Evansville native to be distinguished lecturer

The University of Southern Indiana's first annual Distinguished Lecture in Natural Science will be presented Thursday, October 17, by Dr. David B. Wilson, an Evansville native and Bosse High School graduate who now is professor of history, mechanical engineering, and philosophy at Iowa State University.

His topic, "Did the Devil Make Darwin Do It? Rethinking the History of Science and Religion," is based on his early 1980s work leading to a paper, "Did the Devil Make Darwin Do It? Historical Perspectives on the Creation-Evolution Controversy," which was published in the Proceedings of the Iowa Academy of Science in 1982. Iowa State University Press then published his book, Did the Devil Make Darwin Do It? Modern Perspectives on the Creation-Evolution Controversy, which was selected by CHOICE in 1984 as the Outstanding Academic Book of 1983. The book went to a fourth printing this year.

The free public lecture will be held at 7 p.m. in Mitchell Auditorium; a reception will follow. Dr. Wilson's book, which was written for general audiences, will be available for sale and autographing.

The Distinguish Lecture in Natural Science program, made possible by the generous support of private donors, is expected to feature renowned speakers annually to heighten awareness and foster appreciation of the sciences at the University and in the Evansville community and greater Tri-State.

Dr. Wilson received a B.A. in physics from Wabash College and Ph.D. in the history of science from Johns Hopkins University, where he was a teaching assistant. He joined the Iowa State faculty in 1975 after having taught four years at the University of Oklahoma and served as archivist for the Stokes and Kelvin Papers in the Cambridge University Library for four years.

Dr. Wilson is a noted scholar whose expertise is the history and philosophy of science. He has the distinction of holding academic rank in three departments at Iowa State, however. Dr. Wilson is the author of numerous books, chapters, and research articles, is an active member of numerous professional organizations, and has spent time in research and teaching in Scotland. He will be a Visiting Research Fellow this academic year in the Institute for Advanced Studies in the Humanities at the University of Edinburgh. He has done research at the University of Glasgow and was a visiting professor this year in the Department of Physics and Applied Physics at the University of Strathclyde.

"Scots in Harmony" celebration planned

From bagpipes to tossing the caber, "Scots in Harmony" will offer the public a chance to enjoy the region's Scottish heritage when the Historic New Harmony Society presents a family festival from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, October 13, at the Mumford Farm at Griffin, Indiana.

Traditional music, dancing, and entertainment will continue throughout the day in the Pub Tent, featuring Mr. Colin Grant-Adams, balladeer from Oban, Scotland; Mr. Donnie Macdonald, troubadour from the Outer Hebrides of Scotland; the Kyilindy Bagpipe Band; and the Highland Dancers, demonstrating traditional steps like the Highland Fling and the Sword Dance.

Guests can "raise a pint" at the Pub Tent or enjoy such Scottish fare as rumbledethumps, bangers, Scotch eggs, or shortbread. There also will be three seatings during the day of an elegant "proper Scottish tea."

The Saint Andrew's Society will help guests explore their Scottish roots with a genealogy and family clan display. Athletes from around the country will compete in the Highland Games, with events to include the caber toss, sheaf toss, and hammer throw. World-champion border collies will demonstrate their amazing sheep-herding skills throughout the day.

"Scots in Harmony" will be held rain or shine. Admission is $10 per car, which covers parking and all entertainment. Food, beverages, souvenir programs, and tea tickets will be sold separately. Advance reservations may be made at the Historic New Harmony office, 682-4488.

HSI to celebrate 10th anniversary

Historic Southern Indiana (HSI) will celebrate 10 years of achievement in a buffet reception at the Petroleum Club Saturday, October 5. The celebration will open at 6 p.m. with a social hour and close around 8 p.m. with brief remarks by USI President H. Ray Hoops and Dr. Darrel E. Bigham, USI history professor who was HSI co-founder in 1986 and has served as its director since. After the reception, the group is invited to dessert and a tour of the new Evansville Convention and Visitors Bureau headquarters in the Pagoda in Sunset Park, next to the Evansville Museum. Special guests at the reception will be Dr. David L. Rice, former USI president and co-founder of HSI; Mr. William Koch, founder of Santa Claus and Holiday World and HSI stalwart; area officials and University faculty who have helped HSI create new opportunities; the 27-member Board of Directors from throughout the HSI region; and friends of HSI. Mr. Pete Helfrich, director of the convention/visitor bureau, will be host at the post-reception dessert.

Public Commissions of Queen Isabella of Spain, 1480-1503," at the European Studies Conference October 4 in Omaha, Nebraska. She also will chair a session on "Sexual Identity and Gender Roles."

