Flooding memories: USI employee recalls disaster, assistance from United Way

And the rain came.

Seven inches fell in Evansville and 10 in Louisville. A farmhouse - home to four generations of the Bernard family - stood its ground south of Dogtown in the river bottoms between the two.

The Ohio crested at 47.5 feet in March of '97. It's usually closer to 20 that time of year.

When the floodwaters swelled, the farmhouse became a sponge, soaking the river up into its floors and wicking it into the walls.

"All of the sudden we were homeless," recalled Ms. Mary Ann Bernard, administrative assistant in Human Resources. "We didn't have a place to go besides my mother-in-law's house."

In a rush, she and her four children gathered life's essentials. In addition to the bare necessities, each youngster was allowed to take one prized possession. The oldest chose the computer. The youngest, a teddy bear.

The day after the family fled, Bernard's husband John drove a tractor to the farmhouse, moving furniture and important papers to the second floor. The next day, he took a boat.

"But the house sat for over a week with water at the floor boards and no heat," Ms. Bernard said. "Everything drew mold and mildew and dampness."

"We opened the back door and it was just nothing but slimy, nasty, silty mud. I'll never forget the smell. It was like walking into a cave because it was so cold and wet."

Inside, the water had reached a depth of about 6 inches before receding. Outside, the aluminum siding was ripped away, beginning at the foundation and reaching to a height of roughly 3 feet.

Bernard

Five months passed before the Bernards could return to their home.

"The whole Ohio Valley was declared a disaster area because of the flooding," Bernard said. "The Red Cross and Catholic Charities were the first friendly faces we met after dealing with FEMA and the insurance people, who were less than inspiring."

"I was totally devastated and didn't know where to start."

The Red Cross provided advice, industrial cleaners, and nourishment. Catholic Charities made a financial contribution to the massive home repair.

"They practically beat me to the door to see how they could help," Bernard said.

A group of Boy Scouts also volunteered, picking up drift and tearing out the ruined carpet and old flooring.

"Without them, we'd have had a lot more work to do by ourselves," Bernard observed.

The American Red Cross, Catholic Charities Bureau, and Boy Scouts are all organizations that receive funding from the United Way.

"When I see all the agencies they support, it makes me wish more people were generous in their giving," Bernard said.

"I think we have an obligation to support non-profit agencies. There are a lot of people out there who are in need, and you never know when it is going to be you."

Bernard joined the University staff about two years ago. She also is enrolled as a student, majoring in psychology. Her daughter, Lenore, is a sophomore at USI.

USI goal $40,000 for United Way

USI will kick off this year's United Way Campaign Monday, October 22, when employee pledge forms will be distributed on campus.

The University's goal is to raise $40,000. Unless specified by a donor, each contribution will stay in the Evansville area, supporting non-profit agencies in Vanderburgh, Warrick, and Spencer counties.

USI employees may participate in two ways:

■ Payroll Deduction - A pledge can be automatically deducted from an employee's paycheck.

■ Cash Gifts - Checks may be made out to United Way of Southwestern Indiana.

Employee donors will be eligible for a variety of prize drawings based on their level of giving. Campaign coordinators will collect completed pledge forms on or before Friday, October 26, the final day of the USI campaign.

Additional information about the campaign, "fair share" donations, and incentives will be distributed with the pledge forms.

Encounter space with NASA employees

An aerospace engineer who helps power NASA's Space Program, and an archivist recording its history will be the featured speakers in the next installment of the University Core Curriculum Council's "Encountering Nature" lecture series at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, November 1, in Carter Hall.

Both the engineer, Mr. Dave McKissock, and the archivist, Ms. Bonnie Smith, work on the staff of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's John H. Glenn Research Center in Cleveland, Ohio. The center defines and develops propulsion, electrical power, and communications technologies for NASA's aeronautics and space missions.

McKissock began his NASA career in 1983, supporting development of the electrical power system for the International Space Station. He spent a year working at NASA headquarters in Washington, D.C., where he helped negotiate with the Russians when they became partners in the program.

He now is conducting analyses for future spacecraft power systems and is supporting the on-orbit operations of the Space Station power system.

McKissock holds a B.S. in mechanical engineering from Purdue University. He resides in Middleburg Heights, Ohio.

