VOLUME V, ISSUE II INDIANA STATE UNIVERSITY EVANSVILLE

Community Service Courses Expand to Sixteen

"Sixteen courses will be offered in the fall non-credit community service series at Indiana State University Evansville," according to Edward Jones, Director of Continuing Education at ISUE. "We are offering courses for personal enrichment, skills development, and special training to meet the needs of a variety of individuals."

Six of the courses are being offered for the first time this fall: Planning Personal Investments; Career Awareness for Women; Assertiveness Training for Men and Women; Books and Storytelling for Young Children; Advanced B&W Photography; and Amateur Radio Licensing.

ISUE business professor George Abshier will conduct the course on planning personal investments. Designed to teach the elements of investing, the course will cover such items as types of investments; qualities, risks, and returns; stocks, bonds, and market operation; cash, and future markets; and understanding economic indicators. It will be offered for six Wednesdays beginning October 6.

Students of Career Awareness for Women will concentrate on self-awareness, educational alternatives and career options. The course will attempt to enable women to increase the effectiveness of their educational and career decisions. ISUE Counseling Director Tim Buecher and Admissions Counselor Laura Rohrbacher will conduct the course. The program is co-sponsored by the YWCA Adult Program Committee and is being offered at Christ Lutheran Church for eight weeks beginning October 14.

Self-assertive behavior will be the topic of Assertiveness Training for Men and Women. Popularized by two psychologists, Dr. Alberti and Dr. Emmons, in the book Your Perfect Right, Self-assertive behavior means being able to communicate your needs and feelings self-confidently, honestly, and directly without being aggressive or in violation of the rights of others.

This course will give participants an opportunity to assess their present assertive skills, to learn new techniques and behaviors, and to apply these tools in group interaction situations. Psychology instructor Janet Wyatt and Russ Seiler, counselor with the Evansville-Vandergurgh School Corporation, will teach the five-week course beginning October 5, 1976.

Parents, grandparents, nursery school and day care center employees can benefit from Books and Storytelling for Young Children. The course will be taught by Mary Alice Bertram and will be offered for six Thursdays beginning October 7. The course will concentrate on children's books that have received national acclaim as good literature. She will also cover techniques of storytelling and story reading, and how illustrations are used in children's literature.

The advanced course in black and white photography, a sequel to the basic black and white photography offered in previous non-credit courses, will provide an opportunity for further investigation into available-light photography, darkroom techniques, and photo composition. Participants must have knowledge of basic shooting and darkroom techniques. Enrollment will be limited to 15. The class will be offered five Tuesdays and five Thursdays beginning September 28 at ISUE.

Members of the Tri-State Amateur Radio Club will conduct a course in Amateur Radio License Preparation, covering basic electronic regulations. Citizens Band users enrolled in the course will have the opportunity to advance from limited range CB sets to worldwide communication via ham radio. No prior experience with radio is necessary. Practical experience will be gained through use of the ISUE Amateur Radio Station. The FCC novice examination will be available during the course to interested persons. The course will run 10 weeks beginning September 27.

Popular courses being repeated this fall include Career and Life Planning, September 7; Ceramics Workshop, September 27; Officiating Men's and Women's Basketball, September 28; Gymnastics for Children, September 29; Understanding the Metric System, October 5; Efficient Studying Techniques, Section I, September 1, and Section II, October 19; Family Financial Planning, October 11; All About Antiques and Collectibles, September 30; Painting, October 4; and Transactional Analysis, October 6.

The non-credit courses will be held on campus with the exception of Career Awareness for Women, which will be held at Christ Lutheran Church. Course fees vary depending upon the course. Registration materials and the schedules of the non-credit classes are available in the Office of Continuing Education in the UC at ISUE.

Interviewing and Resume Preparation to be Discussed

Interview Clinic is being sponsored by the ISUE Personnel Club on Wednesday, September 22, from 8:30 a.m. to noon on the University Center Bridge.

The Clinic will be held in conjunction with the Office of Career Placement, is open to everyone, and will feature a video tape on interviewing, as well as speakers from the Evansville Personnel Association. The topics to be discussed are interviewing and resume preparation.

