Special show at New Harmony Gallery

Limited edition contemporary prints by area artists will be sold for $10 each at the "Print 2000" exhibition and sale at the New Harmony Gallery of Contemporary Art from Saturday, October 7, through Saturday, November 11. A preview party will be held at the gallery from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday, October 6. The preview party is open to the public and will feature live jazz by the Eric Cure Trio. A closing reception will be held from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday, November 11, and also will feature live music and refreshments.

Over 45 artists, including most of USI's Art Department faculty, will participate in this special exhibition and sale using a variety of printmaking techniques including lithography, etching, collograph, and silkscreen. Each artist is making a limited edition of 25 prints for the show. One print from each edition will be framed and exhibited in the gallery's main exhibition space and the unframed prints will be available on a first-come, first-served basis.

As extra incentive, the first three people who buy one print from each of the exhibiting artists will receive a prize including a winter get-away package from Red Geranium Enterprises, season passes to The New Harmony Theatre, or a weekend stay at Good Rest Bed and Breakfast.

USI Theatre likes "Peanuts"

You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown, USI Theatre's first production of the 2000-2001 academic year, will open on Wednesday, October 18, at 7 p.m. and continue for two weeks.

Featuring book, music, and lyrics by Clark Gesner, You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown, is based on the long-running comic strip, "Peanuts," by Charles M. Schulz.

Mr. Elliot Wasserman, associate professor of theatre and director of You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown said, "Author/composer Clark Gesner has perfectly captured all of Charles Schulz's remarkable characters in this family musical. From Snoopy's ongoing battle with the Red Baron to Charlie Brown's hapless attempts to fly a kite or win a baseball game, the best-loved moments from the Peanuts strips unfold in song and comic skits. Anyone who has ever loved a 'Peanuts' character will enjoy this show."

Spencer County native and USI student Barry Green will play

the role of Charlie Brown in the USI production. Joining him in the cast will be Jessica Corbett as Lucy, Joe Ciresi as Linus, Adam Gomez as Schroeder, Amy Egnew as Patty, and Melinda McDowell as Snoopy. Stephen Cramer is the production stage manager. Sue Schriber will provide musical direction for musical numbers that typify the identities of the characters such as, "My Blanket and Me," "The Doctor Is In," "The Red Baron," and "The Baseball Game."

After opening October 18, additional performances will be at 7 p.m. October 19, 25, and 26; at 8 p.m. on Friday, October 20, 21, 27, and 28; and at 2 p.m. on October 29. Performances will be in the Mallette Studio Theatre in the Liberal Arts Center. Tickets are $9 for general admission, and $7 for senior citizens (60+) and students with a valid Eagle Access card. Seating capacity for the Mallette Studio Theatre for this production is 100 seats, so reservations are strongly recommended. Call 422-3970 or visit the theatre office in the Liberal Arts Center, room 3094, for tickets.

Students to be considered by Walt Disney World recruiters

USI is the Tri-State recruitment site for Walt Disney World interns. Walt Disney World officials will visit campus to begin recruiting college interns at 5:30 p.m. on Monday, October 9, in Mitchell Auditorium of the Health Professions Center.

Invitations are being issued to students at University of Evansville, Brescia College, Kentucky Wesleyan College, Ivy Tech State College, Henderson Community College, Oakland City University, Owensboro Community College, Vincennes University, and Wabash Valley College to join USI students for this presentation. Students eligible for the program must have completed at least one semester of school. Freshmen may attend because they will have completed the first semester by the time the next interns leave for Orlando.

These paid internships are entry-level positions at the theme park and might include merchandise sales, attraction host, transportation host, or lifeguard positions. After a semester of experience, students can apply for advanced internship to be placed into jobs in their fields. Sixteen USI students are currently serving internships in Orlando.

For more information, contact Ms. Pamela Doerter, coordinator of Internship and Cooperative Education, Career Services and Placement, at 464-1865.

Southern Indiana Review available mid-October; Spring issue planned

Southern Indiana Review, the national literary magazine published by USI, will be available after October 5 at Barnes and Noble Booksellers of Evansville and Golden Raintree Books of New Harmony. Price is $10 at the stand and $18 for a one-year subscription that includes two issues. A spring issue will be available in April.

