Evolutionist Gould to speak

Dr. Stephen Jay Gould, who has been called America's best known evolutionist, will visit USI on Thursday and Friday, October 16-17, as a guest in the Distinguished Lecture in the Natural Sciences series. Originally slated to be here in April, he was snowed in in Boston and the visit had to be rescheduled.

Dr. Gould will deliver a public lecture, "Human Insignificance and Geological Immensity: The Proper Measure of Our Ecological Crisis," at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Carter Hall. He also will attend a 7:45 a.m. breakfast Friday with USI science and engineering honor students and participate in a symposium open to all students and faculty at 8:45 a.m. Friday in Carter Hall (D). His visit is supported by a USI Foundation gift from Dr. Frank L. and Mrs. Marilyn Stanonis and is being coordinated by Dr. Jerome R.

Eagle Math expanded

Eagle Math, the USI athletic and education program, has been expanded this year to include second- and third-grade students in parochial and private schools, with groups of schools slated to attend rallies in PAC Arena on October 14 and 22 and November 4 and 10. More than 4,000 students are expected to participate.

Eagle Math is an incentive program to encourage young students to improve their math skills. It is co-sponsored by USI Athletics and Mathematics departments and Citizens Bank in cooperation with Evansville-Vanderburgh School Corporation (E-VSC) and Catholic and other parochial and private schools interested in joining the effort. The first group of 834 students on October 14 will come from Caze, Dexter, Fairlawn, Hebron, and Stockwell schools.

USI student athletes and their coaches — led by basketball Coaches Bruce Pearl and Chancellor Dugan — will introduce the program in the 9 a.m. pep rallies. At the end of the four-week program, an assembly will be held at each participating school.

Eagle Math booklets were designed by local elementary teachers and USI elementary education majors. Sections are labeled first quarter, second quarter, third quarter, and fourth quarter, to carry out a sports theme. Math problems also have athletic themes and an overtime period contains accelerated questions to challenge the more self-motivated student.

At the end of each quarter, students will be rewarded with incentives to indicate they

29 join USI faculty

The fall semester opened with more than 50 new and replacement employees on staff, including 29 new faculty members — five in the School of Business, five in the School of Education and Human Services, 11 in the School of Liberal Arts, six in the School of Nursing and Health Professions, and two in the School of Science and Engineering Technology. Because the list is long, the new faculty are being introduced in weekly installments. Today's University Notes features the School of Liberal Arts, including:

Ms. Julie Brandt, instructor in sociology, received a B.A. in political science and M.A. in sociology and is nearing completion on a doctorate, all at the University of Missouri, Columbia. She has been an adjunct professor at William Woods University in Fulton, Missouri, and a graduate instructor and teaching assistant at UM.

Mrs. J. Hope Carroll, instructor in communications and student publications advisor/manager, received a B.A. in English education from Northeast Louisiana University, M.A. in journalism from Texas A&M, and Ed.S. in administration and supervision at NLU. She was an assistant professor at NLU School of Communications for five years and formerly directed journalism and scholastic publications at West Monroe High School, Louisiana, for 20 years. She became USI publications advisor/manager in 1996 and has been an adjunct instructor at the University since 1995. She also has been a judge for scholastic and collegiate press associations and a director and instructor in have completed a section. Students who complete the program will be given certificates; those completing the overtime sections will earn gold seals. Citizens Bank will give a $5 coupon with which to open a savings account to each child who completes the first quarter of the program, and another $5 savings account coupon to each child who completes the total workbook. Citizens activity books and Eagle Math bookmarks will be among prizes distributed at various completion levels.

As a program sponsor, Citizens Bank President Dave Knapp said, "Giving 100 percent effort and setting and achieving goals are elements that make a good athletic team. These same attributes are evident in a good student. Eagle Math combines a competitive spirit with a popular athletic setting. We think it can generate enthusiasm for good math skills."

For information, contact Dr. Charles J. Bertram, USI Eagle Math founder and coordinator, extension 1814. Elementary school contacts are Ms. Marilynn J. Baresic, E-VSC math supervisor, 435-8427, or Dr. Phyllis Beshears, director of Catholic schools, 424-5536.

Employee Health Fair

The 1997 USI Employee Health Fair will be held from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday, October 14, in Carter Hall. Full- and part-time employees are invited to stop by for health screenings offered throughout the day: cholesterol, body composition, vision, blood glucose level, pulse oximetry, blood pressure, height and weight, pulmonary function, health and cancer evaluations. Several area agencies and businesses will participate, providing health-related information. There will be door prizes, gift bags, and refreshments. For hints on participating, see the Human Resources flyers. For other information or to register, call Human Resources, extension 1815.