Smith joined the research center in 1999. In her role as archivist, she preserves NASA Glenn history in its various documented forms for use by NASA staff as well as others interested in researching aviation and space history.

She also evaluates NASA's recorded history for proper preservation techniques and works to preserve and promote the unique personality and history of the Glenn Research Center.

Smith holds a Master of Library Science from Indiana University. Before joining the Glenn Research Center, she was employed as director and archivist of the New Harmony Workingmen's Institute. She resides in Rocky River, Ohio.

The lecture series is free and open to the public. It will continue Wednesday, December 5, with a presentation by Dr. Paul Doss, chair of the Geology and Physics Department. His topic will be "Encountering Yellowstone: Managing Natural Resources (or Visitors) in the World's First National Park."

Business leaders featured

USI will host "The New Leadership Challenge: Teaming Principles with Practices in a Time of Change," a one-day closed-circuit television presentation, from 9:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, November 7, at Evansville's Victory Theatre.

Featuring some of the world's leading business authorities, the program in the sixth annual Worldwide Lessons in Leadership Series will include Mr. Stephen Covey, author of The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People; Mr. Ken Blanchard, co-author of The One Minute Manager; Mr. Tom Peters, author of the Brand You50, the Project50, and the Professional Service Firm50; Ms. Martha Rogers, co-author of The One to One Future and Enterprise One to One; Mr. Gary Hamel, author of Competing for the Future; and Mr. Harry Paul, co-author of Fish!

Tackling today's toughest issues, the speakers will address ways to stay focused on primary objectives during economic upheaval; to build and sustain an atmosphere of trust and openness; to keep and inspire the most talented workers during cutbacks; to develop leadership at every level; and to go beyond managing a business to leading an industry.

The presentation also will include two FORTUNE Executive Panels with Mr. Michael Dell, founder, chairman, and CEO of Dell Computer; Mr. Jeff Immelt, president and chairman elect of GE; Mr. Dennis Kozlowski, CEO of TYCO, Int. Ltd.; Mr. Gordon Bethune, CEO of Continental Airlines; and Ms. Andrea Jung, CEO of Avon.

The discussion will focus on how the best companies transform themselves into "revolutionaries" to keep pace with a changing world. Journalist Linda Ellerbee will serve as moderator.

"The New Leadership Challenge: Teaming Principles with Practices in a Time of Change" is being presented at more than 150 sites in the United States and in 50 other countries with the cooperation of FORTUNE magazine.

The program cost is $199 per person. A variety of discounts are available to teams of three or more people registering from the same organization.

To register, call 800/689-9771 or visit the Web at www.lessonsinleadership.com.

HSI to celebrate anniversary

Historic Southern Indiana (HSI) will observe its 15th anniversary with a special celebration Saturday, October 27, at the Petroleum Club in Evansville.

The anniversary event will include a social hour, buffet dinner, and short program. Mr. Darrell Voelker, director of the Harrison County Chamber of Commerce and chair of the HSI Friends Committee, is chairing the celebration.

Founded in 1986, HSI is a community outreach program of USI. Since its inception, it has worked with state and federal agencies, tourism organizations, historic sites, educators, and preservation organizations to promote and preserve the qualities that make southern Indiana such a special place.

The cost of the program is $25 per person. For more information, call the Special Events Office at extension 1930.

In November, HSI will conduct "Your Town: Designing Its Future," an intensive three-day workshop in Aurora, Indiana.

A program of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, the State University of New York's landscape architecture program, and the National Endowment for the Arts, the workshop's mission is to teach and promote the value of good community design to rural communities.

HSI's first Your Town workshop was held in New Harmony, Indiana, in 1988. Historic Landmarks Foundation of Indiana, Aurora Main Street, and Dearborn County Convention and Visitors Bureau are assisting with the planning this year.

"We are very excited to have the opportunity to conduct another Your Town workshop," said Mrs. Leslie Townsend, HSI program coordinator.

"We think the town of Aurora is an excellent location and everyone has been very helpful with the planning process."

Originally planned for July, the workshop was postponed to Thursday through Saturday, November 8 through 10.

