Introduction

In 2012, I researched the Brenner family of Deidesheim, Rhineland-Palatinate, Germany, who settled in Evansville, Indiana and Doniphan, Kansas. One of the Brenner immigrants that lived in Doniphan, Kansas was Maria Eva Brenner, who married Johannes Wendelin Anslinger in Deidesheim. At the family reunion, several descendants had commented that they were related to the Anslingers that lived in Haubstadt and the Evansville area. They asked me to research this connection with the Brennners of Doniphan.

After years of research on the many families that lived on the west side of Evansville in Vanderburgh County, I could not document any connection other than the same surname and living in the same area. The Anslingers of Doniphan were from Deidesheim. The Anslingers of Evansville were from Sankt Martin, and Edenkoben, also in Rhineland-Palatinate, in Germany.

Looking at a Google map, the towns are a 3-hour and 12 min walk apart. It is possible that the Anslingers of Doniphan are related to the Anslingers of Evansville. However, I could not trace the genealogy connection back to a common ancestor.

While there are church records of Deidesheim and Sankt Martin, I am not fluent enough in German and Latin to transcribe all the thousands of records that date back to the 1500s.

So, I decided to provide a genealogy report of Anslinger generations in southern Indiana. The family legend is that there were three brothers who immigrated.

Johann Joseph Anslinger and his wife Rosina Christmann originally lived in Evansville in 1870, but in 1880 were living in Haubstadt, Gibson County, Indiana. This family is documented in the book Descendants of Joseph Anslinger and Rosina Christmann.

John Anslinger and his wife Catharine Christmann settled in Evansville, Indiana. This book is about their descendants.

Documentation on how closely the two Anslinger families are related was not found. Johann and Joseph could have been brothers or even cousins.

I conducted my research on the Anslinger families, looking at census, birth, military, marriage and death records to verify family connections. Through my research, I reached out to numerous genealogists who have researched other families in Vanderburgh, Warrick, and Gibson Counties in Indiana. They have shared their family databases with me. I acknowledge their help: Karen Scheller Harvey, Frank Hertel, Earl Weber, Frank Lamble, Leo Barnes, Allen Schmitt, Gary Wager, Terry Maurer, David Schmitt, Clem Weiss, Fr. David Nunning, Brian Lankford, Julie Kissel Ising and Cyril and Wilma Ubelhor. Also, I thank Thomas Anslinger, who provided a descendant list from his research. Additionally, the records from Charles Browning at the Browning databases (<https://www.browninggenealogy.org>) were helpful in finding family ties.

This book is a summary of my research, and is not meant to be an all-inclusive representation of the Anslinger families. Other researchers are encouraged to use what I have assembled and continue with their research. Because of mistakes in newspaper articles, government documents and mistakes in my typing, there may be errors.

To those that use this book, I wish you success in your family genealogy search.

Edenkoben is a municipality in the Südliche Weinstraße district, in Rhineland-Palatinate, Germany. It lies approximately halfway between Landau and Neustadt an der Weinstraße. Edenkoben is one of the towns situated along the German Wine Route. Edenkoben is the seat of the Verbandsgemeinde ("collective municipality") Edenkoben.

History

This part of the Rhineland passed to Bavaria at 1815 following the Congress of Vienna, which reallocated many of the territories that had comprised Napoleon's empire. Like several towns in the area, Edenkoben has both a Roman Catholic and a Protestant church (recalling King Maximilian's marriage to a Protestant princess).

Map of Germany, showing Edenkoben, Rhineland-Palatinate, Germany

Edenkoben's status as an administrative and cultural centre for the surrounding villages is reflected in the presence of several high-grade schools. The little town also has a considerable cultivation and trade in wine. Outside the primary (agricultural) sector, industries include the manufacture of automotive exhaust systems and of doors. In former times there was a sulphur-spring here called Kurbrunnen.

Edenkoben is overlooked, on its west side, by the imposing Friedensdenkmal, from the top of which visitors can enjoy a fine view across to the Rhine. Originally constructed to celebrate German unity in the aftermath of the Franco-Prussian War, the memorial was renamed Friedensdenkmal (Peace Memorial) after 1945, when celebration of German military victories fell out of fashion in Europe: at the time of writing the Friedensdenkmal contains a small restaurant. The inscription on the Unification / Peace memorial reflects the determination of the German government in 1871 to downplay the extent to which the Treaty of Frankfurt resulted from military victory by Prussia. Given the frequency with which the German-speaking Rhenish provinces had been devastated by French armies in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, it was in this region easy to emphasize the defensive nature of German unification.

Section Three – John Anslinger and Catharine Anna Christmann Descendants

This Descendant Report uses the legal outline numbering system. It begins with the source person, John Anslinger, and with his wife, Catharine Anna Christmann, and moves forward in time. This report includes their descendants (children, grandchildren, etc.) with information about each descendant down the line. Each descendant in this family history report is assigned a legal outline number which symbolizes the descendant's relationship to the source couple. The number permits one to see at a glance the relationships between people in the family history report. For example, the person number 1.2.3 means the third child of the second child of the source couple. FRANK ANSLINGER

Mr. Frank Anslinger, one of Evansville's oldest citizens, died Monday night at 10:45 o'clock at his home, 518 East Illinois street.

Mr. Anslinger's death was due to a paralytic stroke which he received a week ago and from which he suffered up to the time of his death. His advanced age, 76 years, was against his recovery and he gradually grew weaker until death relieved his suffering.

