NOTED ASTRONOMER TO LECTURE AT USI. An astronomer who is closely associated with the National Aeronautic and Space Administration (NASA) "Large Space Telescope Project" will be a guest lecturer on Thursday, April 13, at USI and at Angel Mounds State Historic Site. Dr. Laurence W. Fredrick will speak on "The Measurement of Cosmic Distances" at 2 p.m. in SC254, discussing the purpose of the soon-to-be-launched telescope that is expected to confirm many of the theories about the size and age of our Universe. A reception will follow in the University Center Dining Room. The program is being presented as a Community of Scholars event of the School of Science and Engineering Technology. The lecture is open to the public, as well as all USI students and faculty and staff members.

Dr. Fredrick will lecture at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Angel Mounds Interpretive Center. His topic will be "Ancient Monuments and the Game of Checkers," a discussion of Stone Age astronomy with a look at Stonehenge and the great stone circles of the British Isles.

Dr. Fredrick is Hamilton Professor of Astronomy at the University of Virginia. He has served as director of the Leander McCormick Observatory and as astronomer at the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Arizona. He also has been general secretary of the American Astronomical Society, vice president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a member of the Board of Governors of the American Institute of Physics, and is a Fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society. He is a consultant to TIME-Life Books, Inc. Dr. Frederick is a member of the NASA Large Space Telescope Committee of the National Academy of Science and serves on the visiting faculty of Princeton, Swarthmore, Stanford, and Colgate universities. He is co-author of four university textbooks in astronomy and a text now in preparation, "Pre-Scientific Astronomy," to be published by Wiley and Sons.

SEXUAL ASSAULT TRAUMA SEMINAR. Coping with the physical and emotional stress that follows sexual assault will be explored in an all-day seminar on Friday, April 14, in the University Center, sponsored by the USI School of Nursing and Health Professions as a Community of Scholars program. Featured speakers will be Dr. Peg Ziegler, administrator and counselor/clinician for the Grady Memorial Hospital Rape Crisis Center in Georgia, and Vanderburgh County Prosecutor Mr. Robert J. Pigman. The program, starting at 8 a.m., is designed to provide criminal justice, health care, and human services professionals, students, and other interested persons with the latest information on the impact of assault on victims and families; effective medical and psychological treatment; successful detection, investigation, and prosecution; and sexual assault prevention. Registration is $10 per person; call the USI School of Nursing, 428-7256, for information or to register.

Dr. Ziegler has supervised the care of more than 10,000 sexual assault victims and is considered a leading psychotherapist in the treatment of rape and incest victims.

She is a certified associate instructor at the Georgia Police Academy and serves as an expert witness on sexual assault in Georgia civil and criminal courts. A member of the National Coalition Against Sexual Assault, Dr. Ziegler has appeared on the Phil Donahue television show and has been quoted in Time and Cosmopolitan magazines on sexual assault issues. Co-sponsor of the seminar is Citizens Against Rape in Evansville (CARE), a group of volunteers trained to assist sexual assault victims and their families. The Mead Johnson Foundation also is supporting the seminar. Among seminar coordinators are Dr. Nadine A. Coudret, dean of the USI School of Nursing and Health Professions, and Dr. Susan L. Donaldson, USI professor of psychology.

REGIONAL TEACHER RECRUITMENT PROGRAM. The third annual Regional Teacher Recruitment Day will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Thursday, April 13, in the University Center. Currently, 22 representatives from 14 school corporations have registered for the program to meet and interview 90 teacher candidates from the five host institutions -- Brescia and Kentucky Wesleyan colleges of Owensboro, Oakland City (Indiana) College, the University of Evansville, and USI. For information, contact Mrs. Marilyn Schmidt, USI Placement director, extension 1865.

MID-AMERICA SINGERS TO PRESENT SPRING PROGRAM. The Mid-America Singers will offer music to satisfy all tastes, from age 2 to 102, when they present their spring program at 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 7, in Forum I. The program will range from bop to rock, swing to country, and include sing-along ballads and gospel music. In addition to entertaining their Tri-State friends, the Singers will be preparing for a trip to Washington, D. C., April 28-29, when they will join 14,000 other young people to compete in "America Sings '89." The event will culminate with a filmed extravaganza at the Lincoln Memorial, courtesy of PBS. The Singers also will present a concert in the nation's Capitol. Proceeds from "America Sings '89" will be donated to charitable projects aiding homeless children. There will be a $3 admission fee for the Singers' spring program, with $2 of the fee to help defray costs of the Washington trip and $1 to be donated to the homeless children fund. The tickets are available in advance in the School of Liberal Arts, extension 1735, or may be purchased at the door.