Names in the news

Achievements

Mrs. Michelle Alvarez, assistant professor of social work, and Miss Kim Davis, second-year USI M.S.W. student, presented "Meeting Continuing Education Requirements through Distance Education: Is it for Me?" Saturday, October 13, at the 34th annual Midwest School Social Work Conference in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Dr. Larry Arp, professor emeritus of business education, received the North Central Business Education Association Teacher of the Year Award for Outstanding Contributions to Business Education by a Senior College or University Teacher at the Minnesota Business Teachers Association/North Central Business Education Association Convention Friday, October 5, in Red Wing, Minnesota.

Arp retired in 2000 after 28 years of distinguished service to USI as a professor of business education and chair of the Information Systems and Business Education Department. He also served as director of Athletics from 1987 to 1991. Before joining the University, Arp spent numerous years as a high school instructor in Nevada, Colorado, and Iowa.

Dr. Donald E. Pitzer, professor of history and director of the Center for Communal Studies, gave the keynote address at the Indiana Academy of the Social Sciences annual meeting Friday, October 12, at St. Joseph's College. "The Use and Abuse of Utopia" was the title of his presentation.

Dr. Thomas M. Rivers, professor of English and director of the Master of Arts in Liberal Studies (MALS) program, was appointed to a three-year term on the board of directors of the Association of Graduate and Liberal Studies Programs (AGLSP). AGLSP membership approved his appointment at the annual conference held in October at Dartmouth College in Hanover, New Hampshire. He also presented "MALS Faculty Recruitment" during the pre-conference workshop.

Grants

Extended Services received $32,471 for year three of a four-year grant from the U.S. Department of Education, Child Care Access Means Parents in Schools program. Mrs. Ginger Ramsden, manager of USI's Family, School, and Children's Programs, is the program director.

Dr. Eric McCloud, assistant professor of biology, received $9,710 from Cuyahoga Valley National Park for Inventory of Insects.

Congratulations

Dr. Saxon Reasons, manager of Instructional Technology Programming, and husband Ira are the parents of a son, Riley James, born Monday, October 8. Reasons will remain on leave through the end of December.

For job openings, visit the Human Resources Web site at www.usi.edu/hr/. Information also is available on the bulletin boards in the front lobby of the Wright Administration Building and outside the Human Resources office, or call the USI job line at 465-7117.

Welcome

Hammons

Larson

Medcraft

Ms. Lyera J. Hammons has accepted the position of student scheduler in Scheduling Services. The Evansville resident holds a B.A. in business administration from USI. While a student, she was an information desk worker, served as chief justice of the Student Government Association, and was involved with the Marketing Club in its inaugural year. She has directed the Mount Vernon High School Color Guard for five years.

Dr. Karl L. Larson, Carbondale, Illinois, has accepted the position of assistant professor of physical education. He holds a Ph.D. in community health education from Southern Illinois University.

A former part-time University employee has accepted the position of computer systems analyst in the schools of Liberal Arts and Business. Ms. Jenny Medcraft, Evansville, previously worked as part-time Web administrator for the two schools, as an instructor for Evansville North Evening School, and as a USI student computer technician. She holds a B.A. in computer information systems and German from USI, where she belonged to Beta Gamma Sigma Honor Society, Alpha Chi National College Honor Scholarship Society, Golden Key National Honor Society, and Pinnacle Nontraditional Honor Society; was a President's Medal Award Finalist; and earned the Award of Excellence Scholarship from the Association of German Students.

Nicholson

Ms. Lin Nicholson has accepted the position of administrative assistant in Education. The Evansville resident previously worked as an English teacher in Shenzhen, China. She holds a bachelor's degree from Indiana University, where she was a member of the Golden Key National Honor Society.

Oxley

A former mathematics instructor at Indiana University, Bloomington, has accepted the position of instructor of mathematics. Mrs. Christine Oxley, Evansville, also previously worked as a secondary school math teacher in Indianapolis and Bloomington. She holds a B.A. in mathematics and an M.S. in secondary mathematics education from IU.

Schmidt wins award

Schmidt

Mrs. Marilyn Schmidt, director of Career Services and Placement, received the E. Sam Sovilla Educator of the Year Award presented by the Midwest Cooperative Education and Internship Association (MCEIA).

A 17-year member of MCEIA, Schmidt has held a variety of association offices, including secretary, treasurer, president, membership chair, research chair, and conference chair.

She also has been actively involved with the Midwest Association of Colleges and Employers, the Indiana Council for Cooperative Education, and the Career Development Professionals of Indiana.

