'Our Town' broad area for educational growth

"Our Town" was most vividly captured during the heaviest snow of the winter. LEFT: "Our Town," Mater Dei-ville, receives a new blanket of fallen snow. TOP: "Our Town" goes to Evansville's East Side for this picturesque view. ABOVE: The Sister's convent of Mater Dei-ville is portrayed.

"Our Town—68" captures a mood of progress in developing the new look of Mater Dei-ville and Evansville.

Many tend to forget that a real student's growth is determined not only by his activities at school, but around the city as well.

Seniors Bill Noelle and Carolyn Morris served as "Youths of the Day" as they joined other Evansville students by taking over the reins of the city during the Optimist Club's "Youth Appreciation Week."

As the city expanded with its Civic Center and other attractions, Mater Dei echoed with its Student Council, headed by Mayor Bill Noelle. Among the hi-lights of the year were the Inaugural Ball, Sadie Hawkins Dance, and the new "Spirit Week," to prepare for the opening of the Sectionals in basketball.

Students encountered all levels of culture at the University of Evansville, which hosted the annual Science Fair, Music Contest, and Journalism Day.

Mater Dei again set the pace as it continued its reign as the area "Wrestling Capitol," sponsoring the city reserve meet and varsity sectionals.

Bill Noelle and John Reising auction off one of many "valuable" articles at the annual Senior Auction.

Study of novels, movies related to present-day life

In an otherwise technological world, the English Department, under the leadership of Mr. Stan Singer and Sister Mary Donald, places the emphasis on humanities and liberal arts. The English staff includes seven teachers. Mr. Singer, who holds a Masters Degree in English from Indiana University, teaches senior World Literature and sophomore and junior English. Sister Donald, who graduated from St. Joseph, Rensselaer, Indiana, teaches composition and handles three English classes, while Sister Mary Esther, with a Masters Degree from Notre Dame, teaches one class of sophomores and two classes of seniors.

Father Hamel, an alumnus of St. Meinard, handles sophomore English IIA, along with Sister Mary Sharon, a graduate of St. Benedict College. Also teaching English classes and taking care of the speech course is Mr. Gary Kuhlenhoelter, also an Indiana University graduate. The two journalism classes, which publish the school paper and yearbook, are under the leadership of Mr. Steve Halbig, a graduate of the University of Evansville.

During the year a wide variety of top-quality movies were viewed by the English students. Among these were "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "On The Waterfront," "Kidnapped," "The Prince and the Pauper," "Sea Wolf" and "Anthony Adverse." Among the required reading for the English classes were such selections as "Hunchback of Notre Dame," "Brave New World," "Catcher in the Rye," "The Dwarf," "She Stoops to Conquer," "1984," "Lord of the Flies" and "How Green Was My Valley." Students were also given a chance to attend three University of Evansville productions. The plays were "The Plough And the Stars," "Slow Dance on the Killing Ground" and "The Miser."

Mr. Stan Singer, head of the English Department, studies a model of Shakespeare's "Globe Theater," made by Tom Halbig, whose brother teaches at Mater Dei.

Publications engrave notable mark in professionalism

A lot of hard work and preparation goes into making a yearbook. Yearbook editor, Jo Lynn Franks attended a yearbook workshop at Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana in order to learn about the fundamentals in organizing a yearbook.

M.D. Hi-Lights newspaper merited first in the city at Journalism Day at the University of Evansville. Judy Englert received a $150 scholarship from the University of Evansville for writing a news story on a speech given earlier in the day by Mr. Leonord Krueger, Editor of the Courier. Mr. Steve Halbig, head of the Journalism Department and staff advisor, is a graduate of the University of Evansville and is working on his master's degree at Ball State University.

To supplement the department, a new darkroom has been added, where all yearbook and newspaper pictures are printed. School photographers also have some of the finest professional cameras available, with access to a Yashisca 120 and a 35mm Pentax with a telephoto lens. Journalism I students concentrate on theory while the Journalism II class puts out the newspaper and yearbook.

Physicists use siren disc in explanation of sound

Students delve into the unknown through mathematics, ranging from the simple to the complex. Seven phases of the world of numbers are offered here, supervised by Mr. Paul Ellert and Sister Melvin, department heads. Freshmen are greeted with the choices of General Math, Pre-Algebra and Algebra I. Triangles, circles and theorems enhance sophomore Geometry, while juniors encounter the more complex Advanced Algebra. Advanced Math and Trigonometry, along with the one-semester Calculus, provide additional background for senior mathematicians.

The department was equally represented at the school's annual Science Fair, where top honors in the math division were taken by freshmen Ann Tavormina and Ed Johnstone and junior Teresa Tavormina. Awards in Geometry, Advanced Algebra and Advanced Math were featured at the annual Academic Monogram assembly. The winners were sophomores Karen Koch and Darrell Hupfer in Geometry, juniors Katie Wambach and Thom Liffick in Advanced Algebra and seniors Kathy Guntel and Mike Martin in Advanced Math.

Tom Dick heads award-winning science program

In today's world of technological advances it is very important to have a knowledge of Science. Students of Mater Dei can receive a basic knowledge in either Chemistry, Biology, General Science and Physics.

One of the various activities for the science-minded students at Mater Dei is the annual Science Fair, which is the first step to the National Science Fair.

Another is the Science Club, which organized and helped carry out this year's Science Fair, with senior Pat Vollman as President and Mr. Tom Dick as Staff Advisor.

