Road warriors: Crews paving the way for new science facility

Although groundbreaking for the new Science/Education Classroom Building is likely a month away, the University landscape is already changing.

Contractors began rerouting portions of Bent Twig and Clarke lanes about three weeks ago. The work is necessary because part of the new science facility will extend across a portion of Clarke Lane and into Parking Lot G.

To accommodate the $23.1 million building, Clarke Lane – behind the existing Science Center and the Health Professions Center – eventually will be closed to campus traffic.

“It’s called progress,” said Mr. Miles Mann, assistant director of Facilities Operations.

The new traffic pattern for vehicles turning right onto campus after leaving the overpass will follow Bent Twig Lane around the back of parking lots G and H, around the back of the Publishing Services Center, and onto the section of roadway currently under construction in front of Reflection Lake and behind the Liberal Arts Center. The new section will link Bent Twig to Clarke, which joins University Boulevard at the southwest end of the campus.

“The road work – the curve that goes along the lake – they should have that done before school starts. That part will be back in service,” Mann said. “The part of Clarke Lane behind the Health Professions Center and the Science Center will probably be open too. We probably won’t shut down that Clarke Lane portion until construction of the building is started.”

The front portion of Parking Lot G also will be closed when construction of the Science/Education Classroom Building is underway.

“That is why they are feverishly trying to complete the roadwork around the lake before the science center work starts,” Mann noted.

Traffic on Bent Twig Lane and the open portion of Clarke Lane will continue to flow both ways. The University’s long-range plans, however, include relocating University Boulevard behind parking lots A, B, and C, which would create a one-way loop around campus. That project is probably five years away, according to Mann.

“Our students will be able to walk from the parking lots to their classes without crossing traffic,” he explained. “It’s an inconvenience, I know, with all the construction going on, but we need to be able to let our students get on campus safely.”

A member of the construction crew signals an equipment operator moving dirt behind the Liberal Arts Center.

Portal

linking services, communication

Welcome to the digital campus.

Using the Campus Pipeline Web platform, USI is integrating communication, academic resources, administrative services, campus news, distance learning, and other Web applications in a portal available to students, faculty, staff, and alumni.

Located at pipeline.usi.edu, Campus Pipeline will provide the University community with world-class Intranet and Internet services. A link to Pipeline also is available on the USI homepage.

"The students will have access to their data when they want it," said Mr. Wayne Bohm, director of the Computer Center. "Faculty and staff also will have access to their data, which will save departments time. It will make data available in the easiest possible manner, and as the transition progresses, additional information and training will be available."

Different service options will be offered to different segments of the University population. Examples of some of those options are listed on the right side of this page.

As Pipeline access for employees, faculty and advisors, and alumni becomes available, the Computer Center will send out notification letters, which will include an appropriate PIN number.

For more information, contact Bohm at wbohm@usi.edu or extension 1255.

What's in a name?

"Campus Pipeline" or perhaps something with a bit more pizzazz: Web Services is wondering if USI's new student portal should have a catchier name.

Other universities utilizing the Campus Pipeline Web platform have elected to use a more youth-oriented approach. In that spirit, possible names for USI's Pipeline for students could include "Eagle Web," "You-SI," or "Eagle Page."

University faculty and staff are encouraged to submit name suggestions to Ms. Jane Below, writer in Web Services, at jbelow@usi.edu or by calling extension 1999.

The front page of USI's Campus Pipeline for students is located at pipeline.usi.edu. A PIN number is required to view additional pages.

Bippus named USI Volunteer of the Year

An Evansville native, business owner, and staunch student supporter has been named the 2001 Volunteer of the Year.

Mrs. Cindy L. Bippus received the honor Thursday, August 9, at the annual Volunteer USI Recognition Dinner.

"Cindy has been a real example to me of a beautiful volunteer spirit. She gives of her time, energy, and talent to USI. She's a hard worker and a lot of fun to be around," said Mrs. Sandi Lawrence, director of Student Wellness.

For the past 13 years, Bippus has given outstanding service to the offices of Athletics and Student Wellness. Known for her dedication and phenomenal commitment to assisting students, she brings a high level of passion to her role as volunteer.

Her efforts in Athletics have included being a team host, assisting at the All Sports Picnic, and cooking and serving at both the Student Athletes Dinner and the spaghetti dinner. Each year, she also welcomes the women's basketball team into her home for a homemade lasagna dinner.

In addition to helping the sports teams, the University of Evansville graduate has been active in the Varsity Club. She has donated her time to the chili supper, Varsity Club Room, Golf Scramble, and Fall Festival booth. Throughout the year, she also can be found volunteering at road races, where competing runners are greeted by her smiling face as they cross the finish line.

For the last four years, Bippus also has assisted Student Wellness in planning and organizing the Aunt Sophie's Chicken Noodle Soup event.

Mrs. Cindy Bippus, USI's 2001 Volunteer of the Year, tears a participant's number at the finish line of this year's Eagle 5K Run/Walk, sponsored by the USI Alumni Association.

Since 1996, when Volunteer USI began as a formal campus-wide program, Bippus has accumulated 449 hours of service.

She and her husband Ray have been married for 36 years and have owned and operated Frames Built by Bippus since 1977. They have three children and three grandchildren.

Nearly 320 dedicated volunteers were honored at this year's Volunteer USI Recognition Dinner Thursday, August 9. The annual event honors those volunteers who accumulated 20 or more service hours during the fiscal year.

"We want them to know how much we appreciate what they do at the University," said Mrs. Trisha Kennedy, assistant director of Alumni and Volunteer Services. "Their time is important. They could be out doing something else, but they are here at USI."