Breast cancer seminar:

The USI Fitness Center is sponsoring a lunch hour Breast Cancer Awareness Seminar, to begin at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday, October 15, in L100. Ms. Arlene Jackson, clinical coordinator for the Welborn Baptist Hospital oncology unit, will discuss risk factors, early detection methods, self-exam instructions. Bring your lunch.

publications workshops on local, regional, and national levels.

Mr. Kerry Michael Cripe, instructor in theatre and technical director, received a B.F.A. from the University of Evansville and M.F.A. from Florida State University. He has held a variety of theatre positions at both universities, plus summer stints with the Utah Shakespearean Festival, The New Harmony Theatre, and Indiana State University.

Ms. Julia A. Galbus, instructor in English, received a B.A. in philosophy from Saint Mary's University of Minnesota in Winona, M.A. in philosophy and M.A. in English from Marquette University, and is working on a Ph.D. in English at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale. She has taught at Marquette, Austin Community College in Texas, the University of Evansville, and SIU.

Dr. Michael Given, instructor in English, received a B.S. in cinema and M.A. and Ph.D. in English literature from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale.

Mr. Mark A. Jackson, instructor in psychology, received a B.A. from the University of Memphis and M.A. from the University of Kentucky, where he was a primary instructor and teaching assistant.

Ms. Jill Kinkade, instructor in English, received a B.A. from Hunter College, New York City, and M.A. from the University of Louisville, where she was a graduate teaching assistant the last two years.

Dr. Carol Walker MacKay, chair of the Foreign Language Department and associate professor of French, received a B.A. in French from Georgetown College, M.A. in French from the University of Kentucky, M.A. in English from Pittsburg State University in Kansas, and Ph.D. in French from UK. She has taught at the University of Dayton, University of Richmond, and Pittsburg State, where she was associate professor of French since 1990 and acting chair of the Foreign Language Department the past year.

Mr. David E. Meyers, assistant professor of graphic design, studied at the Art Academy of Cincinnati and received a certificate in illustration from Ringling School of Art and Design and M.F.A. in illustration from Syracuse University. He was art director and illustrator with Michelin Tire U.S.A. in Greenville, South Carolina, for four years and with 10 Adams Communications, Evansville, for two years. He also was chair of the Graphic Design Department at Ivy Tech State College for four years, and since 1994, was creative director with Gray Loon Outdoor Marketing Group, Evansville. He has won more than 125 awards in fine art and advertising.

Mr. Herbert Keith Wicker, instructor in English, received a B.A. from the University of Kentucky and M.A. from Murray State University. He has been an adjunct faculty member at Paducah Community College, Owensboro Community College, and USI, and has been an assistant professor at Henderson Community College since 1992. He is a freelance writer for the Owensboro Messenger Inquirer. His articles have been published in USI's Southern Indiana Review and Open 24 Hours, Brescia's literary magazine.

Mr. Robert L. York, instructor in English, received a B.S. in English education and M.A. in English from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale. He has taught at North Middle School in Mt. Carmel, Illinois, the past six years.

Dr. Stephen E. Israel, who recently received a Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, has a fall semester assignment as assistant professor of German.

Promotions:

Mrs. Margaret Shan Jensen is now a tenure-track assistant professor of theatre. Dr. Kevin J. Corbett has received his Ph.D. from Bowling Green State University and is now assistant professor of communications.

AIDS Awareness Program

An AIDS awareness program will be presented at 7 p.m. Tuesday, October 15, in Carter Hall. Open to USI students and the public, the program introduces two fraternity men, Mr. T. J. Sullivan, 29, and Mr. Joel Goldman, 34, who discovered he was infected with HIV, the virus which causes AIDS.

They bring a personal message of how the virus changes one's life and how to reduce the risk of HIV infection. The presentation, "Friendship in the Age of AIDS," centers on Mr. Goldman's experience as a fraternity member and the risks he took mixing unprotected sex and alcohol. Mr. Sullivan teaches students about alcohol's effect on decision-making, the workings of the HIV virus, and ways students can reduce risk and prevent infection.

Mr. Goldman and Mr. Sullivan are touring U.S. colleges and have spoken to more than 350,000 students. The program often resembles a comedy concert, using blunt language and adult themes.

"This is our generation's Vietnam," Sullivan said. "We are going to be losing friends if we don't get busy and start protesting. We have to make sure our campuses and our friends are dealing realistically with this issue."

one of the few distinguished intellectuals whose lectures draw pop-star-size audiences. His challenging presentations cover a broad range of controversial subject matter, from the scientific arguments for racial equality to theories on the nature of excellence, to mankind's amazing — but not miraculous — origins, to Darwin's revolutionary breakthrough in thought.

Gould is especially interested in mathematical problems of growth and form applied to the evolution of lineages. He has taught at Harvard University since 1967 and is now professor of geology, professor of zoology, and curator of invertebrate paleontology in the Museum of Comparative Zoology.