Besides being Science Club advisor, Mr. Dick, who received his masters degree from Indiana University, is also head of the Science Department.

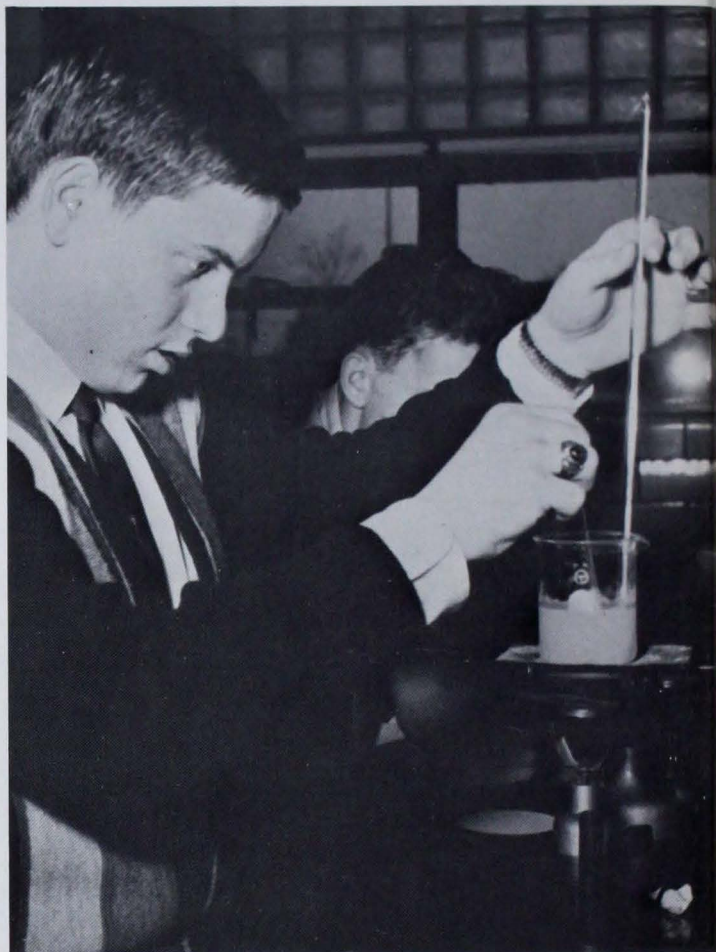

Biology, both Modern Biology and Biological Science for Curriculum Study, are taught to sophomore and, for the first time, to freshman students who qualify. Mr. Dick also took his Advanced Biology class on a field trip to Angel Mounds.

Veteran Sister Mary Corita, a graduate of Catherine Spaulding College, is a six-year Chemistry teacher at Mater Dei, while Sister John Marie from St. Scholastica is in her third year as a girls' Biology teacher.

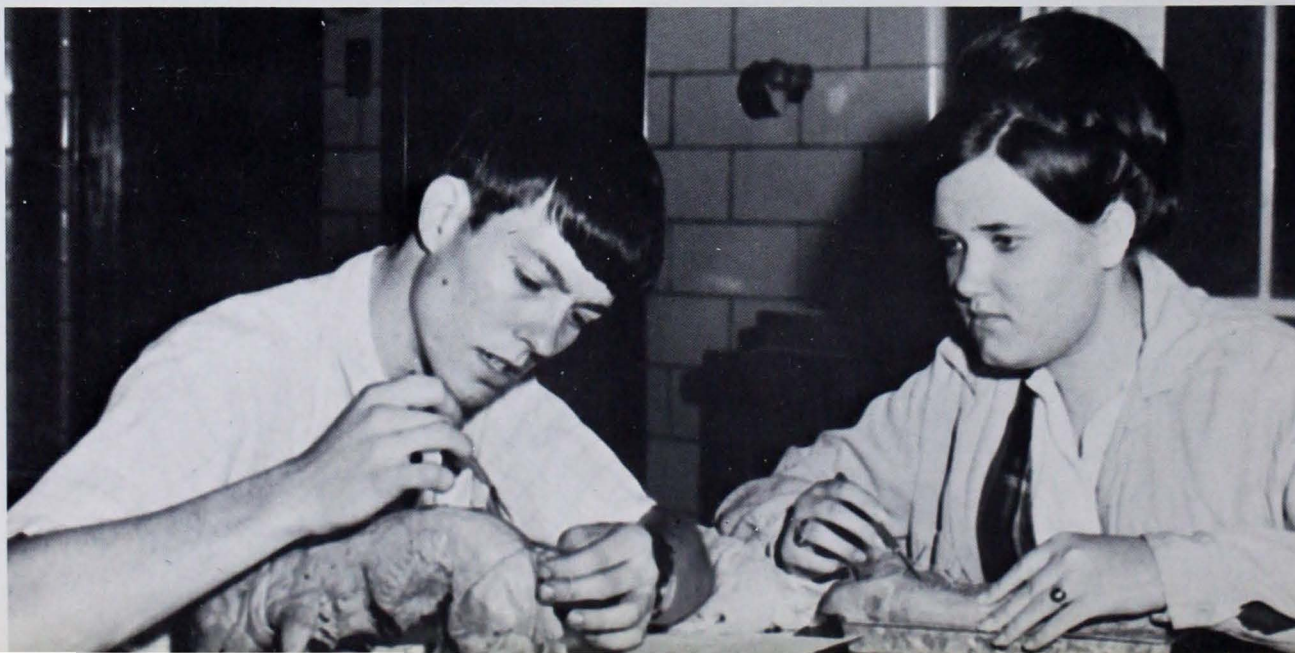

Due to the work of the teachers in the Math and Science fields, this year's Science Fair was one of the best ever, with Teresa Tavormina taking first place in Math.

