Getting Started in Home Day Care is a University of Southern Indiana course offering basic information for those who would like to enter into such a business.

The class will meet two Mondays, April 8 and 15. Participants will learn the critical factors to consider before going into day care -- zoning variances, licensing requirements, legal responsibilities, dynamics of parent-provider relationships, marketing the business, and recordkeeping for tax purposes.

Call the USI Office of Continuing Education, 812/464-1989, for information or to register.