The Evansville Personnel Association, a local chapter of the American Society for Personnel Administration, sponsored the ISUE Personnel Club as a student chapter. The membership of the Evansville Personnel Association is made of Personnel and Industrial Relations people from local area industries and businesses. The Stet Personnel Club was formed last spring by a group of students interested in the fields of Personnel and Industrial Relations. Membership in the club is open to any student regardless of major. Students interested in the club should contact Dr. Barbara Marling of the Division of Business.

Media to Present Courses

ISUE in corporation with The Evansville Courier and WJIN-Channel 9, will offer two-credit courses by newspaper and television in the fall semester. The Course by Newspaper series provides readers with the opportunity to earn college credit by studying articles printed in the Evansville Courier and Channel 9 will be airing the popular series, "The Adams Chronicles."

"Oceans' Our Continuing Frontier" is an examination of the whole range of human involvement with the sea--its impact on art, literature, and the knowledge of the earth's history--and its importance to mankind as a place for work and play, a source of valuable resources and a mainstay of national strength. Topics include Art and Literature of the Sea; Science and Myth; Marine Resources; Policy and Sea Powers; and Men and Women at Sea.

A series of sixteen articles will be published in the Evansville Courier beginning Monday, September 20 and will run each Monday thereafter through January 3, 1977. Three required class meetings with the instructor will be held in the ISUE Library Building, Room 107. The

Free Lockers Installed

Coin-operated, coin-return lockers are now available in the library. A quarter is needed for operation but is returned after the key is replaced. The lockers are located on the lower level of the library at the foot of the stairway on the bottom floor of the library.

The purpose of these lockers is to save patrons the trouble of involved checking through the library security system. They are to be used for short-term storage of briefcases, books, and other items not needed by the patron while in the library. The lockers will be checked periodically, and perishable articles left overtime will be discarded. Non-perishable items left too long will be considered lost-and-found and will be sent to the Physical Plant.

SUB Surfaces with Enter- tainment

Latest craze on the West Coast, Latin Disco will hit this campus on September 10. The University Center will be transformed into a night club (free of cover charge) where students can dance to Latin numbers.

Billiards champion, Nick Varner, Jr. victor of two ACU-I collegiate championships and one Midwest open, will give an exhibition at 10 and 12 a.m. in the Rec. Room, September 15. The exhibition will include trick shots, continuous pool and an information clinic.

Movie lovers will be able to see the Student Union Board films free this year. The first film "Take the Money and Run," with Woody Allen, will be shown at 2, 7 and 9 on September 15 in A126.

On September 20 the campus will be graced with the presence of "Buffo the Clown".

These events are sponsored by the Student Union Board.

first organizational meeting will be Thursday, September 16 at 7 p.m.

ISUE Assistant Professor of Geology and Geography Jack Barnes will coordinate the course. Persons can register no later than September 16, 1976 by calling the Office of Continuing Education.

"The Adams Chronicles" will consist of thirteen one-hour telecasts aired on WJIN-Channel 9. Between the years 1750 and 1900, the Adams Family gave the United States its second and sixth presidents, a vice-president, a delegate to the two Continental Congresses, a secretary of state, several ambassadors, and a host of other important figures. This series presents an in-depth look at the social and political history of the United States.

Three class meetings are also required for this class. The organizational meeting will be held on September 14 at 7 p.m. in the ISUE Library Building, Room 107. ISUE Associate Professor of Political Science, William Kirsch, will conduct the class.

Persons can register by calling the Office of Continuing Education no later than September 14, 1976.

COMMENTARY

The Human Element

Many people have complained about the great amount of time required to register. Such a complaint is understandable in these days when "Time is Money", but I feel that there is a definite justification for the time involved.

First, there should (I would like to say must) be something in our every day living which cause us to exercise that rapidly disappearing human virtue known as patience. We have developed into the "Now Generation" because we have allowed ourselves to be persuaded that we should have the things we want and do what we want, now, not later.

The teachers of this philosophy cannot really be faulted since they too are a part of society. Merchants urge us to buy now because they will get paid now -- or if paid later they can levy finance charges. Banks like the people who buy now because, when people find that they can't pay for the things they bought, they borrow the money to do so. After all, if everyone saved their money, the merchants would have to wait to sell their merchandise, wait to be paid for it, and the bank would have fewer people asking for loans, thus lowering the possibility interest rates for loans and savings. Money is the name of the game, and time is money, but patience has greater rewards.

