NEW HARMONY GALLERY OF CONTEMPORARY ART

Sunday, October 4 -- An exhibition of quilt-like wall hangings by Marilyn Price will open and remain on display through October 28.

(For information, contact Ms. Connie Weinzapfel, gallery director, (812) 682-3156.)

HUMANITIES FILM SERIES

Tuesday, October 6 -- "Singin' in the Rain" (1952, 101 minutes) Directors: Gene Kelly and Stanley Donen; cast: Gene Kelly, Debbie Reynolds, Donald O'Connor, Jean Hagen, Cyd Charisse. Considered by many to be the greatest musical comedy of all time, this movie also is an excellent introduction to the change from silent films to sound and to the "backstage" storyline that characterizes the genre. The songs range from the hilarious "Make 'em Laugh" to the delicate "You Were Meant for Me" and the show-stopping classic "Singin' in the Rain" solo by Kelly.

(The films are shown at 2 and 6 p.m. in Forum I; they are free and open to the public. For information, contact Dr. Thomas Wilhelms, associate professor of English, (812) 464-1747 or 1734.)

NORTHWEST ORDINANCE BICENTENNIAL DRAMA

Friday, October 9 -- "Traces," a play commissioned by the Indiana Committee for the Humanities, will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday in Forum I. The play about Indiana's territory period is part of a larger project on the bicentennial. The play was written by Rita Kohn, an author, playwright, and teacher at Illinois State University, and will be directed by Tom Evans, chairman of the Hanover College theater department. It has been cast with professional actors and is on tour of Indiana through October 11.

(For information, contact the Indiana Committee for the Humanities, Indianapolis.)

WEEK OF OCTOBER 11

HUMANITIES FILM SERIES

Tuesday, October 13 -- "Citizen Kane" (1941, 119 minutes) Director: Orson Welles; cast: Orson Welles, Dorothy Comingore, Joseph Cotton, Everett Sloane, Ray Collins, Agnes Moorehead, George Coulouris, Ruth Warrick. This movie is considered by many critics to be America's greatest film masterpiece, both because of its technical virtuosity and the significance of its theme. Kane, a wealthy and powerful American, fails to live up to his potential because he is personally flawed.

(The films are shown at 2 and 6 p.m. in Forum I; they are free and open to the public. For information, contact Dr. Thomas Wilhelmus, associate professor of English, (812) 464-1747 or 1734.)

USI THEATER

Thursday-Sunday, -- USI Theater is presenting three American classics during the October 15-18 & 22-24 1987-88 season in celebration of the U. S. Bicentennial. The first of the series, Arthur Miller's "All My Sons," will open Oct. 15 at the USI Theater, Igleheart and Barker avenues. Dr. James R. Blevins, chairman of the USI Division of Humanities, will be the guest director for the drama that was Miller's first major dramatic success. It is as powerful and relevant today as when it won the Drama Critics' Circle Award in 1942. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and 2 p.m. Sunday, October 18. Tickets are $5 for the public, $3 for students.

(For information, contact Dr. James Blevins, chairman of the Division of Humanities, (812) 464-1734, or Dr. Douglas Hubbell, USI Theater director, (812) 464-1727 or 422-3970.)

HISTORIC COMMUNAL SOCIETIES CONFERENCE

Thursday-Sunday, -- The USI Center for Communal Studies will hold the 14th annual October 15-18 Historic Communal Societies Conference at the restored 19th century Swedish settlement of Bishop Hill in northern Illinois. New Harmony, the Shakers, Hutterites, Mormons, Oneidans, Icarians, Hare Krishnas, and kibbutzim will be the focus of sessions in which 45 speakers from the U. S. and Israel will address the theme, "Immigrant and Native Communitarians: Ethnicity, Ideology, and Material Culture." Among featured events will be a guided tour of Bishop Hill by a community descendant, Swedish music, and an authentic five-round Swedish smorgasbord.

(Brochures and other information are available by contacting Dr. Donald E. Pitzer, director of the USI Center for Communal Studies, (812) 464-1727 or 1719.)

PSYCHOLOGY CONFERENCE

Friday-Saturday, -- The fourth annual Mid-America Conference for Teachers of Psychology will be held at the University Center. Among the featured speakers will be David T. Landrigan, 43-year-old founder and director of CHILD NET, a computer network organized to assist in searches for missing children. Landrigan, working out of Cambridge, Massachusetts, developed the network to locate his own daughter after she was taken to Texas by her non-custodial mother. The conference opens Friday morning and runs through a 1 p.m. luncheon Saturday.

(For information, contact Dr. Joseph J. Palladino, USI associate professor of psychology and conference coordinator, (812) 464-1952 or 1719.)

APPLEBUTTER STIR

Sunday, October 18 -- The USI Secretaries and Associates Club will hold the annual Applebutter Stir at the Eicher Barn in the Bent Twig Outdoor Education area. Apple cooking will begin about 6 a.m. and sales will begin around 12 noon. The public is invited to watch the open-fire cooking and take a turn at stirring the apples, if they wish. Proceeds from sale of the applebutter are used for USI student scholarships.

(For information, contact Mrs. Julia Yancey, president of USI Secretaries and Associates Club, (812) 464-1840.)
