Institutional research director named at USI

For immediate release
March 3, 1995

Charles Harrington has been named director of institutional research at the University of Southern Indiana, and will coordinate research and academic assessment programs, supply data to support administrative decision making, and assist in designing and conducting studies or in preparing academic and operational planning strategies.

Harrington is a native of Athens, Ohio, and received his B.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Ohio University there. He also earned an M.S. from Drexel University, and was assistant director of institutional research and planning at West Georgia College prior to joining the USI staff.

He and his wife, Kelly, have two daughters, Emma, 3, and Abigail, 1. They live at 4601 Jackson in Evansville.
