2nd edition of USI's Southern Indiana Review in bookstores

For immediate release
June 29, 1995

The 1995 edition of Southern Indiana Review is available in area bookstores.

The Review is an annual University of Southern Indiana publication highlighting some of the best work by USI faculty, alumni, and graduate students, as well as work by participants and faculty of the RopeWalk Writers Retreat, a University program held each June in New Harmony, Indiana.

The 1995 edition features art, photography, poetry, fiction, and non-fiction by emerging artists and writers from 15 states, along with photos by Eric D. Braysmith, who teaches photography and film studies at USI, Dr. Charles L. Price, USI professor of science education who obtained faculty grants to support his photography of the natural environment on campus, and K. C. Grosenick, USI graduate and USI News and Information Services photographer.; fiction by Patti Aakhus, USI instructor and author of three novels published by Wolfhound Press in Dublin, Ireland; and poetry by Philip Levine, a faculty member at the first RopeWalk in 1989 whose newest poetry collections are What Work Is and New Selected Poems.

"We are extremely happy with the range of creative work included in this year's Southern Indiana Review," said Thomas Wilhelmus, associate dean of the School of Liberal Arts and review editor. "It is a wonderful collection, broad in scope, which will both entertain and enlighten."

The Southern Indiana Review is available for $6 from the USI Bookstore on campus; the gift shop at The New Harmony Theatre in New Harmony, Indiana; Books-a-Million in Towne Square Shopping Center, Evansville; or by mail or telephone. For mail orders, send a check or money order and your return address to Southern Indiana Review, University of Southern Indiana, 8600 University Boulevard, Evansville IN 47712. For phone orders, call 812/465-1630; VISA and MasterCard are accepted.