He has been president of the Paleontological Society and the Society for the Study of Evolution. He was in the first group awarded the prestigious MacArthur Foundation Prize

Comedy opens season for USI Theatre

USI Theatre's fall season will open Thursday, October 16, with Alan Ayckbourn's Bedroom Farce, presented as the "love" panel in the season's theme, "Patchwork of Life." Mr. Scott LaFeber, theatre director, said the season will "offer the audience a pastiche of styles, language, and points of view about our lives...."

Ms. Mary Jane Schenk, administrative assistant in the Office of the President, and Dr. Douglas K. Hubbell, associate professor of communications and USI Theatre veteran, will lead the eight-member, primarily student cast. Mr. Elliot Wasserman, assistant professor of communications, is directing Mr. Ayckbourn's hilarious treatment of a marriage headed for the rocks amid the blithe inconsideration of people who are suffering.

The curtain will rise at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday, October 16-26, at the theatre, 3001 Igleheart Avenue. Tickets are $5 for all USI faculty, staff, and students; general admission tickets are $7 while senior citizens (60-plus) also will pay $5. Call extension 1668 for information or reservations.

The program, sponsored by the Office of Student Development, is recommended for mature audiences.

Names in the news:

Two USI faculty recently were named to Performance Assessment Development Project teams by the Indiana Professional Standards Board. Dr. Joyce A. Hamon, assistant professor of teacher education, and Dr. Kathy V. Rodgers, assistant professor of mathematics, are serving in the areas of language arts and mathematics, respectively. Within the next year, team members will attend training seminars in Indianapolis and meet with area teachers to disseminate information about evolving performance assessment, standards-based teacher training, and licensure.

On September 18, Dr. Charles F. Petranek, chair of the Sociology Department, presented a diversity workshop on BARNGA, a social simulation dealing with different cultures, to the Human Relations Department at Nike in Portland, Oregon. He also spoke on "Utilizing Simulations in Diversity Training" at an afternoon meeting of the American Society of Training and Developers in Portland and conducted a half-day workshop on simulations for trainers.

Welcome:

The University community welcomes five new employees — Mr. Lawrence K. Albin, HVAC operator; Ms. Yumiko Baba, teacher in the Saturday Japanese School; Mrs. Claudia G. Hawley, senior secretary in Student Life; Mr. Jon Reidford, Library/Media Services support technician; and Mrs. Jalane Weber, secretary in the Social Work Department.

Mr. Albin attend ITT Technical and formerly was a vending machine technician at ARA Mark. Ms. Baba graduated from Aoyama Gakuin Women's Junior College and has been an exchange teacher at Harrison High School, Evansville. Thanks to all who have been supplying us with Internet addresses to interesting places you've visited. Your guidance is appreciated. As you will see in the variety of today's entries, there is a little something for everyone on the Web.

Rose Scruggs, library assistant, Learning Resources Center, directed us to a Web page that should prove highly useful. The Scout Report (<http://www.wiscout.cs.wisc.edu/scout/report>), published every Friday on the Web and by e-mail, offers a convenient way to be alerted to Web resources you might not find when surfing. You can request the HTML version of the report via e-mail, for posting in your area, or access a report using Netscape. A new feature of the Internet Scout Project is the free electronic publication designed for the higher education community. Information in science and engineering, business and economics, and social sciences is accumulated by a team of academics in each field, professional librarians, and content specialists who select, research, and annotate each resource. All three reports will be available via an e-mail distribution list and on the Internet Scout Web site. The Internet Scout Project is funded by a grant from the National Science Foundation and is located in the Department of Computer Sciences at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Vincent van Gogh - A Handshake in Thought (<http://van-gogh.org>) presents an intriguing look at the artist, his life, and his work. Excerpts from the memoirs of his sister-in-law offer an insider's glimpse into the life of the van Gogh family, particularly the relationship between Vincent and his brother Theo. Read letters written by Vincent to his brother and to other artists of the time. Tour the gallery where the blending of the artist's own words with his artistic creations gives the reader a new appreciation for his struggles and accomplishments. This site is not overloaded with links and clutter, and its simplicity lends itself to the appreciation of the content.