Since Volunteer USI began as a formal campus-wide program in 1996, more than 2,300 volunteers have given 366,999 hours of service to the University. Calculated at the average University wage, that's more than $6 million dollars of volunteer service donated to USI.

The names of USI volunteers who have accumulated at least 100 hours of service since the program's inception are listed here, preceded by their total service hours.

Achievements

Dr. Scott Gordon, associate professor of biology and assistant director of the Center for Teaching and Learning Excellence, presented a paper, "Web-based Technology: Effects On Teaching and Learning," at the Syllabus 2001 Conference on Technology In Education in Santa Clara, California.

Welcome

Sellers

Mr. Kris Sellers has accepted the position of area coordinator in Residence Life. The Evansville resident previously worked as a resident assistant on campus and as a computer technician at PC-Quest. He holds a B.S. in finance and computer information systems from USI.

Farewell

Dr. Munir Quddus, chair of the Economics and Finance Department and professor of economics, and his wife Ms. Tasmina Quddus, special funds accountant in the Business Office, will be leaving the University community this summer. Dr. Quddus has accepted the position of dean of the College of Business at Prairie View A&M University near Houston, Texas. Both Dr. and Ms. Quddus would like to thank USI friends and well-wishers for their support and friendship.

Transfers and promotions

■ Ms. Rebecca Warford, from administrative assistant, School of Liberal Arts, to senior administrative assistant, School of Liberal Arts and Theatre.

In sympathy

The University community extends sympathy to the family of Mrs. Sherrienne Standley, vice president for Advancement, whose father Dr. Tom Smith Maddox, 81, Greenville, Kentucky, died Sunday, August 5, 2001.

Memorial contributions may be made to Presidential Scholarships through the USI Foundation or to the Mary Anna Maddox Memorial Scholarship for Kentucky veterinary students in care of Auburn University Foundation. Condolences may be placed online at glennfuneralhome.com.

The University community extends sympathy to the family of Dr. C. Thomas Pickering, dean of the Bower-Suhrheinrich School of Education and Human Services, whose mother-in-law Mrs. Muriel Smith, 81, Wooster, Ohio, died Tuesday, August 7, 2001.

For current job openings, visit the Human Resources Web site at usi.edu/hr/, the Human Resources bulletin boards in the front lobby of the Wright Administration Building and outside the Human Resources office, or call the University's job line at 465-7117.

FYI

Staff luncheon

All support staff are invited to the annual Support Staff Luncheon from noon to 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, August 14, in Carter Hall.

Staff who have not responded to this luncheon invitation should contact Mrs. Brandi Bauer, senior administrative assistant in Special Events and Scheduling Services, at bbauer@usi.edu or extension 1930 as soon as possible.

Art exhibit

"Surface: Structure and Substance," a juried exhibition of fiber and textile art, will open Saturday, August 11, at New Harmony Gallery of Contemporary Art.

The exhibit will feature the work of 18 artists from across the United States and Canada. A free artists' reception will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. at the gallery on opening day, and the public is invited to attend.

The exhibit will continue through Saturday, September 22. The gallery is located at 506 Main St. in New Harmony, Indiana. Gallery hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays and from noon to 4 p.m. Sundays.

Get-acquainted tea

The USI Secretaries and Associates Club invites all support staff to attend a get-acquainted tea from 4:45 to 6:15 p.m. Wednesday, August 15, in the first floor lobby of the Liberal Arts Center. The event, including tea, cookies, and brownies, will provide an opportunity to get acquainted with present, future, and retired club members.

NxLevel training

NxLevel, an entrepreneurial training program, will be presented in 12 sessions September 11 through November 27 at University of Southern Indiana and the Southern Indiana Education Center in Jasper.

The program is designed to enhance entrepreneurial skills and assist participants in creating comprehensive business plans. It is offered in southwestern Indiana by USI, the Southern Indiana Rural Development Project, and Indiana University Southeast in conjunction with local sponsors.

Class sessions will be presented from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays. The instructor will be on-site at USI one week and in Jasper the next, with the two sites linked via two-way video conferencing.

The course fee, $250, includes a textbook, workbook, and resource guide. A participant's spouse or business partner may enroll for $100 (materials not included).

For more information, contact Mr. Larry Bohleber, manager of USI's Center for Human Resources Development, at extension 1854 or lbohlebe@usi.edu, or Dr. Nancy Kovanic, lead consultant for USI's Organizational and Professional Development Team, at extension 1879 or nkovanic@usi.edu. To register, contact USI Extended Services at extension 1989.

Nursing program coming in September

A Basic Parish Nurse Education Program will be presented Thursday through Sunday, September 27 through 30, at Kordes Enrichment Center in Ferdinand, Indiana. USI's School of Nursing and Health Professions and the Tri-State Parish Nurse Organization are sponsoring the event.

Parish nursing is the specialized practice of professional nursing focusing on promotion of health and wholeness within the context of a faith community. Program participants will learn about the various functions of a parish nurse from nursing faculty, clergy, an attorney, and experienced parish nurses.

Presented in a retreat setting, the program will support continued growth in spiritual formation as well as the knowledge, attitudes, and skills central to the parish nurse role. It is designed for registered nurses and students enrolled in baccalaureate degree programs.

The curriculum is endorsed by the International Parish Nurse Resource Center. Eligible nurses will receive 35 contact hours.

The program fee is $400 and includes snacks, nine meals, and lodging for three nights (double occupancy). A deposit of $100 is due by Monday, August 27.

For additional information or registration, call Extended Services at extension 1989.