There was a three way tie for first place honors in Chemistry, Francis Buamgart, Ken Schapker and Bob Angermier all placing first.

Tony Bruce and Becky Kramer tied for first place in Physics with Darrel Hupfer, Karen Schoenbachler, Janet Walter and the twosome of Beth Beyer and Pat Bray and Mary Beth Will and Fran Reisinger all placing first in Biology.

additions of films and tapes

Students invade the largest center of information constantly with the librarian, Sister Mary Raymond, providing excellent service with additional books and equipment to meet the various needs. "Building a collection means steady growth," said Sister Mary Raymond, and that is what the library is doing as it provides recreational enjoyment, facts for a term paper, or a science report for chemistry. About 6000 books, occupational and guidance material, along with filmstrips, records, and a complete information file with maps, pamphlets, and brochures, are available for students and faculty alike.

"Read More Now," the theme of the annual Book Fair, again provided new material with an even wider selection of titles including this year's favorites: "Patch of Blue," "Black Like Me," "Brave New World," "How Green Was My Valley" and the "Charlie Brown" episodes. Sister emphasized that new selections for the library are based on student needs and requests. Many books and pamphlet information are added in each department and subject area every year. The widest and newest area of growth is that of nonprint material such as film strips and tapes.

Opportunities unlimited in diversified language setup

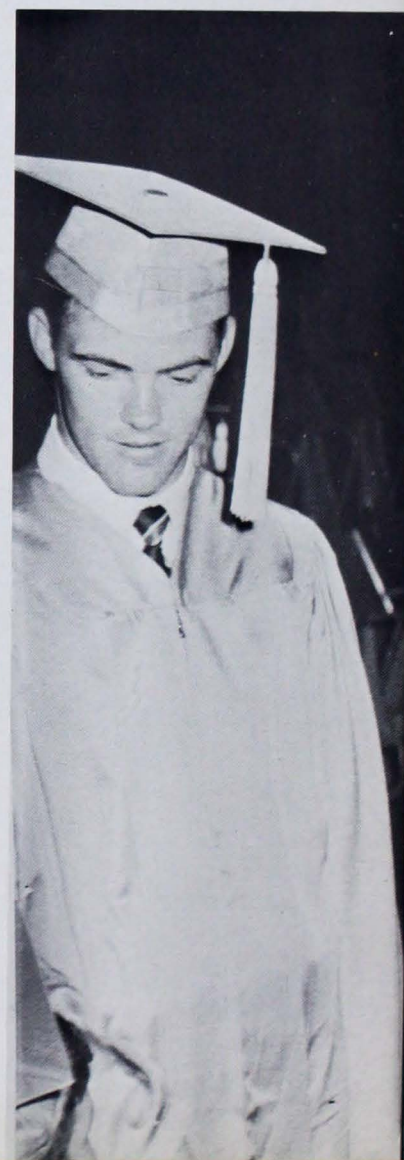

To relive their respective foreign customs and traditions, the language departments sparked their classes with dramas and after-school lab sessions. Sister Mary Angele, who received her degree from St. Benedict College, masters a busy schedule of French I, II, III and IV. First-year scholars traveled to France by way of short plays with props and dialogue. Ed and Jeanne Stone showed slides from their summer visit abroad and all four French classes participated in the National French Contest. The four winners were freshman Mark Sloan, sophomore Marty Tennyson, junior Susie Shrode and senior Kathy Liffick. Marty also netted a first place in the state competition.

The land of bull-fights is brought to life by Mrs. Mary Patry, Spanish I, II and III instructor. A University of Evansville graduate, she supplemented her classes with tape recordings and displays on Spanish culture and dress. Miss Fatima Dean, girls' physical education teacher, also teaches Spanish I and II. Mr. Eugene Moutoux, a graduate of St. Meinrad College, handles four years of German, the last of the three languages offered here.

"History repeats itself." This axiom presents itself to the social studies of Mater Dei as they explore the past and delve into the future. U.S. History and American Problems are required for juniors and seniors respectively with World History being offered as an elective to the underclassmen.

Mr. John Blankenberger, who received his degree from Brescia College, and Sr. Mary Ann, a graduate of St. Scholastica College, direct the history program. Mr. Thom Gore, an alumnus of St. Edwards in Texas and Sr. Charlene, a Dayton University graduate, team up to handle American Problems classes.

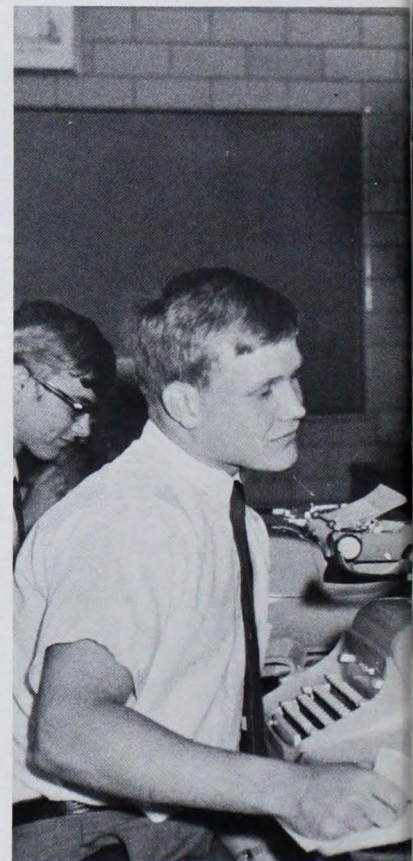

All classes utilized films of government, industry and resources while the seniors again held a mock trial at the county courthouse, familiarizing themselves with court procedure.