The second justification is that the process of waiting can be, and is, used as a time to think. People are so beset today by the weight of the everyday problems of the world, which they in part have created, that they do not have time to think ahead. Instead they must concentrate on managing to exist, one day at a time. One of the prime purposes of college is to prepare the individual for a better place in life. The courses he signs up for will play a major role in determining whether or not he will indeed be prepared. The time required for registration should give a person a chance to think about the future, should place him in a situation surrounded by people who have some idea about the possibilities in that future.

The television commercial states that a persons health is of prime importance to his existence, but it is really a persons mind which is primary. "I think, therefore I am". If a person does not think, he does not exist. It is impossible to be a functional human without thinking at least some, but it can also be said that the better one is able to think, the better one is able to live. Education is designed to make a person think, and it is possible to view long waiting lines as one facet of that education.

Finally, and perhaps most importantly, our registration maintains a human element. While it is certainly possible to program a computer to do those things which now exist as paperwork, to do them faster, and, in some cases, more efficiently, it is now possible to program a computer to make a sincere apology for an error (if it would be capable of erring), to give directions for something unrelated, or to give sympathy in case of problems. Only thinking, breathing, human beings behind a table at the end of a long line can do that.

This world is run by people, not machines. People work together, machines can only work individually. Perhaps that is a deep philosophical idea you can deal with the next time you are at the end of a one-hundred person line.

Registrar Requests Printing of Student Rights

As a student on the Indiana State University Evansville campus, what rights do I have regarding my University records?

You have the right to inspect and review all your records which meet the Act's definition of "education records."

What is the definition of "education records"?

Education records are all the records maintained by the University about you. There are six exceptions:

- personal notes of Indiana State University Evansville staff and faculty.
- employment records
- medical and counseling records used solely for treatment
- financial records of your parents
- confidential letters and statements of recommendation placed in your records prior to January 1, 1975.
- confidential letters and statements of recommendation for admission, employment or honorary recognition placed in your records after January 1, 1975, for which you have waived the right to inspect and review.

Is there any situation in which the University may insist that I waive my rights?

Under no condition may you be required to waive your rights under this Act before receiving University services or benefits.

Where are my records kept?

Records are not maintained in a central location on the campus. Requests to review your records must be made to each office which maintains your records. Your request must be made in writing and presented to the appropriate office. That office will have up to 45 days to honor your request. For most students, these offices will include the Registrar, your major division office, and any other campus offices with which you have been in contact, such as Student Financial Aids, etc.

What if I do not agree with what is in my records?

You may challenge any information contained in your "education records" which you believe to be inaccurate, misleading, or inappropriate. This does not extend to reviewing grades unless the grade assigned by your professor was inaccurately recorded in your records. You may also insert a statement in your record to explain any such material from your point of view. If you wish to challenge information in your file, you must make a written request for a hearing to the director or division chairman of the appropriate office. In most cases, the decision of the director or division chairman will be final. However, you may elect to file an appeal in writing to the President who will review the decision only if a significant question to policy or compliance with the law appears to be raised by the case. If necessary, the President may appoint a hearing panel to review a challenge of the records.

May I determine which third parties can view my education records?

Under the Act, your prior written consent must be obtained before information may be disclosed to third parties unless they are exempted from this provision. These exemptions include:

- requests from Indiana State University Evansville faculty and staff with a legitimate educational "need to know"
- requests in accordance with a lawful subpoena or court order
- requests from representatives of agencies or organizations from which you have received financial aid
- requests from officials of the educational institutions in which you intend to enroll
- requests from other persons specifically exempted from the prior consent requirement by the Act (certain federal and state officials, organizations conducting studies on behalf of the University, accrediting organizations)
- parents of a dependent student as defined by the Internal Revenue Code

- request for directory information (please refer to the next question for an explanation)

7.

What is meant by the term "directory information"?

The University, in accordance with the Act, has designated the following categories of information about you as public unless you choose to exercise your right to have this information withheld. This information will be routinely released to any inquirer unless you request that the items be withheld.