Schmidt, who has served as USI's director of Career Services and Placement since 1984, and her husband Richard, vice president for Business Affairs, plan to retire in June and relocate to Hendersonville, North Carolina.

MCEIA, formerly Midwest Cooperative Education Association, is a professional association of educators and employers who provide college students with opportunities in experiential education.

The Educator of the Year Award is named in recognition of Sovilla's career as a leader at the state, regional, and national levels. From 1975-2000, he was associate provost and professor of professional practice at University of Cincinnati.

USI to celebrate Mole Day

More than 100 area high school students will face off in a chemistry competition Tuesday, October 23, when the Department of Chemistry and Indiana-Kentucky Border Section of the American Chemical Society host a Mole Day Chemistry Celebration on campus.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the University Center's second-floor lobby, and the Chemistry Bowl will start at 9. Tours of campus chemistry facilities, chemical demonstrations, an awards presentation, and lunch will follow the competition.

Observed annually on October 23, Mole Day celebrates Avogadro's Number, 6.02×10^{23} , which is a basic measuring unit in chemistry. In general, one mole of any substance contains 6.02×10^{23} molecules or atoms of that substance.

Early registration

Early registration for the spring 2002 semester will be held Thursday, November 1, through Friday, November 16.

Teaching faculty should announce the early registration dates to their classes and encourage students to register early by using one of two methods.

■ Automated registration - beginning November 1: Consists of USI Online and Telephone Information systems. The classifications of eligible students as well as instructions for using USI Online and Telephone systems can be found on Page 7 of the spring 2002 class schedule.

■ Walk-through registration - beginning November 5: Takes place in the office of the student's advisor. The dates that classifications of students are eligible to register can be found on Page 3 of the spring 2002 schedule. Students should contact their advisors to schedule appointments.

FYI

Hate crimes

A panel discussion concerning the pros and cons of hate crimes laws will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, October 25, in Room 101 of the Liberal Arts Center.

The panelists will include Dr. Todd Schroer, assistant professor of sociology (pro); Mr. Wally Paynter of Justice, Inc., a gay-rights lobbying group, and the Tristate Alliance of Lesbians (pro); ACLU Legislative Director Michael McKillip (con) and student Brent Beaman (con).

Dr. Stephen J. Sullivan, associate professor of philosophy, will moderate. Everyone is welcome.

Career expo

The University will host a Health Professions Career Expo from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Monday, October 22, in Carter Hall.

The expo is designed to assist freshman-level students exploring health-related career options, students interested in internship or clinical experience, and graduating students seeking full-time employment.

TIAA-CREF

Representatives of TIAA-CREF will be on campus Tuesday, October 30, to address any employee questions or concerns. Appointments will be scheduled on a first-come, first-served basis. To schedule an appointment, contact Ms. Jamie Heeke, senior administrative assistant in Human Resources, at extension 1781 or jlheeke@usi.edu.

Emmy Award

An Emmy Award-winning USI alumnus will present a special gift to the University Wednesday, October 24.

Mr. Dan Brumett, assistant director of The Young and The Restless and president/CEO of MDH Productions, will present one of his Emmy Awards to USI at 1 p.m. in Kley Meyer Auditorium in the Liberal Arts Center, prior to an open house for the Scripps Howard Video Production Complex.

Dr. Iain Crawford, dean of the School of Liberal Arts, invites the University community to meet Brumett, attend his Emmy presentation, and tour the complex.

Talent program

"USI Live at the Apollo," a campus-wide talent show, will be presented at 7 p.m. Saturday, October 20, in Carter Hall.

The Black Student Union, Multicultural Center, Intramural and Recreational Sports, and the Office of Student Development are coordinating the event. For more information, call the Multicultural Center at extension 7188.

Newsletter deadline

Today is the deadline for submitting information for the next issue of University Notes. Submissions may be made via e-mail to lkeeling@usi.edu or by calling extension 5259. Submissions for the Marketplace column should be e-mailed to kaltstad@usi.edu.

Report from the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs

■ MNGT 315 Management of Organizational Behavior - 3 hours. Modifying the pre-requisite to MNGT 201 or MNGT 305 will allow non-business majors to take this upper-division management class. The MNGT 201 course will provide a suitable introduction to management, comparable to what business majors receive in MNGT 305, which is sufficient preparation for the upper-division management class.