Pam Rebstock Betty Crocker winner

One of the more useful and fundamental classes offered to high school girls is Home Economics. These classes, four in all, are taught by Sister Dorothy Marie, Mrs. Jon Miller and Mrs. James Calhoun. Sister Dorothy Marie teaches freshmen basic Home Economics, taught more in depth in the latter three years, and a junior clothing class which deals with selecting cloth and patterns, knitting and crocheting and similar types of sewing procedures. Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Calhoun instruct sophomore Food's class, which contains essential food requirements and how to prepare and serve these foods. They also teach senior Christian Family Living, which completes the three previous years and includes such topics as home planning, decorating and management, child-care and development and the essentials of being a good Christian mother.

Mrs. Miller has received a B.A. Degree from Ball State University. Sister Dorothy

Marie has been awarded a B.A. Degree in education from St. Benedict College and is presently continuing her graduate and undergraduate work at Catherine Spalding University in Terre Haute. Although Mrs. Calhoun has a major in physical education, she studied Home Economics courses during her years as an underclassman. She is a recent graduate of the University of Evansville.

Senior Pam Rebstock won the Betty Crocker Home Economics Award, receiving a certificate and a silver charm from the Betty Crocker Company.

Receiving the silverware award was senior Joyce Schenk; she was selected by the senior girls from the Christian Family Living classes.

Senior Kathy Schmitt received an award from the Evansville Women's Home Economics Club, given to the girl in the school who plans a career in the Home Economics field.

Meinie—Mater Dei's man on the move

With 800 students to serve each day, the six cafeteria ladies strive to meet nutrition requirements. Mrs. Irene Feldhaus, cafeteria manager, has been preparing meals for over seven years. Other cooks are Mrs. Jeanette Commens, Mrs. Linda Berger and Mrs. Delores Schoenbachler, who have all been cooks for two years. New additions to the staff this year were Mrs. Rosella Lankford and Mrs. Bernadine Mueller. The new equipment for 1968 included stoves, a refrigerator, chefs' tables, flooring, utility carts, shelves and a phone.

Mr. Meinrad Schoenbachler, the maintenance man, has been with the school about twenty years. He tends the campus grounds and the school building.

Public trials, student jury spark campus interest

Evansville Courier columnist, Joe Aaron, publicly complimented Mater Dei's mock trial presented at the Vanderburgh County Superior Court Room in the County Courthouse, at Superior Court Judge Benjamin Buente's invitation.

Again this year the majority of senior student councilmen and officials actively participated in the trial sponsored by the City of Evansville.

Our Town displayed its own political initiative as registered citizens of Mater Dei-ville went to the polls to vote for Mayor, Clerk, Judge, Councilmen-at-large and Student Advocate. Giving the citizens a louder voice in the affairs of their government prompted the erection of "Your Student Government In Action" bulletin board and suggestion box, and numerous court sessions and political campaigns reflected a growing interest in judicial procedure.

Revising the "Guide for Parents" under the direction of Father Loerlein attracted the full attention of the council's concern for the student's best interests.

Hi-lighting the social activities of the Student Council were sponsoring the Inaugural Ball, the Annual Sadie Hawkin's Dance, and instituting "Spirit Week" with an official proclamation of exceptional spirit during the week of basketball sectionals.

Seniors Bill Noelle and Carolyn Morris, mayor and clerk respectively, were honored as "Youths of the Day" by the Evansville Optimist Club. They, along with representatives from other Evansville schools, controlled the offices of the City of Evansville for one day and were awarded a plaque for their services at a noon luncheon.

Our Town Juniors Sandy Baechle and Bob Angermeier represented Mater Dei during a Student Council exchange program sponsored by Reitz High School.

The top two per cent of the senior leaders of Mater Dei were chosen as "Leaders of Tomorrow" by the Evansville Chamber of Commerce and given special recognition at a banquet in the Student Union building of the University of Evansville. They were Kathy Liflick, Carolyn Morris, Joe Ellert, Gary Metz, and David Rexing.

of accomplishments revolves around school, city

A color-wheel of activities was maintained by Junior and National Honor Society members. The societies sponsored a tutoring system for all students having difficulty in their classes and assisted at the beginning of the school year with freshmen orientation. The National Honor Society conducted a Thanksgiving Party for students at the Marian Day School. Seniors Joe Ellert, Jo Lynn Franks, Ron Baumgart and Mary Ann Herrell helped lead the festivities which included cartoons, cookies, candy and "Kool-aid".

The organization also financed the cost of ribbon awards at the Science Fair and assisted in the annual Book Fair sponsored in conjunction with the school library, under the direction of Sister Mary Raymond. The honor groups sold refreshments during the intramural basketball game and sponsored the highest average achievement pins awarded at the end of the first semester. The winners were senior Rose Mary Rexing, junior Teresa Tavormina, sophomore Paul Martin and freshman Ann Tavormina.