These categories are:

- name
- address, campus and home
- telephone listing
- date and place of birth
- major field of study - includes teacher certification majors and minors
- participation in officially recognized activities and sports
- weight and height of members of athletic teams
- dates of attendance (including current classification and year, matriculation and withdrawal dates)
- degrees and awards received (type of degree and date granted) including honor roll designation
- the most recent previous educational institution attended
- enrollment status

What kinds of inquiries does the University receive for "directory information"?

The University receives many inquiries for "directory information" from a variety of sources including friends, parents, relatives, prospective employers, graduate school, honor societies, licensing agencies, government agencies, and news media. Please consider very carefully the consequences of any decision by you to remove these items from the list of "directory information." Should you decide to inform the University not to release this "directory information," any future requests for such information from non-University persons or organizations will be refused. For example, the University could not release your telephone number, or address to a family member wishing to notify you of a serious illness or crisis in the family. A prospective employer requesting confirmation of your major field of study, address or date of birth would also be denied access to such items should you withdraw them from the list of "directory information." The University will honor your request to withhold the items listed above but cannot assume responsibility to contact you for subsequent permission to release them. Regardless of the effect upon you, the University assumes no liability for honoring your instructions that such information be withheld.

If you wish to file a form withdrawing information in the "directory" classification, you should complete the form developed for this purpose which will be available for your use in the Registrar's Office at registration time. After you have filed this form, the Registrar will notify the appropriate University offices and begin to comply with your wishes as soon as possible.

Where can I find out more information about the provisions of the Act?

If you have questions regarding the provisions of the Act, you may contact the Registrar, Room 118, Administration Building, Extension 261.

10.

Whom should I contact if I wish to make a complaint?

If you believe that the University is not complying with the Act, please direct your comments to the Committee on Access to Student Records, Room 118, Administration Building.

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, as amended, requires that you be advised of your rights concerning your education records and of certain categories of public information which the University has designated "directory information."

Traffic Pattern Should Be Obeyed

President Rice has asked us to remind the students that traffic turning left into the University should remain in the left lane of the entrance drive, and traffic turning right into the University should remain in the right lane of the entrance drive. The entrance was recently widened and improved to facilitate the flow of traffic, but if the new traffic pattern is not followed, those improvements will have little effectiveness.

Women's Sports to Move Under New Leader

Varsity athletic programs are growing and women's coach Ruth Schwenk is well qualified to attest to that fact.

Schwenk heads into her first year at ISUE with quite a heavy schedule. Whereas each of the men's teams boasts a different coach, Schwenk will be charged with overseeing all the women's programs. To top such a tough assignment, two of the sports are brand new, and Schwenk will have to develop them "from the ground up". However, because of her previous participation and responsibilities in a wide variety of athletics, the new coach should be well prepared for her tasks.

Schwenk played women's softball, basketball and volleyball at the University of Evansville. She was a cheerleader her freshman year and later served as vice-president of the Pom-Pom Squad. She was a member of Alpha Omicron P; Sorority and participated in intramurals.

Since her graduation from U of E with a degree in Physical Education, coach Schwenk has taught at Holy Spirit Grade School, instructed cheerleading, judged gymnastics, and played in the Public Recreation Commission's Softball League on the Southern Vendors team.

Looking at the women's programs, which include fall tennis, basketball and softball, Schwenk reports that a favorable response has been shown for the tennis team. (An organizational meeting for tennis and basketball was held a few days prior to the issue date of the SHIELD but reports on turnout were not available).

The proposed basketball schedule puts the Eagles in an 18-game campaign. Coach Schwenk and Athletic trainer Gary Zigenfus plan a conditioning program that will commence very soon and will be held three times a week for basketball prospects.

Following closely on the heels of the basketball finale, softball will make its debut. The present schedule proposes 22 games. It is not yet known whether the game will be slow or fast pitch. If slow pitch is decided upon, the Eagles would field ten players-fast pitch would line up nine positions.

Commenting on the outlook of women's athletics, coach Schwenk states, "it will probably be ten years before women's programs reach the organizational depth of men's. Grade and high schools are just beginning to implement programs for girls that stress the necessary skills and terminology. Further adjustment to these more advanced programs will have to be made by coaches who were not geared to such progressing competition. All in all, due to these factors and possibly public acceptance, it will most likely take ten years before women's varsity programs can stand in comparison to men's."

Look out, 1986!
