Faculty and staff to spend a “Day on the Bus”

For the third year in a row, USI faculty and staff will tour area businesses, spending a “Day on the Bus” on Tuesday, August 12.

Sponsored by Old National Bank, “Day on the Bus” “provides a brief immersion into the region’s business and industry focused particularly towards faculty who are newer to the area,” said Dr. Susan Ellspermann, director of USI’s Center for Applied Research (CAR). “At each stop we both tour the facilities and have a ‘CEO Overview’ where we learn about the business challenges of their organization and how our higher education institutions can better prepare graduates and support the economic growth of the region through curriculum, applied research and outreach.”

Faculty from USI, University of Evansville, Ivy Tech Community College, and Vincennes University participate.

USI will be represented by Dr. Gina Berridge, assistant professor of education; Bryan Bourdeau, instructor in business; Bobbie Brown, senior program assistant for CAR; Jennifer Craig, program development specialist in the Southwest Indiana Area Health Education Center (SWI-AHEC); Dr. Cindy Forgie, assistant professor of engineering; Dr. Abbas Foroughi, professor of computer information systems; Dr. Marco A. Lara-Gracia, assistant professor of applied research; Dr. Priya Hewavitharana, assistant professor of chemistry; Dr. Tamara Hunt, chair of the History Department; Nancy Johnson, director of Alumni and Volunteer Services; Dr. Judi Kuric, instructor in nursing; Patty Marcum, instructor in physical education; Dr. Brian McGuire, chair of Accounting and Business Law; Dr. Sudesh Mujumdar, associate professor of economics; Dr. Kathy Riedford, assistant professor of nursing; Dr. Karyn Sproles, director of Faculty Development; Dr. Anne Statham, director of Service Learning; Kira Vaal, assistant director of development for athletics and corporate giving; and Dana Willett, director of Instructional Technology Services.

They will tour the Shoe Carnival headquarters and distribution center, Alcoa, and Old National Bank.

USI students share stage with Broadway stars

New Harmony Theatre, University of Southern Indiana’s professional Equity stage, brings its 2008 season to a close with “My Fair Lady,” the Tony Award-winning musical that tells a tale of love and transformation as Eliza, a lowly flower seller, learns to speak like a lady with tutelage from phonetics professor and confirmed bachelor Henry Higgins.

The musical, which runs through August 17 in New Harmony’s Murphy Auditorium, features a cast of Broadway luminaries in principal roles and USI students and alumni filling out the ensemble and serving in a variety of roles offstage.

According to Lenny Leibowitz, New Harmony Theatre’s artistic director, “‘My Fair Lady’ is the brightest star in the musical theatre galaxy. It is a perfect union of story and song that sparkles with buoyant wit, irrepressible joy, and unabashed ardor.” In the musical, based on George Bernard Shaw’s play, “Pygmalion,” Professor Higgins makes a bet that he can pass off Eliza as a duchess by teaching her to speak properly. Tempers flare and romantic sparks fly throughout the experiment, and eventually Higgins realizes that he has been transformed as well; he is no longer impervious to love. The score features classics like, “Wouldn’t It Be Loverly,” “On the Street Where You Live,” and “I Could Have Danced All Night.”

Leibowitz said that “My Fair Lady” is ideally suited to a cast that includes Broadway stars as well as the fresh talent USI students and alumni represent: “A musical like ‘My Fair Lady’ requires talent, experience and the technical skill represented by our veteran performers. It also requires the stamina, enthusiasm, and exuberance of our young professionals. Not only do they get to work on the greatest material ever written, but in rehearsals, they have gotten a daily workshop in singing, acting, dancing in a variety of styles, and even dialect work from some of the nation’s most experienced performers. They are becoming more versatile and discovering just how much they will need to know to make it in the business.”

Broadway actress Susan Derry plays Eliza, a role the classically-trained Derry has been dreaming of playing since her girlhood. She is shadowed by two aspiring actresses from the USI theatre program who understudy Derry, Kensington Blaylock and Amelia Dalto. Dalto also serves as the production’s choreographer, and Blaylock performs in the ensemble. According to Dalto, Derry is “a brilliant performer and I have learned so much from working with her. Going through her movements and singing her songs, I have learned a lot about myself as a performer and about working in a professional environment. The Broadway actors have been so sweet! They are older than me, and so it has been interesting, because as their choreographer, I am kind of their boss. I look up to them because they are all so impressive, but they have treated me as a professional. The whole process has been awe-inspiring.”