In addition, the National Honor Society members aided in the measuring of senior caps and gowns. Participating in the annual Honor Society induction ceremony were the National Honor Society officers: Kathy Liffick, president; Kathy Walter, vice-president; Joe Ellert, secretary; and Donna Kueber, treasurer. Dr. Paul Walter, Kathy's father, was the speaker at the assembly. Junior Honor Society officers included Bob Angermeier, president; Frank Buerger, vice-president; Susie Becker, secretary; and Steve Nurrenbern, treasurer. Sister Mary Esther, faculty adviser, instructed the members in the four qualities of service, scholarship, leadership and character.

A new device this year was that eligible students for induction submitted a character analysis of themselves before the teachers voted on their admittance to the societies. Juniors and seniors were eligible for the National Honor Society, while the Junior Honor Society were open to freshmen and sophomores.

Sophomore, Rick Miller prepares to be reinducted into the Junior Honor Society.

'Scapin the Scamp' begins Thespian season as Drama Department offers wide range of entertainment

The inauguration of the city's Civic Center brings a new cultural attraction to Evansville in the form of entertainment. Mater Dei-ville, too, followed up with the Drama Club's presentations in the school's Little Theater. Directed by Mr. Stan Singer, English and World Literature teacher, the plays ranged from a seventeenth-century farce by Moliere, to a night of horror and melodramatic productions. Thom Liffick starred in the seventeenth-century "Scapin the Scamp," the Drama Club's first endeavor of the school year. A crook and conman, Scapin observes life and the conflicts that can occur between fathers and sons. Others contributing to the action were Jerry Deig, Tony Bruce, Jim Butler, Terri Helfrich, Don Ulrich, Diane Dunkelbarger and Ed Stone.

The setting then switched from the seventeenth-century atmosphere of Naples to the Nazi era in Germany's 1930's for the club's second undertaking during the spring. "Jacob Comes Home", the first of three one-act horror plays, was an account about Jewish situations during Hitler's reign. Characters were Jerry Deig, Jim Butler, Martha Shelton, Marty Tennyson and Marcia Coomes. A famous killer of London's late nineteenth century supplied the mystery and suspense for the "Mother of Jack the Ripper." The lead role was carried by freshman Diane Gutzweiler while supporting dramatists were Jackie Drone, Jamie Waelde, Bob Angermeier, Mike Forche and Jane Tenbarge. The part of a deranged spinster offered Teresa Tavormina her first acting assignment in "Still Stands the House," the last of the three horror productions. She was joined by fellow-actors, Diane Dunkelbarger, Ed Stone and Thom Liffick, in the eerie performance.

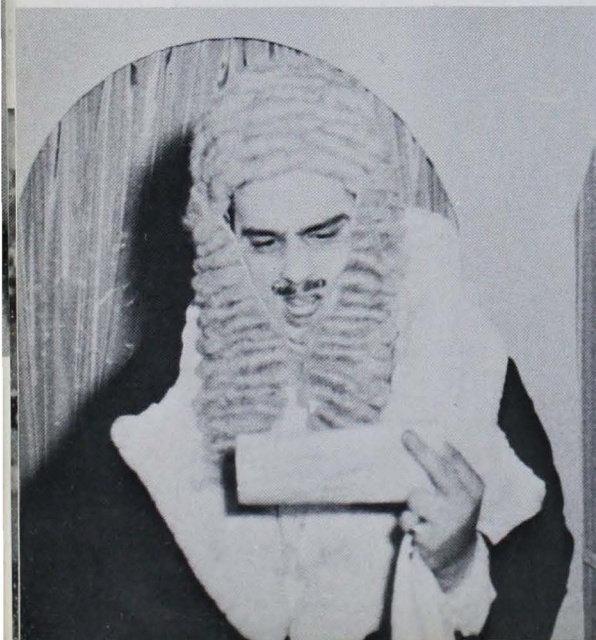

A new feature was interjected here with the arrial of the "Coffee House." At two of the horror shows, the Little Theater was decorated with a "Coffee House" theme accented by horror decorations, Red-and-white checkered tablecloths covered card tables, while waitresses scurried throughout the theater serving refreshments. The walls were adorned with large posters of such personalities as "Bonnie and Clyde." Plastic skulls and orange and black crepe paper hung from the ceiling.

Towards the end of the year, a reverse effect of the horror dramas was put into action in the form of three comedies. "Nobody Sleeps" revolves around a burglar's unusual experiences in the house he was about to plunder. The actors were Bob Clayton, Chris Borries, Vickie Yaser, Marcia Coomes and Donna Hoffman. A man's peculia hobby and a cluster of landladies composed "A Little Bird of a Woman," starring Susie McCallister, Don Ulrich, Barb Nix, Susie Becker and Karen Holder. In a more serious mood was "The Day After," the account of a young daughter finally meeting her mother who is really an ex-convict. Diane Dunkelbarger was the ex-convict and Terri Helfrich starred as the daughter, adopted by Jamie Waelde, at the time her real mother was not present.

The "Coffee House" idea was also used at these final performances. One hundred seats were available for each showing, again using card tables. Since one-act comedies were staged, the decorations, in turn, displayed a comedy motif. Balloons were hung from the ceiling and the walls were framed with large posters of famous comedians. As in the previous "Coffee House," waitresses served refreshments, but at this showing, they were attired in clown costumes.