Six security officers have completed a 6 1/2-week emergency response course and are certified in the Indiana Emergency Medical First Responder program sponsored by the Indiana State Emergency Management Agency. They are Corporal Kelly Williams and Officers Larry Rogers, David Barton, Douglas Martin, Joyce Noelle, and Stephen Dunmire. Mr. Barry Hart, director of Safety and Security, said, "This greatly enhances our ability to deal with medical emergencies and improves emergency medical response at USI."

Welcome:

The University community welcomes four employees — Mrs. Julianne Baker, senior clerk in the Registrar's Office; Mr. James C. Flewallen, maintenance mechanic; Ms. Shannon K. Mathis, library clerk; and Mr. Matthew J. Raven, Enrollment Services counselor.

Mrs. Baker previously was a data entry clerk in Enrollment Services. Mr. Flewallen was a jet engine mechanic in the Marine Corps. Ms. Mathis is a 1991 USI political science graduate who has worked as a library page in Tacoma, Washington, a personnel clerk at Rhein Main Air Base in Germany, and a pre-sentence investigator in the Vanderburgh County Probation Department. Mr. Raven received a B.S. in sports fitness and recreation management from Indiana State University and was manager of Discovery Zone in Evansville prior to coming to USI.

Employee moves, promotions:

Five employees changed positions in September, including:

Mr. John C. Busch, maintenance/custodial worker who became a maintenance mechanic II

Ms. Stephanie L. Christmas, library clerk who became a library assistant

Mrs. Theresa L. Pittman, senior clerk in the Registrar's Office who became a senior secretary in the School of Nursing and Health Professions

Mr. David K. Whitmore, maintenance mechanic who became lead maintenance mechanic

Mrs. Cynthia Wilding, library assistant who became manager of development research in the Development Office

Sympathy:

The University community extends its sympathy to Mrs. Janet S. Greer, instructor in education, and her husband Richard in the death September 28 of his father, Mr. Kenneth C. Greer of Evansville.

Visiting Artist

Ms. Ilona Granet, a New York-based artist whose work is both activist and accessible, will be the USI Visiting Artist October 14-18. She will present a slide lecture on her work at 7:30 p.m. Monday, October 14, in Mitchell Auditorium and will work with students in the Art Department daily.

All events are free and open to the public. The visit is co-sponsored by the USI Department of Art and Music, USI Art Club, and the USI Society for the Arts and Humanities. For information, contact Ms. Kathryn M. Waters, associate professor of art, extension 1933.

Ms. Granet received her B.F.A. at the Tyler School of Art in Chicago and has since lived and worked in New York while supporting herself as a sign painter. This employment, as well as the influence of deconstruction and semiotics, is evident in her work, addressing issues of sexual harassment, child and domestic abuse, women's choice, nuclear power, and the environment. Her most recent paintings appropriate the visual style of Wedgewood pottery, depicting humorous narratives concerning issues of class, power, and wealth in contemporary American culture. Her work is represented by P.P.O.W. Gallery in New York, and appears in numerous corporate, private, and museum collections.

Web communications:

The Department of Communications new world wide web page has been added to USI's web page. It includes course and program information about the department's six majors: journalism, public relations, interpersonal-organizational communication, advertising, radio and television, and theatre arts. The web has short bios and photos of department faculty. It also includes routine information on major course requirements, course definitions, the internship program, and many of the facilities the department manages, such as WSWI 820 AM and the USI Theatre.

Within 30 days the web page will include information about adjunct faculty, syllabi of standard courses, internship application forms, and notes of specific classes, such as distance education offerings. It can be accessed through the School of Liberal Arts or directly at this address: <http://www.usi.edu/libarts/comm/comhom.htm>

Fulbright competition:

Campus deadline is October 15 to complete applications for the 1997-98 student competition for USIA Fulbright and related grants. USIA Fulbright grants promote understanding between the U.S. and other countries through exchange of people, knowledge, and skills. Awards are available for graduate study or research in academic fields and for practical training in creative and performing arts. Most grants provide round-trip transportation, tuition, and maintenance for one academic year; a few provide international travel only, or a stipend intended as a partial grant-in-aid. In this 50th anniversary year of the Fulbright exchange, there are some 800 student awards available in ALL fields to more than 100 countries. Applications and assistance with the process are available through Dr. Suzi Wolfe, student Fulbright advisor, SC167, extension 7026.

Kellogg grants:

The W.K.Kellogg Foundation has announced a new Kellogg National Leadership Program (KNLP) for Group XVI, designed to prepare leaders who can function effectively and knowledgeably in dealing with complex problems where narrow expertise is not sufficient. It seeks to involve professional men and women in the early years of their careers (about two to 12 years after education) who are interested in developing interdisciplinary and cross-cultural perspectives on contemporary human and social problems. Up to 40 individuals will be accepted for this three-year program, which requires U.S. citizenship, agreement to participate in all required KNLP activities, and 25 percent release

The measure of success is not whether you have a tough problem to deal with but whether it's the same problem you had last year.
