

NEW SWIMMING CLASSES

START MONDAY AT USI

For Immediate Release
July 7, 1988

A new two-week section of swimming classes for children will get under way Monday, July 11, in the University of Southern Indiana's summer program for Continuing Education.

One series of classes meets Monday through Thursday and allows children age 5 to 14 to develop a variety of aquatic skills, as well as fundamental strokes, and receive American Red Cross water safety certification in beginner through advanced swimmer categories. The registration fee is $35.

There also is a class for 3- to 5-year-olds, emphasizing water safety and adjustment and development of gross motor skills. The registration fee is $25.

Call the USI Office of Continuing Education, (812) 464-1863, for information or to register.