Between the first and second plays, folk-flavored songs were presented by the guitars of Steve Lankford and Kenny Goans. The climax of the evenings then occurred between the last two performances, where a 15-minute color film was shown. The melodramatic effect was strengthened by the actors, members of the Drama Club. Scenes were shot at various vantage points throughout Evansville. "The Assassination of Julius Caesar" was filmed on the steps of the city's coliseum, amid many onlookers and staring spectators. The old Henderson bridge was the scene of an exciting chase for Tony Bruce, Chuck Hamilton and Jerry Deig. Other comical effects were used in the "Capture of Baby-Face Nelson" and a "Black Magic Pie Scene." Although no sound was added during the actual filming, records of popular music were played during the showings in the Little Theater. Making their debut in Mater Dei's first film were Chuck Hamilton, Jerry Deig, Ed Stone, Joe Stratman, Paul Jourdan, Tony Bruce, George Brenner, Jack Schenk, Charlie Jourdan, Chris Hamilton and Bob Angermeier.

Proclamation
from the Office of the Mayor

Whereas, this being the month of February at which time the Indiana High School Athletic Association conducts the annual basketball tournaments in the city of Evansville; and

Whereas, the Student Council recognize the importance of an enthusiastic display of school spirit at said tournament and asks the faculty and students of Mater Dei High School give their utmost support to our teams in these games:

Therefore, I, Bill Noelle, proclaim the week of February 19-24 as "School Spirit Week"

initiates post-game dances, annual spring sock hop

Grabbing a first and two second place ribbons and a spirit stick from Camp Crescendo, Kentucky, the varsity cheerleaders returned home sparking campus spirit through victory and defeat. Pep Club officers Sharon Head, two year veteran and President of the 1967-68 club, and Pat Franks, Secretary-treasurer, produced and directed assemblies, pep rallies, as well as after game dances, poster contests, and clean-up committees.

Father Gayle Uebelor was the Pep Club sponsor and Sister M. Angele, Cheerleader sponsor. Chuck Guetling and Patty Tornata directed the gimmick and poster committees respectively. Reserve cheerleaders also added three ribbons and a spirit stick to the archives of Mater Dei.

Varsity, Reserve and Freshman squads alike practiced an average of five hours each week producing weak vocal chords and sore feet with tumbling practice adding additional pulled muscles. "Spirit Week" completed the successful football, basketball and wrestling season as cheerleaders and student body alike shouted cries of victory over eastside foe, Harrison, in the last cage game of the season.

Band, chorus each present special concerts

Changes in the number of productions sponsored by the Music Department saw the Band and Chorus each present their own concert. The two combined for a Christmas show that featured both along with Santa and some holiday dancers.

Band Camp started off the Marching Wildcats on their way to various precision drills and dance routines for parades and football games.

Pom-pom girls also received the benefits of Band Camp to lead the marching band and also to provide the entertainment at home basketball games.

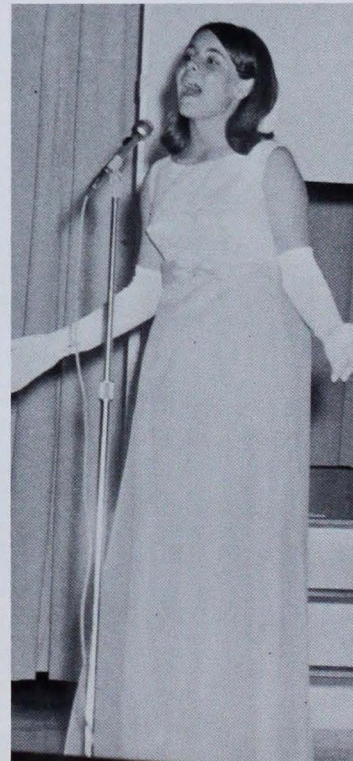

Both the Chorus and Band participated in competition at the University of Evansville, with the Stage Band and Brass Sextet receiving first division ratings for the Band and the senior and sophomore Choruses receiving first and second division ratings, respectively.

The Band's concert featured modern music such as "Windy" and "Alfie," along with more restrained tunes like "Ballet de Plasir." Jim Kern soloed in a modern jazz number entitled "Some Like It Cool," along with Gerry Deig. Other highlights of the evening included "Sandpaper Ballet" which featured Phil Raben on the sandpaper.

Barb Nix, Diane Dunkelbarger, Angie Lowery and Steve Lankford were among the choir members who soloed in the choirs' "Swinging, Singing Concert." The chorus groups presented a mixture of modern music coupled with themes from "My Fair Lady" and other current film productions.

Miss Anderson's marching Wildcats also received first place in the annual Armed Forces Day Parade. The parade was the last performance of the band for the school year.