■ MNGT 341 Human Resource Management - 3 hours. Rationale same as for MNGT 315 (above).

■ MNGT 361 Business and Environmental Factors - 3 hours. Modifying the pre-requisite to MNGT 201 and MKTG 201 or MNGT 305 and MKTG 305 will allow non-business majors to take this upper-division management class. The MNGT 201 course will provide a suitable introduction to management, comparable to what business majors receive in MNGT 305, which is sufficient preparation for the upper-division management class.

■ MNGT 408 Collective Bargaining and Industrial Relations - 3 hours. Rationale same as MNGT 315 and MNGT 341 (above).

■ MNGT 443 Organizational Theory and Design - 3 hours. Rationale same as MNGT 315, MNGT 341, and MNGT 408 (above).

■ MNGT 444 Managing Diversity in Organizations - 3 hours. Rationale same as MNGT 315, MNGT 341, MNGT 408, and MNGT 443 (above).

■ SOC 499 Internship in Sociology - 3 hours. Course title changed from "Internship in Sociology, Criminal Justice, and Anthropology." Change in course description. Change in pre-requisites to 9 hours in sociology and consent of an instructor.

Undergraduate program modifications

- B.A./B.S. in Sociology - Two new minors have been added: Anthropology and Criminal Justice. The minor in anthropology affects the sociology major/minor via: 1) SOC 499: Internship must be a sociology internship, not anthropology, in order to receive credit toward the major/minor in sociology. 2) SOC 489: Independent Study must be a sociology topic, not anthropology, in order to receive credit toward the major/minor in sociology. 3) One course, ANTH 253 (Africa, Mideast, and South Asia) has been deleted from the program. 4) The program description has changed. The minor in criminal justice affects the sociology major/minor via: 1) several courses that were designated as sociology (SOC) are now part of the criminal justice minor (CRIM) and therefore are no longer options for elective credit for the sociology major/minor. The courses being reassigned are: SOC 301 to CRIM 301; SOC 302 to CRIM 302; and SOC 401 to CRIM 401. 2) SOC 499: Internship must be a sociology internship, not criminal justice, in order to receive credit toward the major/minor in sociology. 3) SOC 489: Independent Study must be a sociology topic, not criminal justice, in order to receive credit toward the major/minor in sociology. 4) There will no longer be a concentration in criminal justice within the sociology major. 5) The description of the sociology program will change.
- Minor in Sociology - Two new minors have been added: Anthropology and Criminal Justice. (Same affects as to B.A./B.S. in Sociology shown above.)

Road revision:

Portions of Clarke, Bent Twig lanes to become one-way soon

Opening of the rerouted portion of Bent Twig Lane is anticipated in about three weeks.

When it opens, Clarke Lane will become a one-way street with traffic flowing west as it approaches the Children's Center. At the Children's Center, Clarke becomes Bent Twig Lane, which will extend the one-way flow of traffic in a southerly direction.

The one-way portion of Bent Twig will continue around the Publishing Services

Center to the intersection near Reflection Lake and the Liberal Arts Center, where two-way traffic will resume.

In a new development, access to parking lots west of the Health Professions Center (lots G and H) will remain available at the eight existing entrances/exits along Clarke and Bent Twig lanes.