The deceased was a blacksmith by trade, but had been retired from his business for the past ten years. He had lived in Evansville about forty years and was quite well known, having many friends who will regret to hear of his death. He leaves besides his widow, two sons, Frank and Pohn, and a daughter, Maggie, all of whom are grown and reside in this city.

Last Will of Frank Anslinger

The following will having been probated in the Vanderburgh Circuit Court, at the June Term 1900, and ordered entered of record in the proper records of Wills of said county, the same is now hereunto entered.

In the name of the Benevolent Father of all, I, Frank Anslinger of Evansville, Indiana do make and publish this my last will and Testament.

Item 1. I give and bequeath to my son John Anslinger Three Hundred and Fifty Dollars and make the same a charge upon my personal property. This is done for the reason that each of my other children has already received that amount from me by way of advancement. Item 2. I give and bequeath to my wife Catherine all my personal property to belong to her absolutely and from that she is required to pay to my son John the sum of Three Hundred and Fifty Dollars as provided in item 1. herein. Item 3. All my real estate I give and devise to my wife Catherine for and during her natural life and at her death the remainder of all said real estate shall go as follows, to wit: One third thereof in fee shall go to my son Frank if living, if not living then to his children if any, and if no children then to his heirs at law. Another third thereof in fee shall go to my son John if living, if not living then to his children if any, and if no children then to his heirs at law and One third thereof to my daughter Margaretha Dany for and during her natural life with remainder after her death to my sons John and Frank in fee and if either of my sons shall be dead then half to his children and heirs at law in the order above provided in respect to the one third devised to each of said sons. In the event my said daughter shall not be living at the death of my wife, then the one third of my real estate devised to my daughter for life shall go to my said sons in fee if living and if either shall be dead then to his children and heirs at law in the order above provided in respect to the one third devised to each of said sons. The fee of said one third is not devised to my daughter for the reason that she has already received in full Eight Hundred Dollars from my estate in excess of that received by either of my said sons. I am that I ordain and appoint John Indlinger executor of this my last will and testament. I do hereby revoke all former wills made by me. In testimony hereof I have hereunto set my hand this twenty first day of September 1899

Raymond Anslinger, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anslinger of 220 E. Iowa, drowned yesterday afternoon about 5:45 in a strip mine pit two miles northeast of Chandler, just off Kapperman Road.

Donald L. Perigo, Warrick County coroner, listed the death as an accidental drowning.

Anslinger was swimming with three Chandler teenagers. Mike Boarman, 17, and Anslinger were swimming together in the middle of the pit. The decided to swim for the shore. Mike told Warrick County Sheriff Paul Houston that he turned around to see if Anslinger was still behind him and couldn't find him.

The three thought that Anslinger might be swimming under water. They ducked under water to search the lake. When they still couldn't find him, they called Sheriff Houston.

State Police scuba divers were summoned by the sheriff. At 7:30 p.m. they found the youth's body entangled in moss at the bottom of the pit in about 12 feet of water.

Sheriff Houston said that he thinks that Anslinger had ducked down to swim under water and got entangled in the moss.

Anslinger was a June graduate of Rex Mundi High School, where he was an honor student. He was the band's drum major and played the saxophone in the school band and a dance band. He also played guitar with a small rock 'n roll group. In other high school activities, he was a member of the Math Club, French Club, Press Club and Monitor Club. He received several awards at Rex Mundi for prose writing and the Quill and Scroll award for articles that appeared in the school paper.

He had planned to attend Marian College in Indianapolis this fall, where he had received an academic scholarship.

In April he was chose The Evansville Press' teen-ager of the week.

He was a member of St. Joseph Catholic church. Surviving besides his parents are brothers, Thomas, in the Air Force at Larsen Field, Wash., Daniel and James, both at home; sisters, Mrs. Sharon Cinnamond, Reed, Ky., Mary and Patricia, both at home; and a maternal grandmother, Mrs. Emma Tenbarga of Evansville.

Gravestone of Michael and Margaret Schmitt

Sad and Sudden Death of Mrs. Michael Schmitt Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon a no less and than sudden calamity befel the family of Mr. Mike Schmitt who resides on Illinois street between First and Second avenues. Mr. Schmitt has been suffering from typhoid fever for the past four weeks, and has been attended faithfully by his wife, who hardly for a moment in all that time would quit his bedside. The patient has been unconscious the greater part of this time and needed the closest attention, which duty his loving wife would not delegate to any one else. Dr. Edwin Walker, who has been attending the patient, called yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, when Mrs. Schmitt complained of not feeling well, when he told her to take some castor oil. This she subsequently did but without relieving her in any way, and at 5 o'clock she prepared to repeat the dose, and while sitting on the bedside by her sick husband, requested a neighbor woman who happened to be present to go into the next room and bring some water. The woman left the room, and when she returned found Mrs. Schmitt laying across the bed, in an apparently unconscious condition. The lady became alarmed and endeavored to restore her, when dawned the awful fact that the woman was dead. Alarm was spread through the neighborhood, and Dr. Walker telephoned for, who when he arrived, found that the suspicions were true, the woman had died instantly and without a struggle. The cause of her death Dr. Walker cannot define without a post-mortem examination. He suspects, however, that it was caused by the bursting of a blood vessel, although the waxen appearance of the skin in such cases is not evident in this.

Mrs. Schmitt was a lady of over fifty years of age, the mother of eight children, all living, the oldest twenty-one years and the youngest seven. The family are almost inconsolable with grief. Mr. Schmitt is still unconscious, and luckily so, too, for if he realized the great calamity that has befallen the family it might be the cause of his death also.
