VOL. XXX, No. 4 - September 29, 1995

University Notes is available on USI BBS. It can be found on the BBS menu under information center: campus information: campus events.

Executive-in-Residence

Mr. John D. Lippert, chairman and CEO of National City Bancshares, Inc., will be the fall Executive-in-Residence for the USI School of Business. Mr. Lippert will speak at 9:05 and 10:35 a.m. in Mitchell Auditorium. Both sessions are open to the public. For information, call Mrs. Nancy F. Bizal, coordinator of external relations, extension 1801.

UC groundbreaking October 9

Groundbreaking will be held at 4 p.m. Monday, October 9, for the $4.7-million expansion/renovation project at the University Center. Students, faculty, staff, and friends will participate. The University Center will not be closed during the work, which is expected to take about 12 months.

The USI Board of Trustees Finance Committee, acting for the full Board, accepted the bids of six contractors September 22. Deig Brothers Lumber and Construction Company was named general contractor. Other contracts went to Premier Electric Company, Arc Mechanical Co., U.S. Industries (roofing), Johnson Controls, and Flotech (test and balance).

The expansion will nearly double the 52,000-square-foot building, which opened in 1974. There will be an additional entrance on the south side, a ballroom on the second level, and a multipurpose area with the capacity to seat 530 people for dining and 750 for meetings. There also will be a computer lab, a small art gallery, a formal meeting and dining area, and more space for Student Life staff offices, conference facilities, student publications and other student activity offices, and for student recreation and lounge areas.

12th annual psychology conference slated at USI

Three speakers will be featured for the 12th annual Mid-America Conference for Teachers of Psychology (MACTOP), slated Friday and Saturday, October 13-14, in the University Conference Center.

The USI Psi Chi Chapter will sponsor two pre-conference presentations by Dr. Steve Davis of Emporia State University, Kansas. He will speak on "Student Involvement" and "Cheating" at 10 a.m. and 12 noon Thursday, October 12, in UC350; the latter session is open to the public. Dr. Davis is a past president of the national Psi Chi psychology honorary and is a recognized expert on student cheating, based on studies that have drawn responses from students and faculty nationwide. He and Dr. Joseph Palladino, USI psychology professor and MACTOP founder, are co-authors of the recently published textbook Psychology, which has met with much success.

Other MACTOP speakers will be Dr. Mitch Handelsman of the University of Colorado at Denver, who will discuss "The ethics of teaching: Beyond virtue" at the opening general session at 10:45 a.m. Friday and Dr. Douglas Bernstein of the University of Illinois, who will present the after-dinner talk Friday evening on the topic "Stranger than truth: Student excuses and what to do about them." Dr. Handelsman was CASE Professor of the Year in Colorado and also received this year's Teaching Excellence Award from the American Psychological Association Division on Teaching.

Mr. Rob Kerney, a USI student, will become the first student to make a presentation in the 12-year MACTOP history, participating as a panelist in a Friday afternoon session on "Teaching students with disabilities." Mr. Kerney, a diabetic who lost his sight, has been one of the more active students on campus, including serving as president of the Student Government Association. Several other USI students (Psi Chi members) will have various roles at the conference, which is being coordinated by USI Extended Services. For information, contact Dr. Palladino, extension 1952, or Extended Services, extension 1989.

Teleconference to look at Affirmative Action changes:

"Affirmative Action Under Siege: What's at stake for our campuses, careers, and communities?" is the topic of a national teleconference on Wednesday, October 11, which will be aired between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the University Conference Center.

The free program is open to the public and is being coordinated on campus by the USI Multicultural Center staff. It is sponsored nationally by Black Issues in Higher Education, Fairfax, Virginia.

