CHICAGO TRIP TO VIEW PERU'S GOLDEN TREASURES, Tri-state residents will be able to view Peru's Golden Treasures April 21-23 when the ISUE Office of Continuing Education sponsors a bus trip to the Chicago Field Museum.

Just seven months after the departure of Tutankhamun, Peru's Golden Treasures, a rare collection of pre-Columbian gold, will be exhibited for the first time in the United States. Coming to Chicago from its New York debut, the exhibit consists of 225 exquisite gold artifacts used primarily by the ruling classes of ancient Peru. In addition to impressive gold mummy masks and gloves, the collection also includes such unusual items as shawl pins, ear spools, beakers, tweezers, necklaces, children's boots, and tiny figures sculpted in the round. Each piece is a sophisticated example of the superior goldworking techniques of the time.

Spanning a period of 2000 years, the rare items in the display reveal the art works of five cultures--Viscus, Nazca, Moche, Chimu, Inca--from 200 B.C. - 1532 A.D. These artifacts survived many years of systematic grave looting as well as the Spanish conquest of Peru in 1532.

The $70.00 per person fee includes bus fare, box lunch on bus, two nights lodging at the historic Palmer House, admittance to Peru's Golden Treasures, and transportation to the Oriental Institute or Museum of Science and Industry.

The tour is sponsored by the Office of Continuing Education. Additional information may be obtained by calling extension 1863.