SGA Town Hall on parking:

The University community is invited to join the Student Government Association for a Town Hall meeting at 6 p.m. Tuesday, October 14, in Mitchell Auditorium. The discussion of parking on campus will feature an administrative panel of Mr. Barry J. Hart, director of Safety and Security; Mr. Barry K. Schonberger, dean of students; Mr. Richard W. Schmidt, vice president for Business Affairs; and Mr. Michael A. Mohr, staff architect. The goal is to inform Discover Online (<http://www.discovery.com>) is the Web version of the Discover Channel and is packed full of learning opportunities. On visits to this site, I've gone swimming with sharks, learned why the large North American brown bear is called "grizzly," visited an alien pileup in New Mexico, become as familiar as I care to with pythons, met astronauts, and traveled with an Amish family relocating from Pennsylvania to Indiana. Each of these links was totally absorbing and informative. Discover On Line offers viewing times for their television productions, including the popular Kids Channel. Areas of discovery include live events, travel, history, technology, nature, exploration, and science. This site would be a great place for children to visit as well as adults. students of current policy and hear ideas or suggestions on solutions to problems. For information, call Mr. Clay Bigham, SGA Town Hall Committee chair, extension 1109.

World trade speaker:

Mr. Bill Herber, a consultant on international exports, will speak at a Tri-State World Trade Council luncheon on Thursday, October 16, in the University Conference Center (UC201). He formerly was director of the Foreign Trade Zone at Indianapolis International Airport. The program will begin at 11:30 a.m. Lunch will be $8 on reservations made by October 14, or $9, paid at the door. For reservations, call 812/464-1864; fax 465-7061; or e-mail: extserv.ucs@smtp.usi.edu

Psychology conference:

The 14th annual Mid-America Conference for Teachers of Psychology (MACTOP) will be held Friday and Saturday, October 10-11, at the University of Southern Indiana. A highlight this year will be the first annual Joseph J. Palladino Address, a keynote speech to be presented at the opening session at 9 a.m. Friday by Dr. Palladino, USI psychology professor who stepped down last year as organizer of the conference he founded in 1984. His topic will be "The Humor of Teaching, the Teaching of Humor." For information, contact Dr. Charles J. Meliska, chair of the USI Psychology Department and new conference organizer, extension 7052.

Cellular phone service:

The University has completed negotiations with GTE Wireless to offer a cellular phone service program to full- and part-time employees at special rates. Eligible employees may purchase the service at the government rate of $12.95 a month, with a 16-cent-a-minute off-peak and 20-cent peak usage charge. A free cellular phone is included in the package. A one-year service contract is required; service is limited to one per employee and GTE has the right to approve or deny an application. A GTE representative will conduct information sessions from 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesday, October 14, in the University Center, second floor, and from 9 a.m. to noon Friday, October 17, in the front hallway of the Wright Administration Building. For information, attend one of the sessions or contact Mrs. Nancy Byrd, Human Resources director, extension 1770.

IRB to meet:

There will be a meeting of the Institutional Review Board for the Protection of Human Subjects of Research (IRB) at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, October 16, in A100. Anyone who has students doing research involving human subjects is encouraged to attend or contact Dr. Peggy F. Harrel, director of Graduate Studies and Sponsored Research, extension 7016.

Report volunteer service hours:

The reporting of monthly volunteer hours is important in providing recognition for the service of USI volunteers. A volunteer is anyone who has provided a service to the University and has not received financial reimbursement, such as board or committee members, speakers, tutors, office assistants, and special event and program assistants.

Each department/office is responsible for tracking volunteer hours. Volunteer time sheets will be provided by the Volunteer Services office. To ensure recognition at the annual volunteer luncheon, please report hours contributed between July 1 and June 30 to Volunteer Services, extension 1215. Records so far show that since July 1, 1997,

FYI —

USI employees invited:

Casino Aztar is extending an invitation to all USI employees, age 21 and over, to visit on USI Corporate Appreciation Day on Friday, October 24. Those showing a USI identification card or pay stub will be admitted free (one guest also is free) on all gaming sessions that day. They suggest that those attending bring a driver's license or some photo ID, both for age verification and because photo ID is required to collect a jackpot. For further information, call 1/800/Dial Fun.

Employee training sessions:

The University again is offering full-time employees a variety of scheduled workshops on the 1997 Employee Training and Development Calendar, divided into four categories: general information, supervisory development, office support, and employee assistance. In addition, the Computer Center will continue to provide computer training. This week's workshop will be: Make Your Point on the Net!, 1-2 p.m. Monday, October 13, OC2024 a total of 64 volunteers have contributed 1,204.2 hours to USI.

Halloween costume sale

The public once again can visit the USI Theatre costume shop for Halloween costumes, props, masks, and other paraphernalia. The sale will be held from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, October 19, at the costume shop at 96 N. Barker Avenue, with most of the selection dating to the '60s and '70s.

"Nowhere else in Evansville can you find good quality, unique items that are as reasonably priced," says Shan Jensen, USI assistant professor and costume designer. "And it's great fun to have a one-of-a-kind costume."

Proceeds from the sale will benefit USI Theatre. Prices will range from 10 cents to $50. Cash and checks only will be accepted. For information, call extension 1668.
