STEELWORKERS EXHIBIT. At a time when public concern is focusing on America's troubled steel industry, a key moment in its turbulent history is dramatically illuminated in One Voice, an exhibit now on view at the Indiana State University Evansville Library until February 1, 1983. The free exhibit may be viewed daily during normal library hours. The show brings vividly to life the sights and sounds of Baltimore's steel mills and its workers as they struggled to establish a union.

The exhibit draws on the personal accounts of workers and their families and on a wonderful collection of old photographs, posters, clippings and memorabilia unearthed from attics in the Sparrow's Point area. It was prepared by Linda Zeidman and Stanley Markowitz, associate professors of history at Essex Community College in Baltimore County, Maryland, with the active collaboration of local steelworkers and retirees and in consultation with historians, sociologists and anthropologists who are experts on aspects of the American labor movement. Music for the exhibit was composed by folksinger Si Kahn.

The film will be shown Monday through Friday at 8:20 a.m. and 2:15 p.m. each day in Room 305 of the ISUE Library. A condensation of the exhibit material, the 20-minute film includes interviews dealing with this labor movement.

Special arrangements for seeing the exhibit, or for a showing of the film, may be made by calling University Archives at 464-1896.

1983 TAX GUIDE. The 1983 Tax Guide for College Teachers (and other College Personnel) is now available to you through Library Services. Two recent tax bills have made sweeping changes in the laws that affect your 1982 tax return. This includes new rules for home office, books, equipment, home computers, foreign income, automobiles, charitable contributions, child care, withholding, savings plans, and marriage deduction.

This book contains special information hard to find in other tax guides and not always understood by most professional tax preparers. It is available on reserve by asking at the Circulation Desk.
