CELEBRATING THE HUMANITIES. Mr. Philip Hagemann, Posey County native and free-lance composer, will present two new one-act operas as part of the spring "Celebrating the Humanities" series being presented by the Division of Humanities. The operas will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 12, at Murphy Auditorium in New Harmony and include a new arrangement and English translation of Debussy's "The Prodigal Son" and an original opera by Mr. Hagemann that is an adaptation of George Bernard Shaw's one-act play, "The Six of Calais." Both were cast and rehearsed in New York City, where they will be performed a week following the New Harmony production. Admission at New Harmony will be $6 for regular tickets, $2 for students, with University faculty and staff members eligible for the student price. Call extension 1735 for reservations.

Mr. Hagemann lives in Manhattan and is conductor of the Rockland Choral Society in New York. "The Six of Calais" is his third creation based on Shaw creations, following up on one-act operas based on "Passion, Poison, and Petrification" and "The Music Cure." The latter was performed at the 1984 New Harmony Festival of Music and in 1986 at East Carolina University. Local audiences also will recall Mr. Hagemann's 1986 creation when he set to music several works by the late poet and wordsmith, Mr. John Ciardi, for an event in USI's premiere Community of Scholars series. Mr. Hagemann has had about 50 choral works published. In recent years, he has taught junior high-level students, adapting music for them. "I have a certain facility for arranging things from scratch," he explains.

The composer/conductor currently is holding his fifth annual Hagemann Award for Musical Performance, a competition he sponsors to recognize and encourage musical talent in his home county. Four finalists have been chosen and a winner will be selected at a concert to be held in July or August. Past winners include a vocalist, a flutist, a classical guitarist, and a pianist. "The level of talent has been high," Mr. Hagemann notes, "but that doesn't mean they will make their careers in music. I don't necessarily care if they pursue music careers. We need intelligent music audiences, also." Mr. Hagemann's music career started when he was in second grade at Mt. Vernon. He later went to state competitions three years, winning the last one, and played with Northwestern University and Army bands before embarking on his personal career of composing, conducting, and teaching.

DR. BENDER TO LECTURE. In the next "Celebrating the Humanities" program, Dr. Eileen Bender, assistant dean of faculties and associate professor of English at Indiana University-South Bend, will lecture at 11 a.m. Thursday, April 2, in Forum II, on "The Woman Who Came to Dinner: Literary Appetites," and at 7:30 p.m. at McCullough Library, Washington Square, on "Cookbookery: Culinary Productions, Seductions, and Subversions." Both programs are free and open to the public. Dr. Bender's specializations are American literature and criticism, women's studies, and narrative in literature and film. A special area of interest has been the work of Joyce Carol Oates.

NAMES IN THE NEWS. Dr. John H. Gottcent, professor of English, has been selected as a participant in a Summer Institute at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. Sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the six-week seminar will focus on "The Theory and Teaching of World Literature."

A paper by Dr. Walter Jermakowicz, associate professor of business, on "The Influence of Organizational Structures on Effectiveness: A Theoretical and Empirical Approach" was judged "Best Paper" among 33 submitted at the 23rd annual meeting March 25-28 of the Midwest Management Society of the Midwest Business Administration Association in Chicago.

Dr. Thomas M. Rivers, professor of English, delivered a paper entitled "Between the Sacred and the Secular: Rhetoric and the Formation of Character" at the College Composition and Communication Conference March 21 in Atlanta. His paper was part of a session that he organized on the relation between rhetoric and moral education.

CONGRATULATIONS to Ms. Jean Jenkins, administrative secretary in the Office of University Relations, who was married Saturday, March 21, to Mr. Andrew Devine, an employee of Mike's Transmission Service.

NEW FACES. Mrs. Mary J. Guthridge has joined the University family as a clerk typist I in the Division of Business. A native of Mt. Carmel, Illinois, where she attended high school and Wabash Valley Junior College, she previously was employed in the University of Evansville School of Business. She and her husband, David, a conductor-brakeman with CSX Railroad, live at 736 S. Boehne Camp Road. They have a 6-year-old daughter, Jessica.

EMPLOYEE AWARDS BANQUET. Fourteen USI employees will be honored at the 1987 Employee Awards Banquet, to be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, April 2, at the University Home. (See attachment at the back of University Notes.) Special recognition will be given to five employees observing 15 years with the University, four observing 10 years, and five who have been here five years.

