ROBERT BARON TO KEYNOTE FIRST PSYCHOLOGY RESEARCH CONFERENCE AT ISUE. Dr. Robert Baron, a prominent social psychologist who in 1976 was recipient of one of Senator William Proxmire's Golden Fleece Awards, will keynote the first Tri-State Undergraduate Psychology Research Conference at ISUE on Saturday, March 20.

Baron's speech is entitled "Fleeced But Not Shorn: Reality, Science and the U.S. Senate". He will recount his experience with the Proxmire award and tell how that award changed his perceptions about public support for science and the obligations scientists have to explain their research. Baron has undertaken to warn researchers that they should not take public support for granted and that they should close the communication gap between science and the general public. He feels scientists have an obligation "to describe our research clearly and in terms that people who are not in science can understand".

The "Fleece Award" was given to Baron for research he was doing on how environmental factors affect human aggression. The project was funded with a National Science Foundation grant and included research on riots, civil disorders, and the effect of heat on human aggression. As one small part of the project, researchers studied how drivers reacted to delays in traffic and whether their behavior and irritability varied on warm or cool days or varied among drivers of air-conditioned and non-air-conditioned cars. It was this smaller project on which Senator Proxmire focused and deemed wasteful spending of federal money.

Baron has been a faculty member at Purdue since 1971 and was made a full professor in 1975. He has held visiting professorships at Princeton University, the University of Minnesota, and the University of Texas at Austin. His academic degrees in psychology are from Brooklyn College where he earned the Bachelor of Science in 1964 and from the University of Iowa where he received the Master of Arts in 1967 and the Doctor of Philosophy in 1968. He is a prolific writer in the field of social psychology, having authored ten books and numerous articles in professional journals.

In 1979, Baron took a two-year leave from his position as professor of psychology at Purdue to become program director for social and developmental psychology at the National Science Foundation in Washington.

There is no charge for conference registration. Persons interested in attending any part of the conference should contact Joseph Palladino at extension 1952.

NUCLEAR ARMS AND WORLD PEACE SYMPOSIUM BEGINS TODAY. The first session of a five-part symposium on Nuclear Arms and World Peace begins today at 10:30 a.m. in UC350. Educational films about nuclear arms will be shown at 10:30 a.m. and again at 1:00 p.m. "Dr. Strangelove" will be shown at 11:15 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend. Additional information may be obtained by calling Dr. Andy Jorgensen at extension 1716.

BLOOD DRIVE REMINDER: The Red Cross Blood Drive will be held on campus on Monday, March 29 from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. and Tuesday, March 30 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the University Conference Center. Faculty and staff may call the Personnel Office at extension 1790 to make an appointment.

BLUE CROSS/BLUE SHIELD SEMINARS. On Tuesday, March 23, Ms. Barbara Moon and staff members from the Blue Cross/Blue Shield Office in Indianapolis will present two informative seminars on the University's current Blue Cross/Blue Shield program. The sessions will last approximately one hour with an additional 30 minutes available for questions. The new health insurance booklets will be distributed at the seminars. The morning session will be held from 10:00 to 11:30 a.m. in UC351-352, and the afternoon session will be held from 1:30 to 3:00 p.m. in the same rooms.

Participating staff members, spouses, and other interested family members are invited to attend one of the scheduled sessions. Reservations should be made by calling Carla Holste at extension 1790 by Friday, March 19.

SHROUD OF TURIN LECTURE. Dr. Daniel Scavone, professor of history, will present a lecture about the Shroud of Turin on Monday, March 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the University Center. The event is sponsored by the ISUE Campus Ministry.

The shroud is thought by many to be the burial cloth which was wrapped around Jesus after he was taken down from the cross. Scavone was among the historians, scientists, and scholars who examined the shroud in 1978 at its last public showing.

The lecture is open to the public, and admission is free. More information may be obtained by calling the ISUE Campus Ministry at extension 1810.