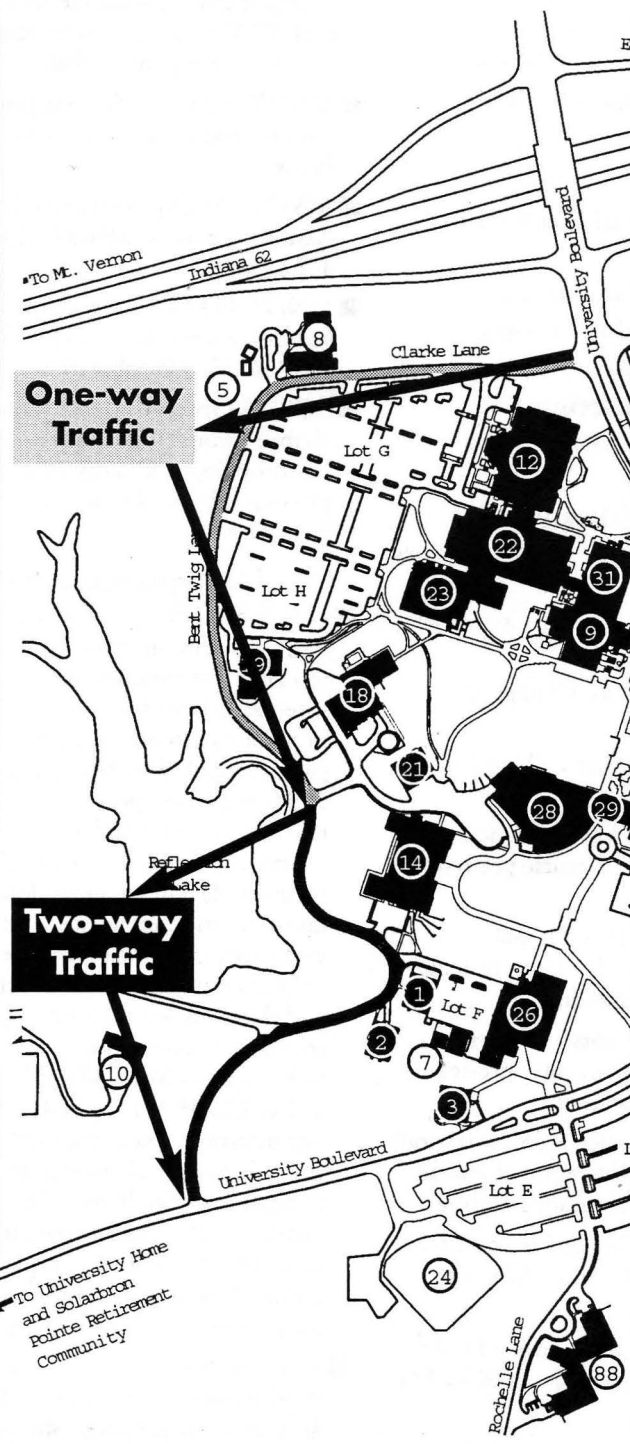

Security officers will be on duty, and directional signage will be posted when Clarke and Bent Twig open to one-way campus traffic only.

Student to speak during alcohol awareness week

USI sophomore Kelly Craig will be the featured speaker when the Student Government Association celebrates National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week with a variety of activities Monday through Friday, October 22 through 26.

In 1999, Craig was paralyzed in an alcohol-related accident in Colorado. Former IU basketball player Luke Recker, who was her boyfriend at the time; Craig's brother; and other passengers also were injured. The driver of their vehicle was killed.

The driver of the vehicle that struck their car was charged with more than 20 counts - including vehicular homicide, vehicular assault, driving causing injury, and driving under the influence of alcohol. He pleaded guilty to charges of vehicular homicide and vehicular assault and was sentenced to nine years in prison.

An elementary education major, Craig resides in Jasper, Indiana. She will speak Thursday, October 25, in front of the USI Health Professions Center, following a candlelight walk across campus that will begin at 8 p.m.

Breast care, cancer treatment on USI symposium's agenda

"Quality Breast Care in the Tri-State: Making a Difference," a one-day symposium at University of Southern Indiana, will begin at 7:45 a.m. Saturday, November 17, in Kley Meyer Auditorium in the Liberal Arts Center.

Dr. Kathy Miller, assistant professor of medicine, hematology/oncology at Indiana University School of Medicine, Indianapolis, will be the keynote speaker. Her topic will be "Targeting Angiogenesis as Breast Cancer Therapy."

Miller has received numerous grants and fellowships for breast cancer treatment research. She lectures nationally on breast cancer and related issues, and her research has been published in Journal of Clinical Oncology, Cancer Investigation, American Journal of Clinical Pathology, Annals of Oncology, and Clinical Breast Cancer, for which she also serves as associate editor.

Ms. Georgia Decker, R.N., M.S., C.S.-A.N.P., A.O.C.N., also will be a featured speaker. She is a nurse practitioner with extensive experience in oncology nursing.

Sponsored by USI's School of Nursing and Health Professions and the Greater Evansville Affiliate of the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation, the seminar will address breast cancer treatment, symptom management, and survivorship issues.

Nurses will be eligible for continuing education credit. Prior to November 2, the cost of registration is $25 per person, including materials, lunch, and refreshments. To register, contact Extended Services at extension 1863 or extserv@usi.edu.
