards that have become a signature of the ensemble's sound."

Tickets may be purchased at the door and will be $5 for adults, $3 for children (12 and under). All proceeds benefit development of music at USI. For information, call Mr. Craig, 464-1736.

Sympathy:

The University community extends sympathy to the family of Mrs. Joyce L. McCaffry, a resident manager at Golden Towers apartments, who died March 12.

Healing Touch workshops:

Level I workshops in "Healing Touch for Health Care Professionals" will be held from 7-10 p.m. Friday, March 20, 9 a.m.-7 p.m. Saturday, March 21, and 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday, March 22, at the Barn Abbey at New Harmony, Indiana, sponsored by the School of Nursing and Health Professions Continuing Education program.

This is the first time courses on healing through energy have been presented in the Evansville area. Ms. Victoria Slater, Ph.D., RN, CHTI, HNC, will conduct the workshops. She currently is studying nurses' "Journey to Holism" and is a co-principal investigator of "The Effects of Energetic Healing on Radiation-Induced Fatigue."

The fee for the weekend is $250; daily fees are available. Call 464-1989 for reservations. For information, call Mrs. Margaret Graul, continuing education coordinator in the School of Nursing and Health Professions, 465-1161.

Southern Hospitality Day:

The second spring Southern Hospitality Day will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, March 21, in Mitchell Auditorium, allowing Tri-State high school students and their families and friends to get acquainted with USI. For those who can't make that date, the third and final spring hospitality day will be Saturday, April 18. Reservations are required. Call the Admission Office, 464-1765, for reservations or information.

New Harmony Gallery:

A public reception will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday, March 21, at the New Harmony Gallery of Contemporary for the artists who will be featured in the next exhibition March 22-April 30: Mr. John Siblik of Cobden, Illinois, who works with oil on wood, and Ms. Margo Kren of Manhattan, Kansas, who does prisma pencil figurative drawings.

"Blue Eyes, Brown Eyes"

Ms. Jane Elliott, adapter of the "Blue Eyes, Brown Eyes" discrimination exercise — a widely-recognized sensitizing exercise in which participants are labeled inferior or superior based upon eye color — will speak at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 19, in Carter Hall, sponsored by Student Development and the Activities Programming Board.

Dr. Robert Coles, a Pulizer Prize-winning psychiatrist and author, has labeled Ms. Elliott's exercise "the greatest thing to come out of American education in a hundred years." Ms. Elliott first used the exercise in her Riceville, Iowa, classroom following the death of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and has since repeated it with dramatic results with children and adults throughout the country. The exercise has been the subject of several award-winning television documentaries.

The USI program is open to the public. For information, call Student Development, 465-7167.

Mr. Siblik received an M.F.A. from SIU Carbondale and teaches art at Cairo School District. He also is an instructor at John A. Logan College in Carterville and McKendree College, Lebanon. Through an exploration of the human figure and land-scape, he attempts to reveal in his work the intricate and spiritual link that exists between man and nature.

Ms. Kren is professor of art at Kansas State University. She received an M.F.A. from the University of Iowa and has been the recipient of numerous grants and awards, including National Endowment for the Arts, KSU Distinguished Faculty Member Award, and Kansas State Governor's Art Award. She uses myth as a way of uncovering both personal and universal themes in her figure-based drawings.

For information, call Mr. Blake Cook, Gallery director, 682-3156.

Speech meet winners:

Evansville Reitz High School again won first place in the recent USI High School Speech Meet, with Mater Dei of Evansville and Princeton Community High School taking second and third places in this year's sweepstakes. Nine southern Indiana schools — Evansville Central, Castle at Newburgh, Evansville Harrison, Jasper, Mater Dei, Evansville North, North Posey, Princeton, and Reitz — competed in this 20th event sponsored by the USI Communications Department. The meet now is co-sponsored by the Southwest Indiana Forensics Association.

Summer study in Mexico:

Anyone interested in studying abroad through USI is invited to an information session at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 18, in HP1025 on a program for summer study in Queretaro, Mexico. Career Quest '98

Career Quest '98, a pilot program to help high school seniors decide what career path and academic major to pursue in college, will begin at 8 a.m. on Friday, March 13, in the Orr Center. Fifty local students who have decided to attend college but are uncertain about which academic program to pursue will participate in the program sponsored by the USI Career Counseling Center in conjunction with the Evansville-Vanderburgh School Corporation.

Students will hear from career counselors, take a career interest inventory, and be introduced to computer career guidance programs. The program includes lunch and an opportunity for students to meet current students and USI student life staff. The pilot program is being organized by Mr. Timothy K. Buecher, director of USI Career Counseling, and Mr. James Trader of the E-VSC Student Affairs Office.

Mr. Buecher said, "Students will be able to narrow their career choices and choose an academic program after attending Career Quest '98." Depending on the success of the pilot program, the career development opportunity could be enlarged to include more schools in the future.

Expanding Your Horizons:

The Evansville Branch, American Association of University Women, will hold a career conference for young women in grades six, seven, and eight in area schools, starting at 8 a.m. Saturday in the Health Professions Center. The young students will be encouraged to continue their education, focusing on science and mathematics. The program offers hands-on career presentations by women in the Evansville community who are successful in careers the young girls might not otherwise have considered a career choice. For information, call Dr. Peggy F. Harrel, director of USI Graduate Studies, 465-7016.

Maxims for the Internet Age:
A journey of a thousand sites begins with a single click.
You can't teach a new mouse old clicks.

Retirement planning:

The annual Social Security Retirement Planning Seminar for the USI community will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday, March 25, in UC203-4. Mr. Joe Kendall, Social Security Administration representative, will discuss "How Social Security Works, Your Retirement Benefits, Survivor and Disability Benefits, and Medicare Benefits." For information, call Human Resources, 464-1988.

Calendar listings sought:

Any programs, dates, etc. that people would like included in the 1998-99 Student Handbook/Calendar should be sent (e-mail or campus mail) to Ms. Julie Dunn-Crawford, assistant director of Student Development, by March 27.

Speckner fund

Contributions are still being accepted in the USI Family Fund managed by the USI Foundation to aid the family of Mr. Jeremiah Speckner, a 19-year-old Presidential Scholar from Seymour, Indiana, who was critically injured in a fall from the bed of a pickup truck. Speckner remains in a coma at Deaconess Hospital. Contributions in this instance are not tax deductible, but are very much needed because Jeremiah's accident occurred at a time when family circumstance created a gap in health insurance coverage.
