Openings still are available in several special interest courses offered in the University of Southern Indiana Office of Continuing Education winter/spring program, including:

"Oriental Gourmet," Jaya Dodd's four-week course on the foods of China, Japan, and Korea; the class will meet on Tuesdays, starting February 23, at her restaurant in downtown Evansville.

The Swiss-German "Scherenschnitte -- Traditional Papercutting" technique, a one-night class on Wednesday, February 24, at Evansville Day School, taught by Nancy Michel.

Beginning and intermediate gymnastics classes for youth age 5 to 16; the classes will meet Saturday mornings beginning February 27 at USI.

Call the USI Office of Continuing Education, (812) 464-1863, for information or to register.
