Section One – Introduction to the Angermeier Family

Introduction

As I researched my ancestry, I noticed the numerous marriages that connected from my family lines with the Angermeier families.

Through research on Ancestry.com, I checked the sources of information and if there were any documents or photographs of tombstones.

Numerous people have researched various branches of the Angermeier family. I was given copies of to their trees and books. It was my goal to document their data. I tried to substantiate the family connections with documents for the first four generations. From the fifth generation on, information was provided partly by hearsay and partly by government documents. Thus, there may be some names, dates or even family branches missing, along with names being misspelled.

Research emphasis was for the first four generations of the Angermeier family. This book is not meant to be an “end” product, but a direction in the right path. It is left for future researchers to continue with the family connections.

I would like to thank the many researchers who have provided copies of their family lines which intertwine with the Angermeier family branches:

Errors and apology for the errors

No doubt there are errors. I apologize to all whose names I have misspelled, or typed in incorrect dates or data. Often times, names were written as the recorder heard the name phonetically. Many were given a religious first name and a middle name by which they were called. Additionally, some children were given nicknames, but when they became adults, they went by their birth name. Thus, it is difficult at times to figure out what was their legal name.

The Angermeier Family Story
as told by auntmargaret61 on Ancestry.com

Henry J Angermeier born in Germany and immigrated to the USA in 1826. He lived in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, USA.

Henry married Agatha Rosina Eder in 1846 in Pennsylvania, USA.

Henry brought his wife, son Henry G. and nieces Mary and Catherine Schilling (Children of Henry's sister Maria) down the Ohio River to Indiana in 1849. They lived near Posey County, Indiana for a very short time. Then Henry took his family up the Redbank trail (Now Redbank Road) to German Twp., Vanderburgh, Indiana.

On 8 Oct 1849 he paid cash in hand $1,170.00 to John M. Aikley and his wife Christina for property on Orchard Road. This is where he lives in the 1850 Census and where his family lived into the 1900's. Henry, Agatha "Rose", son Henry G. and Henry G's family are buried at St. Joseph Catholic Church, German Twp., Vanderburgh, Indiana, USA

Section Two – Angermeier Family History Report – 5 Generations

This section provides a report of 5 generations of the Francis Angermeier family. The number in parenthesis is the generation prefix. The report uses the legal outline numbering system. Documents are provided to show the connection between generations.

This family history report begins with one couple, Francis and Catherine Angermeier, and moves forward in time. This report includes their descendants (children, children's children, etc.) along with information about each descendant along the way. It is, at best, a comprehensive genealogy document that lends itself well to data verification.

Each descendant in a family history report is assigned a legal outline number which symbolizes the descendant's relationship to the source couple. The number lets one see at a glance the relationships between people in the family history report.

How to determine the relationship between two relatives using the identification number

To determine the relationship between any two relatives, look at their respective legal numbers. Write down their numbers horizontally. Compare the digits going from left to right.

- ! If the two numbers have the same length, then the two relatives are of the same generation. For example, 1.3.4 and 2.4.5 are both in the third generation from the common ancestor.
- ! Comparing the numbers from left to right, at the point where the end numbers differ, you have siblings. As an example, 1.2.3 and 1.2.6 are siblings.
- ! If one number is two digits longer than the other number, then the two relatives are two generations apart, which we say is “twice removed”. Thus, 1.2.3.4 and 1.8.6.4.5 are first cousins twice removed.

Invalid Woman, Fatally Shot Husband Discovered in Home

Sam Angermeier. About 80,
Found Dead While Wife Lies
Helpless on Floor

Neighbors and a son-in-law found an elderly invalid woman lying helpless on the floor of her home at 463 East Tennessee street and the body of her aged husband, fatally shot, in an upstairs room late last night.

Sam Angermeier, about 80, was shot through the head with a .22 caliber rifle. The rifle was underneath the body. Coroner Victor Conen said. Death occurred sometime since Saturday, the coroner stated.

Mrs. Angermeier, bedridden for the past three years, was found on a downstairs floor by the son-in-law, Donald Doyle, 2517 Haas street, and Thomas Dorris, 1402 Stringtown road.

Mrs. Charles Lazel, 1463 North Elliott street, called Mr. Doyle about 10:30 p.m. yesterday when she became alarmed because she hadn't seen Mr. Angermeier since Saturday.

The neighbors had noticed that newspapers were piling up in front of the house and the window shades had been drawn for the past three days.

Mr. Dorris, who entered the home with Mr. Doyle, said the front door was barricaded with a sewing machine.

