Three new directors have been elected to the USI Foundation Board, including Jay Boot, director of technology at Whirlpool Corp.; Don R. Chaudoin, vice president and manager of personal trusts at Citizens National Bank; and Wayne S. Trockman, attorney with Newman Trockman Lloyd Flynn and Rheinlander. Trockman is a 1981 USI graduate.

Two other directors have been elected to fill vacancies. Gerald R. Elliott, director of public relations at Bristol-Myers Squibb, will replace Ray Egan, who is leaving Evansville. Carole D. Rust of Mt. Vernon, who has been succeeded on the USI Board of Trustees by Robert Swan, will succeed Swan on the USI Foundation Board.

Rust and Swan are USI Alumni Association representatives on the USI Board of Trustees. Rust, a 1977 graduate, served from 1985 until being replaced by Swan, a '72 graduate who was appointed recently by Governor Evan Bayh.

The USI Foundation directors were named at the recent annual meeting in which C. Wayne Worthington was re-elected chairman of the board. Other officers are Mark E. Neidig, Class of '76, vice chairman for alumni affairs; Ted C. Zierner, Jr., vice chairman for development; Rolland M. Eckels, vice chairman for planning; Bettye B. McCutchan, secretary; John J. Bolger, Class of '80, treasurer; and Byron C. Wright, assistant treasurer. David L. Rice and Sherrienne M. Standley were named administrative advisors. Suzanne A. Nicholson continues as president of the organization.