Ms. Julianne Malveaux will moderate the discussion among Ms. Elaine R. Jones, director-counsel, NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund; Ms. Patricia Ireland, president, National Organization for Women; Mr. Willie Brown, former speaker of the California House of Representatives; Mr. Michael R. Forrest, executive director, National Association of Colleges and Employers; Ms. Maria Santos, senior director, Human Resource Employee Diversity, California State University System; and Mr. Everett Winters, president, American Association for Affirmative Action. (Mr. Winters is the uncle of Mrs. Emily Winters-Brown, a Student Life program adviser in the USI Multicultural Center.)

Quaker Oats turnaround to be explored

Representatives of Quaker Oats Company at Danville, Illinois, will be featured on Tuesday, October 10, in the next "Partners for Success" presentation of the Southern Indiana Labor-Management Education Forum.

The program at 9 a.m. in the Conference Center will be presented by Mr. Jim Pigg, recording secretary of Local 347, American Federation of Grain Millers (AFGM), and Ms. Kristen Doster, Human Resources supervisor. The entire Local 347 Executive Committee is expected to participate in the program.

The Danville plant was operating under a traditional mindset in the late '80s: the 408 employees who made Chewy Granola Bars, Oat Squares, Captain Crunch, and other Quaker cereal products were expected to tend to their business and let management manage. Poor labor-management relations led to a strike in 1988. During 1991 negotiations, the two sides discovered they shared the same values and began to develop a vision. Their efforts to seek commitment, trust, and honesty, balancing employee and company needs, led to contract settlement six weeks early, the first plant to settle early in company history.

Employees not only helped increase production by two million cases but created two new flavors for the chewy bars. The plant now has operational flexibility, improved wages and benefits, and a profitable operation in the face of intense competition from such giants as Kellogg, Ralston, and General Mills.

Mr. Pigg and Ms. Doster experienced plant transition first-hand and will discuss changing the old mindset, determining shared values, the challenges ahead, and what can be learned from the Quaker experience. Area plants are urged to have labor and management attend the 2 1/2-hour session as a group. Early registration is recommended due to limited seating; the fee is $10 per person. Call extension 1989 for reservations or for information from Mr. Tim Mahoney, forum coordinator.

The session also will feature a pre-recorded interview with Mr. Alfredo J. Estrada, publisher of Hispanic magazine, and attempt to explore several issues that sponsors feel are being overlooked — the impact on college admissions for students of color and women, job and career prospects, role of white women, campus polarization, and minority faculty recruiting and hiring practices, among others. For information, contact Mrs. Pamela Hopson, center director, or Mrs. Winters-Brown, 812/465-7188.

Guest artistic director appointed:

A press conference/reception will be held at 1 p.m. Friday, September 29, in L100 to introduce Dr. Jay Raphael of New York City, who will be guest artistic director for The New Harmony Theatre for the 1996 season. Dr. Raphael will serve in the interim position pending replacement of Mr. J. Steven Williford. The University manages the New Harmony theatre program. The reception will provide an opportunity for the USI and New Harmony theatre community, New Harmony merchants, and others interested in the program to meet the interim director.

Dr. Raphael received a B.A. in speech and theatre from Brooklyn College, an M.A. in speech education from Northwestern University, and Ph.D. in theatre from Michigan State University. He began teaching in Brooklyn in 1965 and has since held faculty positions in Miami, Virginia, Illinois, Georgia, Michigan, and Ohio, interspersed with theatrical work — primarily directing — in California, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Cincinnati, and New York City. He currently serves on the board of Colleagues Theatre Company in New York City.

Names in the news:

Dr. Charles T. Barber, chair of the Philosophy and Political Science Department, participated in the annual meeting of the International Studies Association Midwest, held September 22-23 in Indianapolis. He was panel chair and a discussant for a session on "Science, Technology, and Society in Asia."

Mr. Steven J. Bridges, USI chief accountant, was elected second vice president of the Indiana Association Of College Business Officers at the annual meeting September 21 in Indianapolis. Mr. Bridges will take care of facility coordination and vendor relations for future conferences and will serve on the Executive Committee.

Dr. Susanna M. Hoeness-Krupsaw, assistant professor of English, led a workshop on technical writing September 21 for area high school and middle school English teachers.

