Francis Wright remembered

Dr. Celia Morris, author and authority on 19th century activist Frances Wright, will be the keynote speaker at a symposium at 7:30 p.m. Friday, November 10, at The Atheneum in New Harmony, where friends, scholars, and admirers of the person once deemed "the most hated woman in America" will gather to observe the 200th anniversary of her birth.

Ms. Wright was a courageous Scottish-born woman who not only espoused liberal thinking in the fledgling United States, but lived it: she saw her play staged anonymously in New York in 1819, because women's writing was not accepted for the stage; she traveled across country without a chaperon; she established a communal society to free slaves; she edited and wrote for newspapers where she voiced her demands for equality for women and the cessation of the church's influence in American politics; she dared to speak of sexual passion as one of the "noblest of human passions" at time when women's chastity defined their virtue.

Dr. Morris is the author of Fanny Wright: Rebel in America, published in 1984. Her interest in Frances Wright dates back to at least the '70s, when she wrote "Frances Wright: 'She Fought the Major Battles of Her Time and Ours'" for Ms. magazine. Because of her New Harmony visit, Dr. Morris also was selected to deliver the 1995 Sydney Berger Lecture November 9 at USI.

She will discuss the legacy of Fanny Wright at The Atheneum, where other

USI Board emphasizes master planning

The USI Board of Trustees has laid the groundwork for future development, devoting much of the November 2 meeting to creating master planning groups that will look at the University program, future development needs, and energy conservation. The Board also heard a fundraising report that sets the stage for tapping private resources to supplement state funding in meeting the future needs.

University administration will prepare a 1995-96 Strategic Plan requested by the Indiana Commission for Higher Education (ICHE). The plan replaces the Commission's former Services Plan and will look at the mission statement, enrollment projections, new programs, institutional performance objectives, financial and capital planning, and a campus master plan. USI has been asked to submit its strategic plan by December 1, for initial consideration at the December 8 ICHE meeting. The Board's Long Range Planning Committee will review the plan before it is submitted and report back to the Board at the January 4 meeting.

The Long Range Planning Committee — Board members Mr. Bruce Baker, president; Ms. Nicole Cable, student representative; Mr. Thomas F. McKenna, secretary; and Mrs. Harolyn G. Torain, '71 USI graduate — will lead a committee looking at the campus master plan, updating it to reflect the changing commuter student/residential student situation, and to project where development will take the University's physical facilities in the future. USI was developed on 300 acres donated by Southern Indiana Higher Education, Inc. (SIHE), which still holds title to more than 1,100 acres south of the campus.

Mr. Richard Schmidt, vice president for Business Affairs, noted USI's original master plan was developed in the 1960s, before the campus was built, and was only marginally updated when the Orr Center was built in the late 1980s. Since then, the Health Professions Center was built and work has started on a $4.7-million project to renovate and double the size of the 20-year-old University Center. USI, once only a commuter campus, now has housing for 1,500 students, most of it donated by SIHE. Earthwork has been started for three new apartment buildings.

Energy conservation planning stems from a state law which allows public facilities to finance energy efficient capital projects from savings the projects generate. Qualified contractors will be invited to evaluate energy usage across the campus and propose heating, ventilation, air-conditioning, and other energy-saving improvements.

Mrs. Sherrienne Standley, vice president for Advancement, reported on year-end fundraising results, noting that for the second year, totals have topped the $2-million mark and USI Foundation assets now stand at $6.2 million. She said giving is up in every category — scholarships (32 percent), academic support (27 percent), community outreach (14 percent), athletics and Annual Fund (each 11 percent), and capital projects (5 percent).

Mrs. Standley said the Annual Fund has a '96 goal of $225,000, a 7 percent increase. She said there will be a new emphasis on deferred giving, with those who develop an estate plan or other deferred-gift arrangement that benefits the University to be made members of a new Reflections Society that honors their support of USI.