USI THEATRE TO PRESENT "OEDIPUS THE KING." Sophocles' 5th century tragedy, "Oedipus the King," will be USI Theatre's final spring production, opening Thursday, April 13, at the theatre, 3001 Igleheart Avenue. Dr. James R. Blevins, dean of the School of Liberal Arts, will direct the play, which will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday-Saturday, April 13-15 and 20-22; there will be a matinee performance at 2 p.m. on Sunday, April 16. Tickets are $5 for the general public, $3 for USI students, faculty, and staff. Dr. Blevins said reservations are appropriate since some USI students are being required to attend the play. Call extension 1735 for reservations or information.

Mr. William Hairston, a sophomore who is familiar to USI Theatre audiences, will portray Oedipus. Mr. Brian Sajko, communications instructor who directs many of the USI Theatre productions, also will have a major role as the leader of the chorus. Dr. Blevins said they are using a timeless setting and costumes in an attempt to make it a work for all times and all places. Mr. Randy Smith is in charge of scenery and lighting. The cast also includes Ms. Pam Barnard, sophomore; Mr. J. Christopher Collier, junior; Ms. LaDawn DeMoss, a junior who currently is working on an original script to be produced May 6 at USI; Ms. Beth Dietsch, freshman; Mr. John Epperson, sophomore; Mr. Brian Pease, junior; Mr. Mark J. Pfister, freshman; Ms. Sarah Spelbring, freshman; Ms. Amy M. Stearns, junior, and Mrs. Connie J. Smith.

SEDER SUPPER TO HAVE INTERNATIONAL MENU. An international menu will be featured when the USI Campus Ministry and Adath B'Nai Israel Temple hold the 13th annual Seder Supper, the Jewish Passover celebration of freedom, at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday, April 12, at the University Home. The Seder will be conducted by members of the Adath B'Nai Israel congregation. The traditional music will be explained, along with the symbolism of the traditional meal -- a Seder Plate of charosa, boiled egg, and parsley with salt water and horseradish, and gefilte fish. The remaining menu will include matzo ball soup; chicken with dried fruit and almond stuffing; steamed broccoli with garlic sauce; and pan di spagna (Italian wine cake) with zabaglione sauce. Families of all faiths are encouraged to attend the Seder Supper, a religious service and festive meal intended to be a family experience. Reservations -- adults $7.50, children $5 -- may be made by calling USI Campus Ministry, extension 1810 or 1871, by Monday, April 10. Participants are asked to bring a nonperishable food item for the food pantry as an expression of concern for the poor of the community.

COLUMNIST TO BE ENLOW SCHOLAR. Mr. Richard Cohen will spend two days lecturing and meeting with USI students on April 20-21 in a School of Liberal Arts discussion on "The Future of American Journalism." Mr. Cohen is a writer for The Washington Post whose columns appear in more than 80 newspapers around the country, including The Evansville Courier. As the 1989 Enlow Distinguished Scholar, he will present a public lecture on the program theme at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 20, in Forum I. On Friday, April 21, he will lecture on "The Bush Administration: A One-Term Presidency?" at 10 a.m. and "The Craft of the Writer" at 11 a.m., both in Forum I. Members of the English, History, and Journalism departments at USI and editors of the two Evansville newspapers have been invited to serve on discussion panels. Mr. Cohen also will attend a luncheon and dinner where he will participate in discussions with students and other invited guests. The public is invited to attend the three lectures and a reception in the University Center following Thursday's program.

USI VISITING ARTIST. Mr. David Bower, professor of art at Northern Illinois University, is the featured guest through Thursday, April 6, in the spring Visiting Artist program. Mr. Bower's schedule still includes a workshop from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 6 to 9 p.m. Thursday, April 6, in the Sculpture Studio. The public is invited to attend these events.

CONSULTANT TO BE LABOR-MANAGEMENT FORUM SPEAKER. Mr. Delmar L. "Dutch" Landen, nationally recognized pioneer and leader in employee involvement in business and industry, will be the speaker on Thursday, April 6, at the second of three spring programs sponsored by the Southern Indiana Labor-Management Education Forum. The program will begin at 8 a.m. in the University Center and will focus on the basics of establishing a cooperative labor-management relationship and making sure the effort stays on track. Reservations are $5 per person; call extension 1863.