Ms. Judi Kuric, continuing education coordinator for the School of Nursing and Health Professions, has been selected to serve on the national Autonomic Dysreflexia Guideline Development Panel sponsored by the Consortium for Spinal Cord Injury Clinical Practice Guidelines. The consortium consists of 15 professional organizations and medical societies interested in care of the client with spinal cord injury.

Mr. Bruce Pearl, head basketball coach, has been selected by the Indiana State Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, to receive the 1995 Hope Award in recognition of outstanding community leadership. The award will be presented at a dinner meeting at 6 p.m. Monday, October 2, in The Manor at St. Mary's Medical Center.

Congratulations...

to Mrs. Georgie A. Freese, instructor in nursing, on the birth September 20 of a granddaughter, Hannah Meryl Freese.

Thank you...

to 50 faculty and staff who attended the September 21 Greek Open Forum, an initial effort to enhance the relationship between USI faculty, staff, and Greeks. If any faculty member is interested in serving as an advisor, please contact Ms. Julie Dunn Crawford, Student Life program advisor, extension 1949. Many USI chapters need faculty advisors but don't know who to ask.

USI Theatre

USI Theatre will open the 1995 fall season with Beth Henley's Pulitzer Prize-winning Crimes of the Heart, a play portraying comedic lunacy at the old homestead of three Southern sisters, one of whom has shot her husband.

Mr. Elliot H. Wasserman, assistant professor of theatre, will direct the opening production. The curtain goes up at 8 p.m. Thursday-Saturday, October 12-13-14 and 19-20-21, and 2 p.m. Sundays, October 15 and 22. Tickets are $7 for general admission and $5 for the USI community (faculty, staff, and students) and for senior citizens (60-up). For reservations call extension 1668.

Southern Hospitality Day:

The first of the fall Southern Hospitality Days is slated Saturday, October 7, in Mitchell Auditorium, to allow Tri-State high school students to become acquainted with USI. Other fall programs will be held Fridays, October 27 and November 10, and Saturdays, November 18 and December 2. The programs begin at 9 a.m. in Mitchell Auditorium. Students and their parents and friends are invited to join the USI Enrollment Services staff for informational sessions on academic programs, financial assistance, campus activities and tours, free lunch, and more. No reservations are required. For information, call extension 1765.

Greater Evansville College Fair:

The Greater Evansville College Fair for high school students in Vanderburgh, Posey, Gibson, and Warrick counties will begin at 1:15 p.m. Sunday, October 8, in the Physical Activities Center. Representatives of 85 colleges and universities will be available to discuss their schools with some 3,000 students and their parents who are expected to attend the annual college fair. For information, contact Mrs. Tracy L. Wilson, assistant Admissions director, extension 1671, or Mrs. Lealie A. Townsend, Enrollment Services counselor, extension 1670.

The Learning Edge IV:

Dr. Joyce Gulley Hamon, USI assistant professor of education, will be the keynote speaker for The Learning Edge IV conference on innovative approaches to using language and literature in the K-8 classroom. The conference will get under way at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, October 7, in the Wright Administration Building. Two keynote lunches will be held to allow grade-specific concentrations.

Dr. Hamon is an expert in the field of alternative and authentic assessment. A former primary and multi-age classroom teacher, she specializes in the use of process writing and student writing samples as a means of assessment. Her experience includes conducting a student-centered, inquiry-based classroom.

The 17 concurrent sessions will feature use of Indiana historic sites as a springboard for language arts projects. Staff from Historic Southern Indiana and various southern Indiana and state historic sites will participate.

New Harmony Gallery:

The New Harmony Gallery of Contemporary Art will feature the "Womenspeak" exhibit, opening Thursday, October 5, and continuing through November 5. The exhibit involves the work of 25 West Coast textile artists, responding to quotes by famous women. The opening reception will be held at 8 p.m. Friday, October 6.

The Gallery is switching to fall/winter hours of 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, and will be open on Sundays by appointment only or when an opening reception is held for a new exhibit.