In addition to Derry, the cast of “My Fair Lady” includes Broadway actors Chris Kipiniak as Henry Higgins, Bob Ader as Pickering, Joy Franz as Mrs. Pearce and Mrs. Higgins, Steve Luker as Doolittle, and J. Max Miller as Freddy. Other USI students or alumni involved in the production include Brandon Eck and Rachel Schenk, both in the ensemble; Paige Scott, assistant musical director; Robert Dagit, sound designer; Joshua Buente, understudy; Sean Nicholl and Christa Crow, electricians; Joshua Lenn, carpenter; Bradley Lock and Anna Kysar, stitchers; and Natalie Singer, Michael Myers, and Rachel Ziegler, administrative staff.

In addition to Leibowitz and Dalto, the artistic team for “My Fair Lady” includes Cynthia Shaw, musical director; Tijana Bjelajac, scenic designer; Shan Jensen, costume designer; Craig A. Young, lighting designer; Robert Dagit, sound designer; and Michele Fugate, production stage manager.

Tickets for “My Fair Lady” are $24 for adults, $22 for seniors, and $10 for anyone 25 or younger. For more information about the New Harmony Theatre’s production of “My Fair Lady,” contact the box office at 812/682-3115 or toll free at 1-877-NHT-SHOW (648-7469), or visit the theatre’s Web site at www.usi.edu/nht.

Indiana Space Grant Consortium scholarships

All of the USI engineering students nominated for Indiana Space Grant Consortium (INSGC) Undergraduate Scholarships will receive the competitive scholarships. The INSGC scholarships are given annually to undergraduate students in a STEM- (science, technology, engineering or mathematics) related major at INSGC-affiliate institutions.

Dr. Glen Kissel, assistant professor of engineering and USI’s INSGC affiliate director, said, “During this 50th anniversary year of NASA, it is gratifying that three deserving USI engineering students have been awarded scholarships to further their education in a STEM field.”

Sarah L. Storwick of Indianapolis is a mechanical engineering intern at Raytheon Technical Services Company, a major defense contractor located in Indianapolis, this summer. An Honors Program student, she is president of the USI chapter of the Society of Women Engineers and a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. She has been a member of the Concrete Canoe Team for the last two years. Her extracurricular activity includes serving as an AMIGO and Student Ambassador, and she is employed by the University as an intramural senior supervisor for the Department of Recreation, Fitness, and Wellness.

Junior Alexander J. Schnautz of Evansville holds a summer internship at SABIC Innovative Plastics (formerly GE Plastics) in Mt. Vernon. He is a resident assistant for the STEM Living and Learning Community in Ruston Hall. His special projects in engineering classes have included design for the concrete canoe and building and programming the Lego robots. He participates in pep band and jazz band. He is a member of a Communion and Liberation University (CLU), a Catholic student group, and is music leader for the Catholic services on campus. He has been on the honors list each semester at USI.

His brother Kenneth W. Schnautz, a sophomore, was the chief organizer of USI's first Lego Robotics Competition. Held in April, the competition attracted 20 teams. He is interning at Hurst Motor Manufacturing in Princeton, Indiana. Schnautz has been involved in numerous robotics competitions over the past eight years, including the IVY Tech Lego Robotics Challenge and the VEX Robotics Competition in Bloomington, Indiana. He coaches teams and instructs robotics classes at Cynthia Heights Elementary School, St. Joseph Catholic School, Helfrich Park Middle School, and IVY Tech Community College. He helped form the USI chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, which he serves as vice president.

They will each be awarded $2,500 INSGC Undergraduate Scholarships for the 2008-2009 academic year.

The INSGC Scholarship Program's goals are to strengthen NASA and the nation's future workforce; attract and retain students in STEM disciplines; and provide support for addressing the STEM workforce development needs of the state of Indiana.
