ADMINISTRATIVE WING CHANGES

Attached to this week's issue of University Notes is an illustration of the administrative wing new office arrangement. Since the former hallway is now an array of offices, traffic to the Vice-President for Administration Office and the President's Office channels through the Student Administrative Services Office or the Business Office. Note the new placement of the Xerox machine. Students, prospective students, and visitors wishing to find the Registrar's Office or Bursar's Office now enter into the red carpet area and through the double doors.

GUIDE TO LOW-COST VACATIONS AND LODGINGS ON COLLEGE CAMPUSES

Few people know about the virtually limitless vacation and travel opportunities available on college and university campuses and in their localities. At most campuses, popular recreational activities are available, often under uncrowded conditions and at incredibly low rates during the summer. The book, "Guide to Low-Cost Vacations & Lodgings on College Campuses," now available in the University Library, might be helpful to those contemplating vacations.

POSTER PENNED FOR PHYSICAL PLANT

The Girl Scout Day Camp held on campus enjoyed a successful two-week stay. As a means of extending thanks to Indiana State University Evansville for all their help, the girls sent an eight-foot long poster thanking Mr. Grimes, Security, Shirley, Barbara and all the others who assisted during their camp period. Each girl signed her name and any message she might wish to convey, such as "We love you, Security," or just a simple "thank you" or "good luck." Nearly 170 scouts participated in the camp.

Directors for the 1974 day camp were Sandy Wenzel, Camp Director, and Marla Grose, Assistant Director.