Wildcats

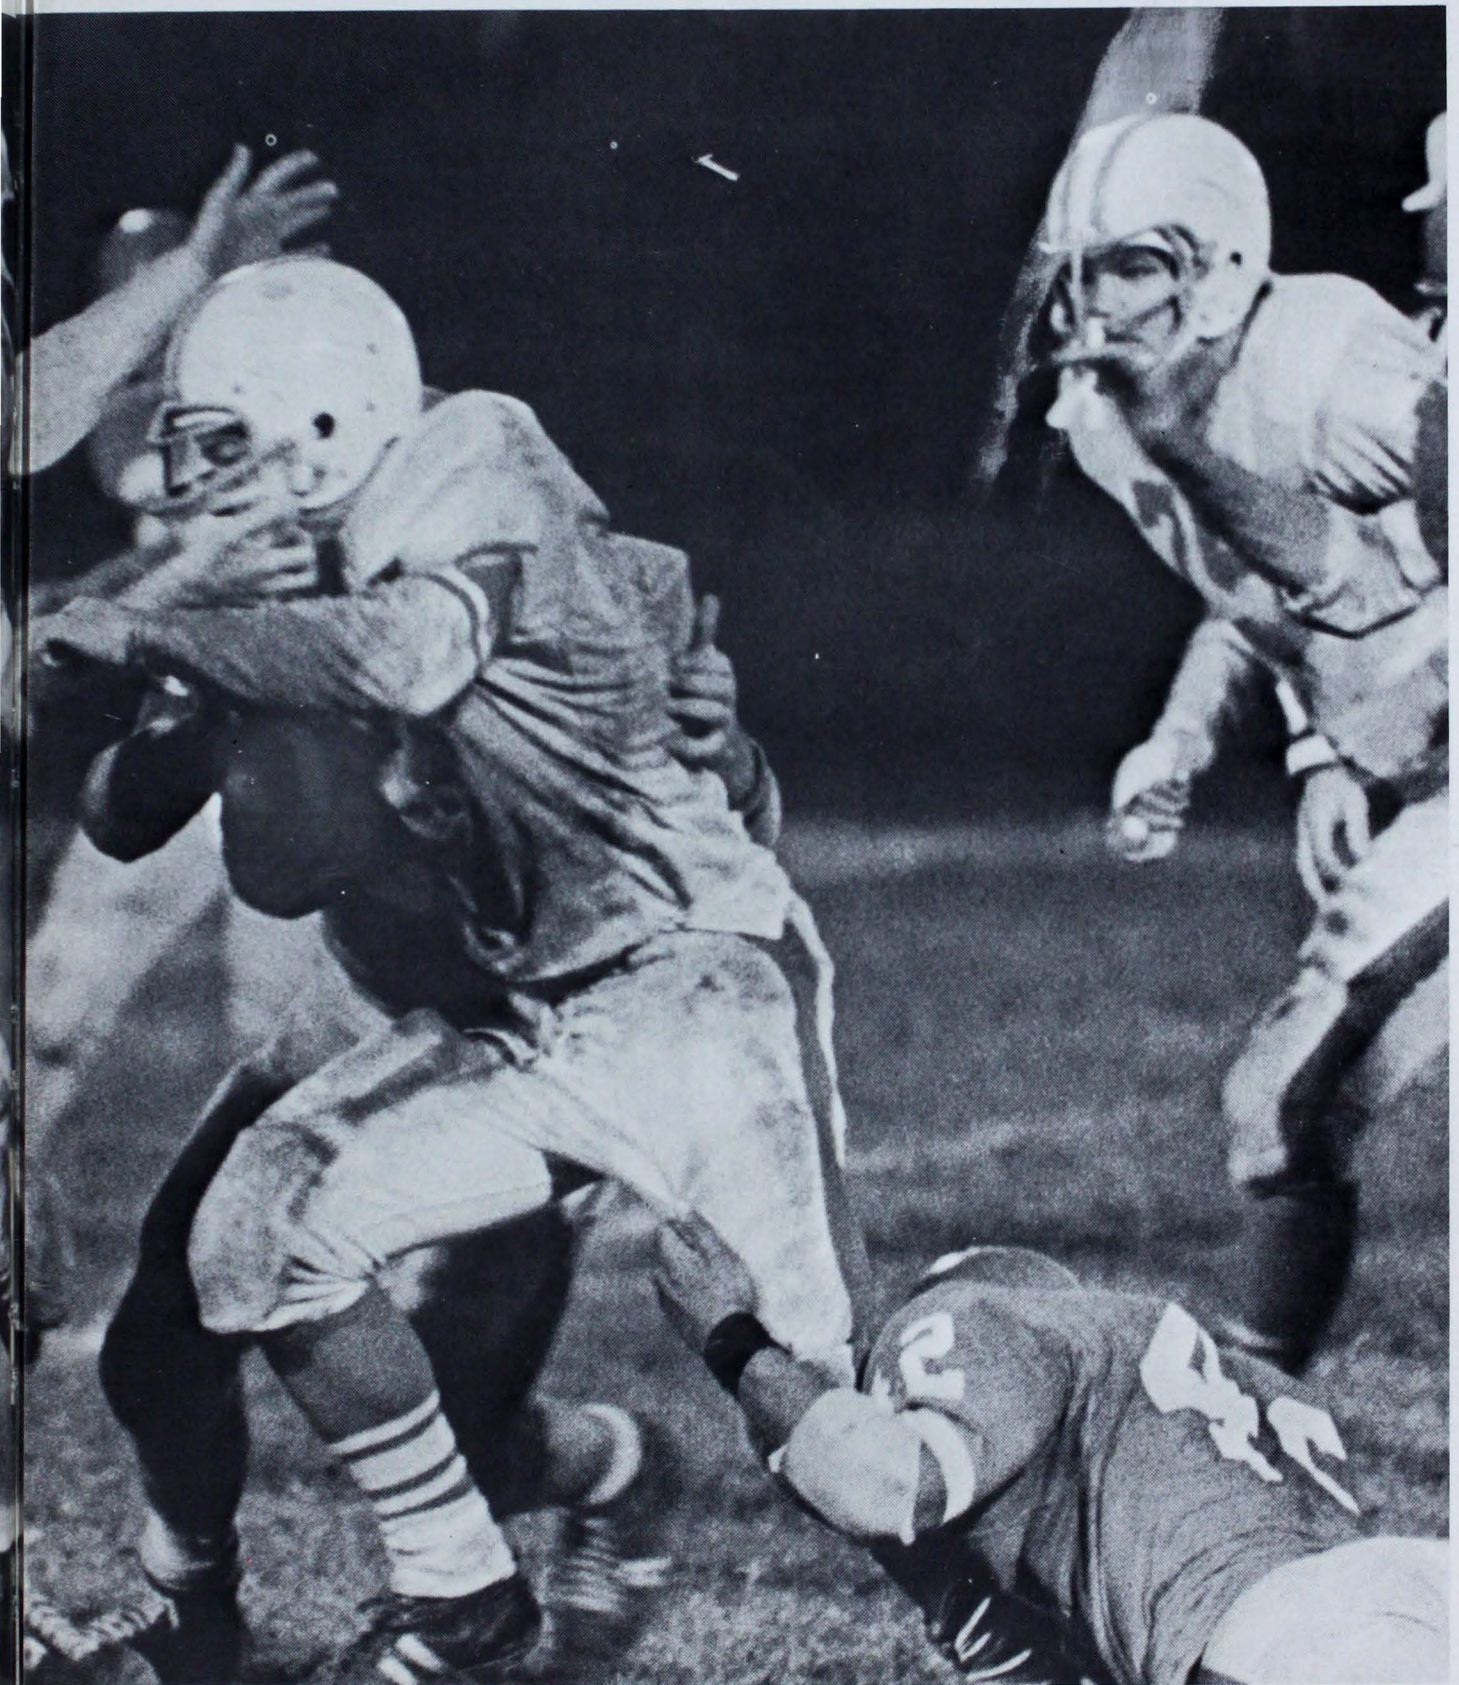