AUTHOR TO KEYNOTE USI PSYCHOLOGY CONFERENCE. Dr. Elizabeth Loftus, professor of psychology at the University of Washington and author of the award-winning Eyewitness Testimony, whose research has brought her in contact with some of the nation's most infamous criminal cases, will be the keynote speaker at the eighth annual Mid-America Undergraduate Psychology Research Conference, slated Saturday, April 8, in the University Center. She will deliver a public lecture on "Distortions of the Memory" at 11:30 a.m., following morning sessions in which participating psychology students will present their research papers. There will be a reception for Dr. Loftus and the visiting students at 7 p.m. Friday. Ms. Susie Meyer a psychology graduate, and Ms. JoEllen Bush, a student, are coordinating the 1989 conference, which is sponsored by the USI Psi Chi Chapter.

USI STUDENT GROUP TO HOST EDUCATION CONFERENCE. "Motivated Teachers Motivate Students" will be the theme Saturday, April 15, when the USI Student Education Association and Kappa Delta Pi sponsor a Southern Indiana Educators Conference open to Tri-State students, teachers, administrators, and others interested in effective teaching. The program will open with registration at 8 a.m. in the University Center. Advance registration fees are $10 for professionals, $7 for students; registration at the door will be $15 and $12, respectively. Call the USI School of Education, extension 1811, for a brochure and registration form. Conference speakers, discussing topics for which area educators and pre-professionals have expressed an interest, will include:

Ms. Patricia Douglas, education consultant with the Center for School Improvement and Performance, Indiana Department of Education, who will speak at 10:15 a.m. and 12 noon concurrent sessions on "ISTEP: the Future;" Dr. John E. Felton, assistant professor of psychology, University of Evansville, who will speak at the 9 a.m. opening session on "Motivating and Building Self-Esteem in Students;" Ms. Brenda Meyer, associate director of Acute Services, Southwestern Mental Health Center, who will discuss "Stress Management" at 10:15 a.m., 12 noon, and 1:15 p.m. concurrent sessions; Dr. C. Thomas Pickering, dean of the USI School of Education and Human Services, who will speak on "Improving Parent and Teacher Relations" at 10:15 a.m. and 1:15 p.m. concurrent sessions; and Ms. Barbara Stainbrook, director of professional development, Indiana State Teachers Association, who will discuss "The Intern/Mentor Program" at 12 noon and 1:15 p.m. concurrent sessions.

NAMES IN THE NEWS. Mr. Augustine J. Fredrich, chairman of the Engineering Technology Department, was inducted into the Arkansas Academy of Civil Engineering on March 31. The Academy was established by the University of Arkansas in 1980 to recognize its civil engineering graduates who have made sustained and outstanding contributions to the profession. Members meet annually to counsel the dean of engineering on the the Civil Engineering Department's curriculum and research programs. Mr. Fredrich is on sabbatical leave this academic year.

Mr. Matthew R. Graham, assistant professor of English and creative writing, has had new work accepted for publication in the Indiana Review.

"The Convict's Tale," a story by Mr. Peter Leack, special part-time instructor in English, has been chosen for the 1988-89 Nebraska Review Fiction Award of $300 and will be published in the spring/summer 1989 issue.

Dr. Charles L. Price, associate professor of science education, will present a computer demonstration, "Communicating Through Spreadsheet Graphics," at the National Science Teachers Association annual meeting on April 7.

NEW FACES. Two new employees -- Mrs. Martha A. Shearer and Mr. Jerry W. Zubiller -- have joined the University staff as library assistant and stationary engineer.

Mrs. Shearer, a 1964 graduate of Columbus, Indiana, High School and 1968 graduate of Indiana University, previously was a reference librarian in Fairfax, Virginia. She and her husband, Lawrence E., a Social Security administrative law judge, have a son, Jeremy, 14; they live at 1547 Dieffenbach, Evansville.

Mr. Zubiller is a 1961 graduate of Evansville North High School and has been with Local 181 Operating Engineers. He and his wife, Sandra, a home interior salesperson, live at 1430 Waggoner, Evansville; they have two children, Jason, 15, and Jesica, 9.

CONGRATULATIONS TO HONORED EMPLOYEES! Members of the clerical and support staff will be honored at the annual Employee Recognition Banquet at 6:45 p.m. Thursday, April 6, at the University Home. President and Mrs. David L. Rice will host honored employees -- three retirees, four with 15 years of service, five with ten years of service, and three with five years of service -- and their supervisors. (See attachment at the back of University Notes.)