Mrs. Angermeier was taken to St. Mary's hospital for treatment. The body of her husband was removed to Ziemer's funeral home. He was a retired employe of the now defunct Monitor Furniture company.

Coroner Conen announced that an inquest into the death would be conducted today.

DEATH CLAIMS WIFE OF SUICIDE

Mrs. Margaret Angermeier Succumbs to Cancer at Hospital

The wife of the elderly man who was found dead at his home Tuesday night, from an apparently self-inflicted gunshot wound, died yesterday at St. Mary's hospital.

Mrs. Margaret Angermeier, 77, of 408 East Tennessee street, died at about 1:30 p.m. Coroner Victor Conen said death was due to a cancer of the face which had penetrated the brain. Mrs. Angermeier had been an invalid for about three years, and had been blind for some time.

Her husband, Samuel Angermeier, about 80, was found dead in an upstairs room of their home at about 10 p.m. Tuesday by his son-in-law, Donald Doyle, of 2715 Haag avenue.

Mr. Conen, who completed his investigation yesterday, gave a finding of suicide. Mr. Angermeier was found lying on an old, one-shot, 22-caliber rifle, he said.

Before her death, Mrs. Angermeier told the coroner that she had not spoken with her husband since Saturday. She was not able to climb the stairs to the room where he was found.

Neighbors became alarmed when they noticed that the window blinds at the Angermeier home had been down for three days, officers said. They telephoned Mr. Doyle, and he entered the house, finding Mrs. Angermeier lying on the kitchen floor. Police said that the door had been barricaded with a sewing machine, which had to be pushed aside.

Mrs. Angermeier is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Elnora Doyle, and two brothers, Henry and Fred Berendes, Evansville.

Joint funeral services for the couple will be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at Ziemer funeral home. Services will be continued at St. Joseph Catholic church, here. Burial will be in St. Joseph.

FARMER KILLED AT RAIL CROSSING

John Angermeier Dies When Freight Train Strikes Auto

John D. Angermeier, 68, farmer living on Kleitz road, route 4, near Armstrong, was fatally injured at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning when his car stopped at the Allen's lane crossing and was struck by a Big Four railroad freight train.

Death followed a few minutes later owing to a skull fracture, according to Dr. Charles J. Folz, coroner, while he was enroute to St. Mar's hospital in a Ziemer ambulance. He also suffered numerous internal injuries, including a left hip fracture.

Stopped on Track

Dr. Folz said that several section workers and the tower operator witnessed the crash and were agreed that the car in which Mr. Angermeier was riding alone came to a stop on the tracks and was hit by the train. Whether he was trying to stop short of the tracks or the engine failed is uncertain, the coroner said.

"The driver was looking toward the train," H. L. Wilson, Harwood tower operator, who witnessed the accident from the top of the tower steps, said. "The freight train was traveling about 30 miles an hour. The engine hit the left side of the car almost at the driver's seat, and shoved and dragged the car about 100 feet."

Traffic Toll Now Eight

Mr. Angermeier's body was thrown from the wreckage as the train and car stopped.

Statements will be taken by the coroner this morning from train crew members including conductor Ross G. Morgan, Evansville, and H. W. Hershey, Mt. Carmel, Ill., engineer.

Surviving Mr. Angermeier is a brother, Samuel.

Funeral services will be held at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Ziemer funeral home and at 8 o'clock in St. Joseph Catholic church, St. Joseph. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

It was the eighth traffic fatality in the county since January 1 and the first in which a train was involved. It was the fourth outside the city.

Sr. Carol Ann Angermeier

SR. CAROL ANN ANGERMEIER, 94
Sept. 5, 1920 - Jan. 5, 2015

Sr. Carol Ann Angermeier, 94, of the Sisters of St. Francis in Oldenburg, died Monday, January 5, 2015, at the convent.

Born September 5, 1920 in Evansville, she was the daughter of Wilfrieda (Rexing) and Oscar Angermeier.

Sr. Carol Ann entered the convent Sept. 9, 1943 and made her final vows August 12, 1949. She taught from 1945 until 1987. Schools at which she taught included Holy Trinity and St. Mark's in Indianapolis, St. Mary's in North Vernon, St. Joseph's in St. Joseph, Holy Family in Oldenburg, St. Mary's in Aurora, Holy Cross in St. Louis, Missouri; St. Francis in Portage de Sioux, Missouri; and St. Clare's, Our Lady of Perpetual Help and St. James' in Cincinnati, Ohio. In 1988 she went to St. John's Parish in Dover to assist the Parish.