USI President H. Ray Hoops, in his report to the Board, had touched on the fact that the number of Presidential Scholarships

New Harmony Gallery

Through lead, glass, lumber, and light, tactile and visual elements will be explored and presented in the installation sculpture by Mr. Gary Passanise, a St. Louis artist, in the exhibition which opens Sunday, November 12, at the New Harmony Gallery of Contemporary Art. There will be an opening reception from 1 to 4 p.m. for gallery members only; the exhibition is open to the public and will continue through December 23, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

The gallery installation will consist of a 11'x14' lead-faced wall. Incorporated with this surface will be the introduction of a light source and wild flowers indigenous to New Harmony.

Mr. Passanise also will install a site-specific work outdoors, consisting of glass and metal and using the natural surroundings to further examine his concern for natural and conceptual elements.

Mr. Passanise received his B.F.A. from Webster University and his M.F.A. from Southern Illinois University in 1980. He recently completed installations at the Laumeier Sculpture Park in St. Louis, the Robert Stein Gallery, Clayton, Illinois, and the LedisFlam Gallery in New York. A 1994 NEA grant recipient, he has exhibited extensively in New York, Chicago, St. Louis, and Copenhagen.

— which guarantee full tuition, fees, and housing for qualifying Indiana valedictorians and salutatorians — will be limited in 1996. Mrs. Standley explained that with 73 scholars currently enrolled, funding has not kept up with the dramatic acceptance of the program. In response, it will become a competitive program in 1996, with only 10 new freshmen accepted for enrollment, compared to the 19 freshmen enrolled as scholars this fall.

The Board also heard a report from Dr. Philip C. Fisher, dean of the School of Business, on a survey of area employers seeking suggestions on how USI can meet needs in the community. As a result of meetings with representatives from financial services, manufacturing, health care, marketing and media, hospitality, accounting, and retail, there are plans to:

- Offer the Becker CPA Review course on campus, starting this summer.
- Expand the Business Communication course from 3 to 4 hours, with the additional hour devoted to oral grammar.
- Defer a Hospitality Management program for two years, due to opinions Evansville does not currently have enough demand.

Dr. Fisher said University faculty continue to work on a joint business/communications program and an entrepreneurship program suggested by the business and financial communities.

Dr. M. Edward Jones, associate vice president for Academic Affairs and director of Extended Services, reported on noncredit and service courses which serve area employers' needs.

Leadership training:

Dr. Stephen Covey, Dr. Tom Peters, and Dr. Denis Waitley, leadership training authorities, will be together November 15 to present a six-hour, closed-circuit program, "Eleven Lessons in Self-Leadership," which is being sponsored in the Evansville area by the USI School of Business and Office of Extended Services. Dr. Covey is author of First Things First, Principle-Centered Leadership, and The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People. Dr. Peters is co-author of In Search of Excellence and author of Thriving on Chaos, Liberation Management, and The Pursuit of WOW! Dr. Waitley is author of Seeds of Greatness, Being the Best, and Empires of the Mind. Each will make a 70-minute presentation, then come together as a panel for 30 minutes of questions from participants at 100 university/college locations across the country, and another half hour for summations. Television personality Ms. Linda Ellerbee will moderate.

The local program will be held from 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. in the Vanderburgh Auditorium Gold Room. A light meal will be served at 1:50 p.m. The registration fee is $149 per person, with reduced fees down to $124 per person available according to the size of teams signing up from participating organizations. Questions may be directed to USI Extended Services, extension 1989, or by calling James at WYNCOM, Inc., in Lexington, Kentucky, 1/800/499-6266 or e-mail to info@wyn.com <http://www.wyn.com>

Names in the news:

The third novel by Ms. Patty Aakhus, special part-time lecturer in English, has been published by Wolfhound Press in Ireland and the United Kingdom. The Sorrows of Tara is based on a quasi-historic murder described in a 10th century Irish monastic manuscript, also translated by Ms. Aakus from Middle Irish. Her first and second novels — The Voyage of Mael Duin (1990; well received by The New York Times; also in French translation) and Daughter of the Boyne (1992) — are based on fragments of early Irish epics which somewhat resemble the Odyssey and the Iliad in theme and plot. Both are published by Wolfhound Press and are available at the USI Bookstore.

