DATE: AUGUST 13, 1996

A general information meeting for anyone --students and the public-- interested in USI Theatre will be held at 6 p.m. Wednesday, August 28, at the USI Theatre, 3001 Igleheart Avenue.

Auditions for Moliere's classic comedy, The School For Husbands, the first 1996 fall production, will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, September 3 and Wednesday, September 4 at the USI Theatre. The play is about two brothers who have been named guardians of a deceased friend's two daughters, to raise and marry if they see fit. The cast includes roles for 4 males and 5 females. Scott LaFeber, USI's director of theatre, will direct the production.

Those wanting to audition should call 465-1668 to schedule an audition time or visit the Theatre Center located on the USI Campus. A one-minute classical monologue (prose preferred) is recommended but those who wish to audition without a monologue are welcomed. Rehearsals begin on Thursday, September 5. The School For Husbands will be presented October 10 - 20.

Other plays in the 1996-97 theatre season are A Christmas Carol, with performances in late November and December, and spring will bring The Canterbury Tales by Chaucer in late February and March and Blue Window by Craig Lucas in late April and May.
