HONORS DAY. Dr. Darrel E. Bigham, professor of history long active in University and community affairs, and Mrs. Gloria Gail Moore, a 42-year-old grandmother who is graduating magna cum laude in her quest for a "major change in my life," were named recipients Thursday of the top honors in the 1989 Honors Day Ceremony. Dr. Bigham was presented the National City Bank Distinguished Professor Award, the faculty recognition for colleagues who have demonstrated dedication to teaching and a quest for excellence. Mrs. Moore, a firm believer in the Liberal Arts education which has her considering an offer to be a researcher in Time magazine's Tampa, Florida, office, was presented both the President's Medal -- an award established by the faculty to recognize a graduating senior who has excelled academically and has given service to the University and community -- and the 1989 Liberal Arts Award.

Dr. Bigham was graduated magna cum laude from Messiah College in Grantham, Pennsylvania, with a B.A. in history. He studied theology at Harvard Divinity School for a year before going to the University of Kansas to work on his Ph.D., which he received in 1970. He joined the faculty of USI that year and has been active in numerous University, professional, and community organizations. During his 1976-77 sabbatical, he served half time as executive director during the formative years for Leadership Evansville, Inc., and stayed with the program through 1978. In 1986, he became director of the Historic Southern Indiana Project, a program to preserve, promote, and develop historic sites and resources. He is the author of two books on Evansville area history: We Ask Only a Fair Chance: A History of the Black Community of Evansville, Indiana, 1812-1945 and An Evansville Album: Perspectives on the History of a River City, 1812-1988, published by IU Press in 1987 and 1988, respectively. Dr. Bigham and his wife, Polly, have two children.

Mrs. Moore enrolled in USI planning to become a teacher, but switched to Liberal Arts in her sophomore year and is graduating as a history major with an English minor, having maintained a 3.85 cumulative grade point average. She has been active with several campus scholastic honoraries and the Student Government Association, but the group which gave her the most personal satisfaction was NOVA, an organization that encourages older people to enroll in university courses. Mrs. Moore said her long-term goal is to write. "It may be presumptuous, but what I'd really like to do is create a whole new genre," she said, adding she still has a lot more studying to do and expects now that "I'll always be going to school." Mrs. Moore lives in a MASH apartment with her 18-year-old daughter, Elizabeth. She also has a son, Adam, 15; a daughter, Anne-Marie, 20, and 3-month-old granddaughter, Lauren Ashton. Mrs. Moore has been night manager of the University Center for two years and has continued to be active in community school and service organizations. A brother, Mr. Mark Grassman, 21, also is a USI student.

More than 600 students, a record number, are eligible to receive degrees, including six candidates for master's degrees. Ninth District Congressman Lee H. Hamilton, a former Evansville resident who is the senior member of the Indiana Congressional delegation, will bring the Commencement address and will be awarded an honorary Doctor of Civil Law degree in recognition of his many achievements in public service. NEW HARMONY GALLERY. The exhibition will open with a reception for the artist from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, May 7, and continue through June 14. Mr. Hubbard created pastel and charcoal drawings of many sites throughout New Harmony while living there in October 1988. When he returned to Dorset, England, he completed a suite of 12 small etchings inspired by drawings he had done in New Harmony. This suite will be included in the exhibition. Mr. Hubbard is a Connecticut native who has a B.A. degree from Harvard University and studied at the Art Students League in New York and with Hans Hoffman in Provincetown, Massachusetts. He moved to England in 1961 and travels extensively, having done a series of drawings and paintings of sites throughout Europe and also designed costumes and sets for the Royal Ballet in London.
