Dr. Michael Slavkin elected president of Midwest Association of Teachers of Educational Psychology

Dr. Michael Slavkin, assistant professor of education at the University of Southern Indiana, has been elected president of the Midwest Association of Teachers of Educational Psychology, a regional organization of educational psychologists and educational researchers. Dr. Slavkin will be responsible for organizing and coordinating the organization's 30th annual conference on October 12 and 13 at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

MATEP is an association of educators brought together by their common interest in excellence in teaching. An annual meeting in the fall brings together educational psychologists, teacher educators, and others from related fields to share information and engage in dialogue on professional issues, teaching and learning methods and outcomes, and current issues and events that impact higher education.