"The quality of available writing, the demand for more literary works, and the expansion of USI's School of Liberal Arts served as catalysts for adding an additional issue in spring," said Mr. James McGarrah, editor and M.A.L.S. student. The magazine has been published annually in the autumn since 1993.

The biannual collection of contemporary poetry, fiction, non-fiction, and book reviews, is illustrated with photographs of many forms of artwork by five artists. It also includes fiction by Michigan writer Tom Watson, poetry and fiction by Victoria Redel, poetry by Jared Carter, a book review by Patti Aakhus, and works by 20 other contemporary writers.

"The fall 2000 issue contains a good cross-section of free verse, poetry, and imaginative short stories; plus outstanding fiction and artwork," said Mr. McGarrah of the 104-page issue.

Southern Indiana Review accepts open submissions from October 1 through December 31 every year. Writer guidelines and submission requirements are available at www.usi.edu/libarts/english/review.htm, via e-mail at poetry@sigecon.com, or by contacting Mr. McGarrah at 812/385-3129.

First annual Psycho-Path at Lincoln Amphitheatre

The Psycho-Path, a haunted trail, will be open at the Lincoln Amphitheatre, Lincoln City, from dusk to 10:30 p.m. every Friday and Saturday in October. "This is no ordinary walk in the woods," said Mr. Steven Renner, managing director of the amphitheatre. "The path leads through a recently discovered rotting graveyard and buildings haunted by ghosts and ghouls."

Some of the attractions to be located in the woods around the amphitheatre include the psycho farmer, the Salem witch trial, and a dollhouse filled with childhood nightmares. Heritage Hills High School Drama Club students will help work the scenes and actors will portray the characters. Proceeds from Psycho-Path will benefit both the Lincoln Amphitheatre and the drama club.

Food drive on Thursday

Donations for Archibald Eagle's Food Closet will be collected by members of Staff Council, men's basketball coach Bruce Pearl, Archibald Eagle, and softball coach Kelly Boyd from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m. on Thursday, October 5. The volunteers will be at the bus stop in front of the Orr Center and at the mailbox on University Boulevard. Additionally, shopping carts will be located outside all the buildings for collection, and donations will be accepted at the food closet located in the lower level of the University Center.

Both food and non-food items are needed for the food closet. Some of the items most needed are peanut butter, crackers, instant oatmeal, cereal, macaroni and cheese, canned pasta, canned meats, soups, fruits, toilet paper, toothbrushes, shampoo, and razors.

"I have seen students struggling to meet their financial and academic responsibilities and personal needs," said Ms. Sandra Lawrence, director of Student Wellness. "Students

The concession stand will be open to provide autumn snacks such as hot chocolate, apple cider, popcorn, and hot dogs to those who survive the trail. Psycho-Path sweatshirts and glow sticks will be available for purchase in the concession stand.

The terrain in Lincoln State Park does not allow for strollers or wheelchairs. Admission is $5 per person. The park gate fee applies; $2 per person over age 17, $4 per family. For more information call 812/937-4493. Directions follow.

often struggle with lack of money for food, inexperience with budgeting time and money, inexperience at shopping for food values, and a lack of transportation."

USI students and employees may obtain items by visiting the Student Wellness Center in UC 007. There is no monetary fee to use the food closet. Individuals must show a valid Eagle Access card, complete a food closet card, and agree to volunteer two hours of service to a charitable organization.

Since 1992, Archibald Eagle's Food Closet has been serving USI students and employees with help from the USI community and the Tri-State Food Bank.

For more information about the food drive, call Ms. Lois Stevens, Staff Council employees relations committee chair, at ext. 1054. For more information about the food closet, call 464-1907.

Names in the News

Dr. Hilary Braysmith, associate professor of art history, presented "Fatherland without Borders: the Meta-nationalism of C.D. Friedrich," in London at the 30th Congress International d'Histoire de l'Art, the oldest international meeting for art historians. In her paper, she challenged the idea of grouping artists according to national schools. In other research, Dr. Braysmith is using works of art depicting athletic women to trace gender and class construction from ancient Greece through postmodern times. She presented some of her findings in "Soccer as National Emblem" at the Pre Olympic Congress in Brisbane. Her paper was a finalist for best in its category. Both congresses convene only once every four years.

"The Political Economy of Higher Education in Bangladesh" by Dr. Munir Quddus, professor of economics, will be included in Socio-Economic and Political Issues of Bangladesh, published by the University Press Limited.