Dr. Darrel E. Bigham, professor of history and director of Historic Southern Indiana Project, is chair of the Advisory Committee of the Committee on the Role of Re-speakers will include: Dr. Donald E. Pitzer, USI professor of history and director of the Center for Communal Studies, who will discuss the historical context for Ms. Wright's achievements; Dr. Jane Follis, academic and professional editor who will discuss the role of Ms. Wright and the liberal press; and Dr. David Bowman, editorial writer for the Huntsville News in Alabama, who will discuss Nashoba, Ms. Wright's communal experiment to free slaves.

Dr. Bowman is chair of the national Frances Wright Bicentennial Committee; Dr. Pitzer, Dr. Follis, and Dr. Josephine Elliott, USI archivist emerita who continues to work in New Harmony projects, are co-chairs of the New Harmony committee.

Media Services needs your help:

The Media Services offices is asking for faculty assistance in dealing with an on-going problem. Please do not move audio/visual equipment from one room to another. If there is a problem with a piece of equipment, contact Media Services, extension 1888, or send a student to our office, FA184, and we will take care of the situation as soon as possible. "Borrowing" equipment from another classroom only creates more problems. Media Services thanks you for your immediate attention to the problem.

ligion in American History, a statewide group which is now administered by the Indiana Humanities Council and funded by Lilly Endowment. He has chaired this initiative since its inception in 1991. Dr. Bigham also is chair of the History Education Committee of the Indiana Association of Historians, which at its semiannual meeting November 3 formally announced plans to coordinate the state's first conference on the teaching of history, to be held February 7-8, 1997, in Indianapolis.

Dr. Sherry L. Boyd, associate professor of education, and Mrs. Susan H. Gooden, assistant professor of education, were appointed to the Tri-County Professional Development Alliance Steering Committee, which was established through a state grant to determine the professional development needs of teachers in Gibson, Pike, and Warrick counties.

Dr. Boyd, Mrs. Pam S. Buschkill, Children's Center coordinator, and Mrs. Ginger L. Ramsden, Extended Services coordinator of Education and Children's Programs, visited the Indiana University child-care facilities October 24, gathering information on the IU plan for expansion and the process they completed to gain national accreditation.

Mr. Paul C. Frazer, instructor in social work, has successfully defended his Ph.D. dissertation at Ohio State University, and expects to receive his degree in early December.

Mr. John D. Gibson, instructor in English, had his chapbook of poems, Starting From Here, published in July in England. Later in the summer, he gave a poetry reading at The Old Butcher's Art Gallery, Cley-Next-The-Sea, Norfolk, England.

Mr. Larry Johnson, Media Services coordinator, and Dr. Annette Lamb, associate professor of teacher education, conducted an all-day workshop titled "Cruisin' the Information Highway: Practical Ideas for Integrating Internet into the K-12 Classroom" October 26-28 at the Georgia Council of Media Organizations meeting on Jekyll Island, Georgia. They also conducted sessions on "Spinnin' Your Own Web: Developing Home Pages on the Internet" and "Surfin' the Internet: Practical Ideas from A to Z." Dr. Lamb presented a multimedia session, "Ride the Magic Carpet: 101 Multimedia Integration Ideas," and Mr. Johnson presented a technology planning session, "Beyond the Written Plan: the Wizard of Change."

Five USI students attended the day-long Indiana Greek Leadership Conference November 5 at Purdue University. Ms. Amanda Barton and Ms. Velvet Litsey of Alpha Gamma Delta, Mr. Jim Reese and Mr. Chad Emsweller of Sigma Tau Gamma, and Mr. Dave Wathen of Tau Kappa Epsilon attended sessions on crisis management, public image, ethics and values, and motivation. They won third place in a case study competition with their answers on what to do in a crisis situation; third prize was $25. This is the first year USI students have attended the conference.

to Ms. Judi L. Kuric, coordinator of continuing education for the School of Nursing and Health Professions, and Mrs. Julie B. St. Clair, instructor in nursing, who have received separate grants from the Foundation for Community Health, comprised of three local hospitals. Ms. Kuric received a $50,000 grant to establish a Wellness Certificate Program and a Wellness Resource Center. Ms. St. Clair received a $45,960 grant for cardiovascular health promotion at Glenwood Middle School in Evansville.