In 1988 she went to St. John's Parish in Dover to assist the Parish.

Sr. Carol Ann, birth name Gertrude, grew up in a family of eight. It was a loving and caring family where she shared in the chores. Like many of the day, the financial hardship created by the Great Depression required them to move from Evansville to find work on a farm. It was there where she developed her love of gardening and became familiar with the Sisters of St. Francis.

Skipping her freshman year to help with her mother when her youngest brother was born, she went on to graduate high school and then complete business college. Sr. Carol Ann was able to find work after school during the stamps and rationing era of World War II, when everyone sacrificed to help the war effort. Throughout her life, she noted that she loved teaching, gardening, family gatherings and her convent life.

Returning to St. John's Parish at Dover later in life renewed her love of the rural life she remembered as a child, and she enjoyed getting to know the members of the parish. In 1997 Sr. Carol Ann returned to the Motherhouse in Oldenburg where she helped with daily chores at Michaela Farm before hanging up her gardening gloves for good at the age of 92.

She is survived by her sister Rita Greder of Newburgh; brothers Walter of Indianapolis, Leonard of Evansville and numerous nieces and nephews.

In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by sisters Lucille Angermeier, Mary Lou Carroll and brothers Henry and Br. Andrew Angermeier.

Visitation is from 1 to 3 p.m. Friday, January 9, at the convent chapel. Funeral services follow at 3 p.m. with Rev. James Meade officiating. Burial follows in the convent cemetery.

Her great-grandparents were Wyan Feller (1803-1884) and Margareta Grund (1810-1873) from Bavaria, Germany. Wyan and Margareta moved to Warrick County, Indiana, from Pennsylvania in the 1840s. They were members of the OBC Boat Club in Evansville.

They moved to Fort Meyers in 1970 and built the Lazy Days Mobile Village of 800 plus residents there with their son, daughter and son-in-law. They were members of the Elks Club, Moose Club and St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church. Fanny and Lawrence were very active and enjoyed riding their bike. They spent many happy hours together watching sunsets from the deck of their boat "LazyDays."

In 1989, they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a band and party with more than 100 of their closest friends and Fanny, at her young age of 72, didn't miss a dance. They had many happy times with their friends and as their guests left they would always sing: "Hope you had a happy time..."

She loved being a wife, mother and grandmother. She was known to have an open door, always encouraging her children's and grandchildren's friends to find a welcoming spot in their home.

She is survived by her son, Jerry; daughter, Janie Rose Endress and son-in-law, Bill Endress; four grandchildren, Christie Ritter Vance (Ray), Rainer Ritter, and Jay and Jill Endress and two great-grandchildren, Vienna and Kellen Vance.

Fanny's favorite phrase: "Everything is beautiful."

By MARTHA M'KENNA

Being awakened by "buzz bombs" every morning may be all right, but Capt. Elwood J. Lunkenheimer, now home on leave after 16 months with the Ninth Air Force in England, will take the old-fashioned American alarm clock every time.

"The 'buzz bombs' as the English call them, would start coming over the air field about five in the morning," Capt. Lunkenheimer said today. Their noise is like a deep-throated motor boat, getting louder as they come nearer. When the noise stops you know an explosion will be the next thing that happens.

None of the buzz bombs hit the airfield, but exploded in nearby fields. "But they were enough to keep us awake," he added.

Based near London, Capt. Lunkenheimer had several other experiences with the robot bombs while up in the city on a pass, one exploding within a block of him.

Lots of Glass

"One of the nastiest things about the buzz bombs is the quantity of flying glass," he explained. However, I didn't get cut, being flat on my stomach when it exploded."

Londoners are not a bit shy about hitting the sidewalk when they think a buzz bomb will explode near them, according to Capt. Lunkenheimer. "You can generally tell in which direction the bomb is coming by its sound," he said.

After the explosion, Capt. Lunkenheimer went around to see what damage had been done. "They don't encourage that sort of thing because usually all buildings in the vicinity had been badly shaken," Capt. Lunkenheimer added. "It's just nose Americans who do things like that."

The robot blitz put the quietus on London night life in general, with most of the theaters closing. "It wasn't so much that theater managers feared for the safety of the audience," he explained. "There just wasn't any audience."

On 75 Missions

London leaves were a very small part of Capt. Lunkenheimer's service with a B-26 Marauder group, in which he was a pilot. He flew 75 missions, mostly over France, Belgium and Holland where his targets were air fields, railroad yards, coastal gun installations and buzz bomb sites.

