A workshop offering techniques for teaching simple science, art, and language development and preparation for early reading, writing, and math to a youngster age six and under will be held on two Thursdays, April 16 and 23, at the University of Southern Indiana.

Deborah Burdick, USI lecturer in education, also will help parents recognize "Teachable Moments," those spontaneous times that provide ideal opportunities to teach children about their world.

The registration fee is $30. Call the USI Office of Continuing Education, 812/464-1989 or 800/467-8600, for information or to register.