Sympathy:

The University community extends sympathy to Mrs. Corinne R. Vandever, learning specialist in Academic Skills, in the November 6 death of her husband, Mr. Dolph Vandever, 84. He also was the father-in-law of Dr. Melissa L. Vandever, associate professor in nursing. Memorial contributions may be made to Eastminster Church or the Emacus Home in Marthasville.

Sympathy is extended also to Ms. Sue Ellen Richardson, special part-time lecturer in general studies, in the death November 5 of her father, Mr. John L. Keiser, 71, of Mt. Vernon, Indiana.

Thank you ...

from Mr. Gary E. May, assistant professor of social work: "My wife Peggy and I would like to thank the entire University community for the numerous expressions of sympathy and generous contributions to the American Cancer Society after the death of Peggy's mother (October 25). The support and concern were very heartwarming to us both.

in the indicated section(s) of the paired or blocked course(s). (The reverse, however, is not always true: in large sections like CHEM 103.001 and HIST 111.001 only some students will be enrolled in the paired course.)

Instructors will coordinate course material and assignments to maximize reinforcement and crossover between and among the materials being studied. Students so enrolled will not only be able to fulfill two requirements at the same time, but will benefit from the opportunity to transfer knowledge between disciplines, to gain an interdisciplinary perspective, and to develop study groups with other "paired" students.

Please encourage prospective students to enroll in these paired sections. If you have questions, contact either the instructors involved or Dr. John H. Gottcent, project coordinator, extension 1750.

NEH Announces Reorganization:

The National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) has released an outline of its new directions in the wake of a 40 percent budget reduction in fiscal '96. NEH will award fewer grants under three new divisions and seven programs rather than making across-the-board cuts that would sacrifice quality. The new divisions and their programs will be: Division of Preservation; Division of Public Programs and Enterprise; and Division of Research and Education, which includes Fellowships and Stipends, Collaborative Research, Education Development and Demonstration, and Seminars and Institutes.

The Office of Challenge Grants will continue present operation, offering long-term support for educational, scholarly, preservation, and public programs in the humanities. Grantees must raise three or four dollars for every dollar received from the Endowment. Public and educational programming will continue, directed by the 56 state humanities councils.

For information concerning NEH or Indiana Humanities Council grant programs, contact Dr. Peggy F. Harrel, coordinator of Grants and Sponsored Research, WA104-H, extension 7016, or email: pharrel.ucs.

ASK USI:

ASK USI, a free three-hour program, will begin at 5 p.m. Tuesday, November 14, in the student lounge of the Health Professions Center. Available for prospective adult students will be:

- Alumni in 20 career fields, discussing their professions, 5 to 6:30 p.m.
- Alumni panel discussion, 6 p.m.
- USI Admissions, Student Financial Aid, Distance Education, Career Services, and Evansville Private Industry Council counselors will answer questions, 5 to 6 and 7:20 to 8 p.m.
- Ms. Jill Padgett '79, instructor in business communications, will discuss her life adventures and the importance of identifying personal priorities and taking risks to accomplish goals, 6:30 p.m.
- Strong Interest Inventory to measure interest in occupations and school subjects, 7:20 p.m. ($10 fee).

Reservations are requested; call Enrollment Services, extension 1765. Anyone unable to attend may call Mrs. Ann Cooper, adult student admissions counselor, to arrange an individual class-enrollment appointment.

"Rarities" - I've got these billiard balls, see, but I've looked all over the house and don't seem to have a billiard table! So, unless I find a giant who wants to play marbles, I might as well sell the billiard balls! Full set, cue ball and rack. And while we're at it -- I'm also selling an electric adding machine (think of its potential antique value!) and a metal magazine rack/phone stand. Buy any two of the above items and I'll throw in the third one free! Call extension 1932 or 422-4288 after 5 p.m.

Brother word processor - model WP-2600Q; Tetris, whisper print, grammar check, and more; 10 extra disks; excellent condition. $350. Call 673-4251.

TI-82 graphing calculator - essential for algebra course; barely used; price negotiable. Call Pete Ambrosone, 853-3619, after 9 p.m.