Pinnacle induction:

Pinnacle, the student honorary for nontraditional (over age 25) students, will induct 38 new members in a ceremony at 3 p.m. Sunday, October 1, in the University Conference Center. Dr. Robert L. Reid, vice president for Academic Affairs, will be the speaker. Students must carry at least a 3.0 grade point average and be involved in both University and community activities to be eligible for Pinnacle.

Estate Planning Seminar:

Mr. Alan L. Cates, attorney and estate planning specialist from Chattanooga, Tennessee, will lead seminars at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Thursday, October 5, in Mitchell Auditorium, sponsored by the USI Foundation and Development Office. The morning session will be for professionals, the afternoon session for alumni and friends. For information, contact Mr. David A. Bower, development office and special gifts coordinator, extension 7039.

Mr. Cates is a partner with Schumacher & Thompson, Chattanooga; a fellow of the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel; a consultant with Robert F. Sharpe & Co., Inc.; and a faculty member for the National Planned Giving Institute.

FYI —

Got a clue? Academic Skills needs your help in solving the "Case of the Missing Furniture." A.S. detectives have determined that some furniture mysteriously disappeared between 4:30 p.m. September 8 and 8 a.m. September 11. Prior to that time, 12 seemingly compatible walnut-topped round tables and 46 blue stack chairs cohabited harmoniously. Inquiries among tutors, tutees, and Academic Skills staff offered no evidence that one table and its four chairs were unhappy with the companions or surroundings. If anyone has seen the "missing furniture" aimlessly wandering the halls of USI, please guide them back home. Tutors, tutees, and Academic Skills staff miss them terribly. The place is just not the same without them. Thank you for your assistance. Call extension 1743 if you have information.

Open house: The UC Video Network will hold an open house from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday, October 3, in the Student Life Office. Faculty and staff who want to learn about the new animated format are invited to stop in. Workshops will be scheduled later to train anyone who wants to develop a presentation with the animation software. For information, call Mr. Barry K. Schonberger, dean of students, extension 1862.

Woodcarver: Mr. Bob Koressel will demonstrate woodcarving from 12 noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, October 7, at The Atheneum, in the continuing monthly series of free public demonstrations of 19th century crafts.

Wanted: A cheerleading advisor is needed to work with the Red and Blue Squad coaches and Student Life Office in coordinating squad activities and appearances. A desire to help far outweighs any lack of experience. Please call the Student Life Office for details.

Deadline extended: The deadline has been extended to November 1 for submissions of poetry, short stories, essays, photography, or artwork for the 1995-96 edition of Southern Indiana Review, a USI publication highlighting some of the best work by USI faculty, alumni, graduate students, and RopeWalk Writers Retreat participants and faculty. Ms. Martha W. Chapin, senior administrative secretary in the School of Liberal Arts, is accepting submissions and can answer queries; call extension 1630.

Graduate Council: The next USI Graduate Council meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, October 4, in L100.

Christo art speaker:

Mr. Tom Golden, director of Christo "wrap art" projects, will discuss the artist's work at 9 a.m. Monday, October 2, in Mitchell Auditorium. The program, sponsored by the School of Liberal Arts, is open to the public. Mr. Golden has the largest collection of the Christo's pre-exhibit designs, currently on display at the Richmond (Indiana) Museum of Art. Dr. Hilary A. Braysmith, USI assistant professor of art history who is acquainted with Mr. Golden, is coordinating his visit.

Movies:

Fall film series - Mr. Deeds Goes to Town (1936) Director: Frank Capra; cast: Gary Cooper, Jean Arthur. In this classic comedy, shady lawyers attempt to separate a small town poet from his newly acquired inheritance by discrediting his sanity in a competency hearing. The film will be shown at 1:30 and 6 p.m. Tuesday, October 3 in Forum 1; it is free, open to the public.

A commentary on the times is that the word "honesty" is now preceded by "old-fashioned."