"Paris looked peaceful from the air," recalled Capt. Lunkenheimer. "That is, until you got too close and the Germans began throwing flak at you.

"I might add that the Germans are good fighters and their planes are good too. Their FW-190 would compare roughly to our P-47 while their ME-109 is a good match for the British Spitfire.

"Their ground gunner crews used to greet us by radio when we'd come over," the Evansville pilot recalled. "They'd say 'How do you like our welcome' and by welcome, they meant the flak they were sending up. We didn't care much for it, but there wasn't much we could do about it."

Knew It Already

"Another of their radio propaganda tricks was to tell us how beautiful American women were with the idea of making us homesick," he added. "But they weren't telling us anything we didn't already know, so their propaganda efforts just furnished us extra amusement."

Capt. Lunkenheimer is another flyer loud in his praise of American planes. "The Marauder, while not one of the heavy bombers, can still take plenty," he declared. "I've seen ships come in so badly shot up you'd wonder how the pilots flew them."

"My own ship, the 'G. I. Five' took plenty of punishment. I remember once after a run heavy through flak, landing and finding one engine hanging by a single mount. I probably would have bailed out had I known this before, but we got back all right just the same."

The Marauder ordinarily carries a crew of either six or nine. Twice men of Capt. Lunkenheimer's crew were wounded but he never got a scratch.

A Personal War

"On D-Day we were over the invasion coast dropping our bombs three minutes before the Allied forces landed," he related. "The French coast looked like a theater marquee with lights flashing on and off, what with the constant bombing and the return fire of German guns.

"We were all pretty excited that morning. Most of us had relatives or friends in the landing forces and overnight the whole war became a lot more personal to us."

Capt. Lunkenheimer had a younger brother, Eddie Fox, in the army in France, whom he saw later in a hospital in England where the infantryman was recovering from a knee wound.

"I'd known Eddie was in England for about two months but we never could get together," he said. "Too bad I had to wait until he was laid up to see him."

Capt. Lunkenheimer, who is visiting his sister, Mrs. Martin Dietsch and Mr. Dietsch, 426 Lincoln Park-dr., holds the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with 13 clusters. He is to report Oct. 1 to the AAF redistribution center at Miami Beach, Fla., for further assignment.

Section Three – Angermeier Family Descendant Listing – 9 Generations

This section lists the descendants of Francis and Catherine (Gabel) Angermeier in an indented generation and legal outline form.

Numbering Method

The listing uses the Legal Outline Numbering Method to code each person with a number. The report begins with Francis and Catherine as the source, who is given the number 1. Then it moves forward in time - down the branches, as it were. The first child is given the number "1.1". Then, the second child, is has the number "1.2". The third child is assigned the code 1.3.

Read the numbers from right to left. For example, a number of 1.2.3.4 means "the 4th child of the 3rd child of the 2nd child of the source person 1".

Descendants of a couple

The Descendant Listing shows the descendants of a person, even if that person was married multiple times. If either the bloodline husband or wife had multiple spouses, then the descendants of their other spouses are not listed unless those stepchildren were adopted or specifically requested to be included in this book. Stepchildren and step-grandchildren are not typically listed. However, adopted children are listed as a descendant.

Asterisk by a name

An asterisk by a person's name indicates an additional marriage or offspring by another relationship. Descendants with more than one spouse receive a lowercase alphabet letter suffix for each of their marriages. For all succeeding generations, trace the descendants to the correct ancestor by the letter suffix. To trace future generations from a person's two marriages, the first marriage includes the suffix "a" and the second marriage includes the suffix "b." Putting it another way, you can tell which ancestor's marriage produced which descendants by looking at the letter in the Legal outline number.

Generation Prefix in Parenthesis

The parenthetical number in front of the descendant's name represents the number of a descendant's generation. Francis and Catherine Angermeier are in generation 1. Their children are in generation 2. Their grandchildren are in generation 3, and so on. The number of digits in the legal outline number also matches the generation number.

As an example, for "(5) 1.1.2.6.4 Mary Lou Angermeier", Mary Lou Angermeier is in the 5th generation. She is the 4th child of the 6th child of the second child of the 1st child of the source couple Francis and Catherine Angermeier.

Index

An index appears at the end of the listing and source. The index is an alphabetized list of all people in the listing. Each line of the index will include a person's last name, first name, legal outline number, and, if the person is not a descendant of the source couple, a notation describing his relationship to a descendant ,such as "spouse of."