INTER-GREEK AWARDS BANQUET. The Inter-Greek Council will hold its annual awards banquet from 6 to 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 2, at the UC Dining Room.

SYMPATHY. The University community extends its sympathy to Mr. Chuck Davis, assistant manager in the UC Dining Room, in the death Sunday, March 29, of his father, Mr. Charles D. Davis, 67, in Evansville.

Sympathy is extended also to Mr. Harry Wheatcroft, maintenance mechanic at Historic New Harmony, Inc., in the death Thursday, March 26, of his father, Mr. Harry G. Wheatcroft, 72, in Evansville.

USI ALUMNI ANNUAL MEETING, DINNER. The USI Alumni Association will hold its annual meeting at 6 p.m. and reception/dinner/dance at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, April 25, at the University Center. All University faculty and staff members are invited to attend. Reservations for the prime rib dinner are $12.50 per person and may be made by calling the Development Office, extension 1918. (See brochure distributed with University Notes.)

SEDER SUPPER. The 10th annual Seder Supper will be held at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday, April 8, at the University Home, hosted by the USI Campus Ministry and the Office of the Vice President for University Relations. Cantor Regina Holt, Mrs. Jeanne Ellenstein, and Mrs. Jeanette Posin will conduct the Seder. The program is $6.50 for adults, $3.50 for children. Make reservations by Monday, April 6, by calling the Campus Ministry office, extension 1810 or 1871.

NEW HUMANITIES SEQUENCE CLARIFICATION. The Division of Humanities is offering an experimental course, "West 211X: The Western Tradition I," for the first time this fall. Advisors should know that the star (*) which usually designates Humanities General Education courses was mistakenly omitted from the fall schedule; all sections of 211X do indeed count for General Education. Course descriptions of each section have been published and are available. Advisors wishing additional copies or seeking further information about the course, should contact Dr. John Gottcent, professor of English, extension 1750.

USI ALUMNI TO EXHIBIT AT NEW HARMONY. The New Harmony Gallery of Contemporary Art will present the USI Alumni Invitational exhibition April 5-29, featuring works in a variety of media by Ms. Lysa Howard-McDowell, Mr. Don Ledbetter, Ms. Margie Marx, Mr. Dennis Montgomery, and Ms. Christine Reising. They were selected by the USI art faculty to be represented in the exhibition and will be guests for an opening reception from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, April 5.

Ms. Howard-McDowell, a 1984 graduate, currently lives in Santa Cruz, California, where she is a book designer and the production manager for Story Line Press. Since leaving Evansville, she has been a consignment photographer for the New York Times and has exhibited her paintings and drawings in California.

Mr. Ledbetter, also a 1984 graduate, was a zookeeper, signpainter, and investigator for an engineering firm while attending USI. He now is working on a Master of Fine Arts degree in sculpture at Clemson University in South Carolina.

Ms. Marx is a 1979 graduate who received a Master of Art degree in 1982 from Purdue University. She now lives in Lafayette and shows her drawings and paintings throughout the Midwest. She has been represented by New Harmony Gallery since 1983.

Mr. Montgomery, a 1985 graduate, won several awards in the annual Student Art Exhibition while attending USI and now is pursuing his career as a sculptor in the graduate program at SIU-Edwardsville.

Ms. Reising, now an assistant professor at Siena Heights College in Adrian, Michigan, and resident of Ann Arbor, began undergraduate studies at Wayne State University and received her degree from USI in 1979. She earned a Master of Fine Arts from the University of Windsor, Canada, in 1981. She will be showing pieces from a two-year collaboration with Ms. Margo LaGattuta, poetess, called "Noedgelines."

HISTORIC, MODERN CRAFTS AT NEW HARMONY. An "Indiana Folk Crafts Today" exhibit will open Friday, April 3, in the Atheneum at New Harmony and become a feature of the Heritage Week "Life Crafts of the 1800s" program Monday-Saturday, April 6-11. The two exhibits will demonstrate the relationship between historic and present-day craftspeople. The modern exhibit will feature 15 artisans in glass, clay, metal, weaving, needlework, leather, and wood, and will remain on display through April 30. The "Life Crafts of the 1800s" to be demonstrated next week include lye-soap, butter, silk (series culture), and harness making; spinning and weaving (sheep to shawl); quilling; smocking; loofah and corn-shuck crafts; stained glass; candle dipping; dulcimer making and playing; basketry; pottery; quilting; woodcarving; sheep shearing; and blacksmithing. The community bake oven also will be in operation. The historic crafts program will be presented for Tri-State elementary school children during the week, then will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, April 11. Crafts demonstrations will be included in regular Historic New Harmony tours. Tickets will be $5 for adults, $4 for senior citizens (60 +), and $3 for students (age 6-18).

AMANA DONOR TO VISIT. Mr. Elmer Graesser, the Amana, Iowa, resident who donated a complete set of the published writings of the Inspirationists of Amana to the USI Center for Communal Studies, will be on campus April 9-10, appearing in several anthropology and history classes with Professor Jonathan Andelson of Grinnell College, who will give slide lectures on Amana. Dr. Andelson is president of the National Historic Communal Societies Association, which is headquartered at the USI Center. The association will hold its board meeting April 11 at New Harmony.

ARTS FESTIVAL PARTICIPATION. The Ohio River Arts Festival will be held May 9-10 on the downtown Walkway. The opening ceremony and presentation of the Mayor's Arts Award will be held May 7 at the Centrum Building on the Walkway. Persons interested in setting up a display/information booth should contact Ms. Beth Schofield at the Arts and Education Council by Friday, April 17. Applications for space or nomination blanks in the Mayor's Arts Award are available in the Office of University Relations.

ADDITIONAL COMPUTER DISKS AVAILABLE. The Computer Literacy Training/Preview Center has received additional disks from PC-SIG, an organization that distributes public domain and user-supported software for the IBM-PC and its compatibles. Among the latest arrivals are worksheets for Symphony and Lotus 1-2-3, Touchtype (a keyboarding program), Copy Protection/Unprotect Utilities disk, and several other utility disks. The collection of educational games also has been expanded, with new disks including Spacewars, PC-Chess, and Amulet of Yendor. The Computer Literacy Center now has 74 disks in the collection of public domain and user-supported software for the IBM. A complete list of titles and disks is available upon request. If interested in obtaining copies of disks, please call Ms. Becky Warford, center coordinator, extension 1954.

"LITTLE" GRAN PRIX SLATED. The Activities Programming Board is sponsoring a "Little Eagle Gran Prix" in connection with the regular Eagle Gran Prix on Saturday, April 25. It is open to 3- to 8-year-old youngsters who are children of or relatives of USI students or members of the faculty and staff, and have their own big wheels to ride in the 25-yard race. They will race in three age groups: 3-4, 5-6, and 7-8. There will be preliminaries at 9:30 a.m., with the main event scheduled for 1:30 p.m. The race will be run in heats of three riders, single elimination, with awards to be presented to the top three finishers in each age group. There will be free refreshments for everyone. Entry blanks may be picked up at the UC Information Desk or for information, call the APB at extension 1872.

SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS. July 1 is the deadline for submitting applications for two major scholarships -- the Rotary International Scholarship for an expense-paid year of overseas study for both graduate and undergraduate students, and the new $1,000 Joe Aaron Memorial Scholarship for journalism students.

The Rotary program is intended to further international understanding and friendly relations among peoples of different countries; Rotary Scholars are expected to be outstanding ambassadors of good will to the people of the host country through both informal and formal appearances before Rotary clubs and districts, school and civic organizations, and other forums. After the period of study is completed the scholar is expected to share the experiences of the scholarship year with the people of his/her home country and the Rotarians who sponsored the scholarship. Interested persons may contact Dr. Darrel Bigham, USI professor of history, for information or applications.

The Joe Aaron Scholarship will be awarded to a junior or senior who can demonstrate financial need, appreciation for the written word, ability to communicate and write well, good moral standing, and last but not least, appreciation of the humorous side of life. Applications and samples of written work should be sent to The Evansville Courier, c/o Joe Aaron Memorial Scholarship, 201 N.W. Second Street, Evansville, IN 47708.

LET BSU COOK FOR YOU. The Black Student Union has rescheduled its fundraiser -- the fried chicken dinner sale -- for Saturday, April 11, when dinner delivery within a 4-mile radius of the campus will get under way at 12 noon. BSU members will be taking orders from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday-Friday, April 8-10, in the Administration Building corridor. The dinners are $3.50. For information, call Mr. Dean Hall, admissions counselor, extension 1765.

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK. National Library Week will be observed April 5-11 on the theme "Take Time To Read . . . Use Your Library."