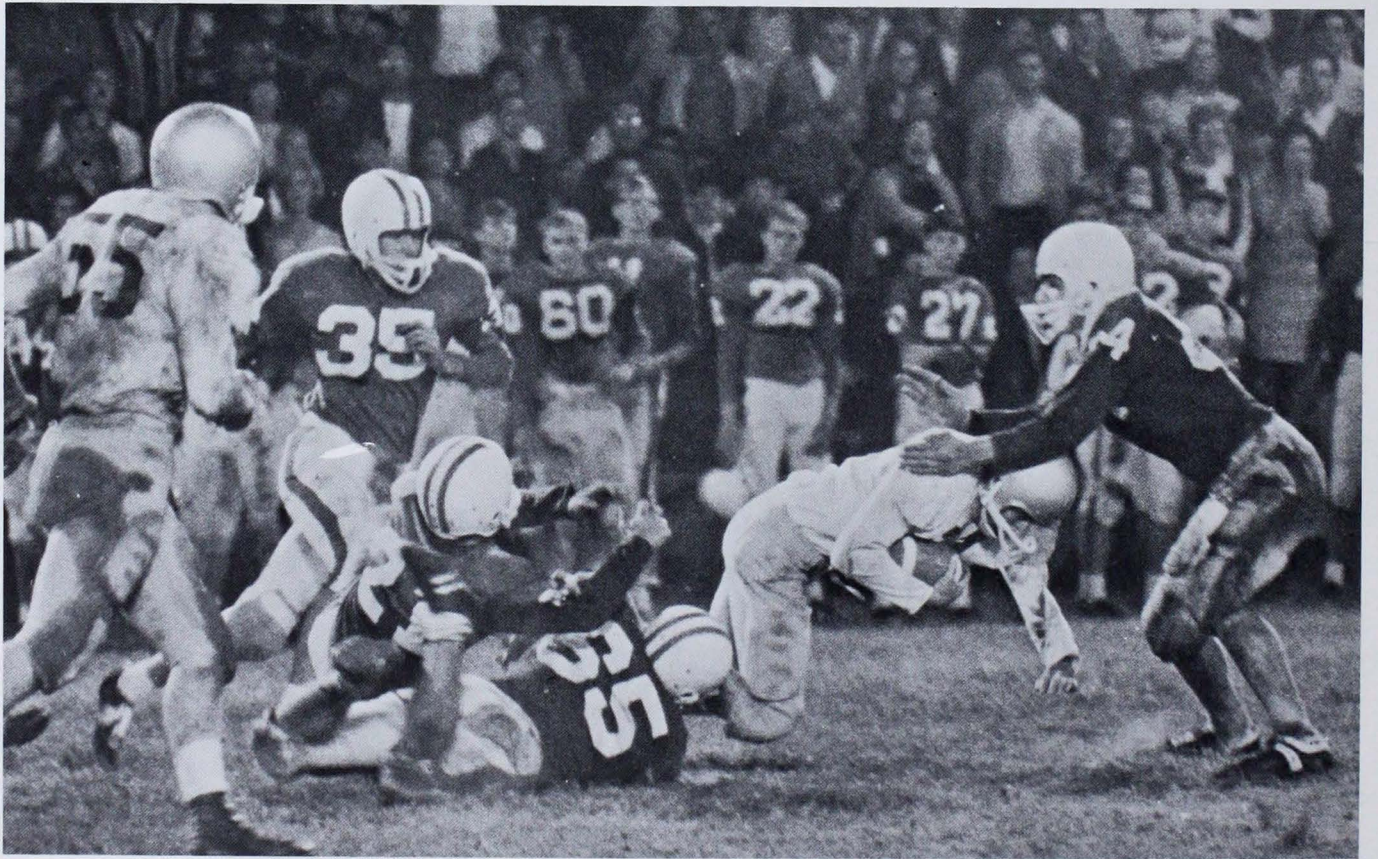

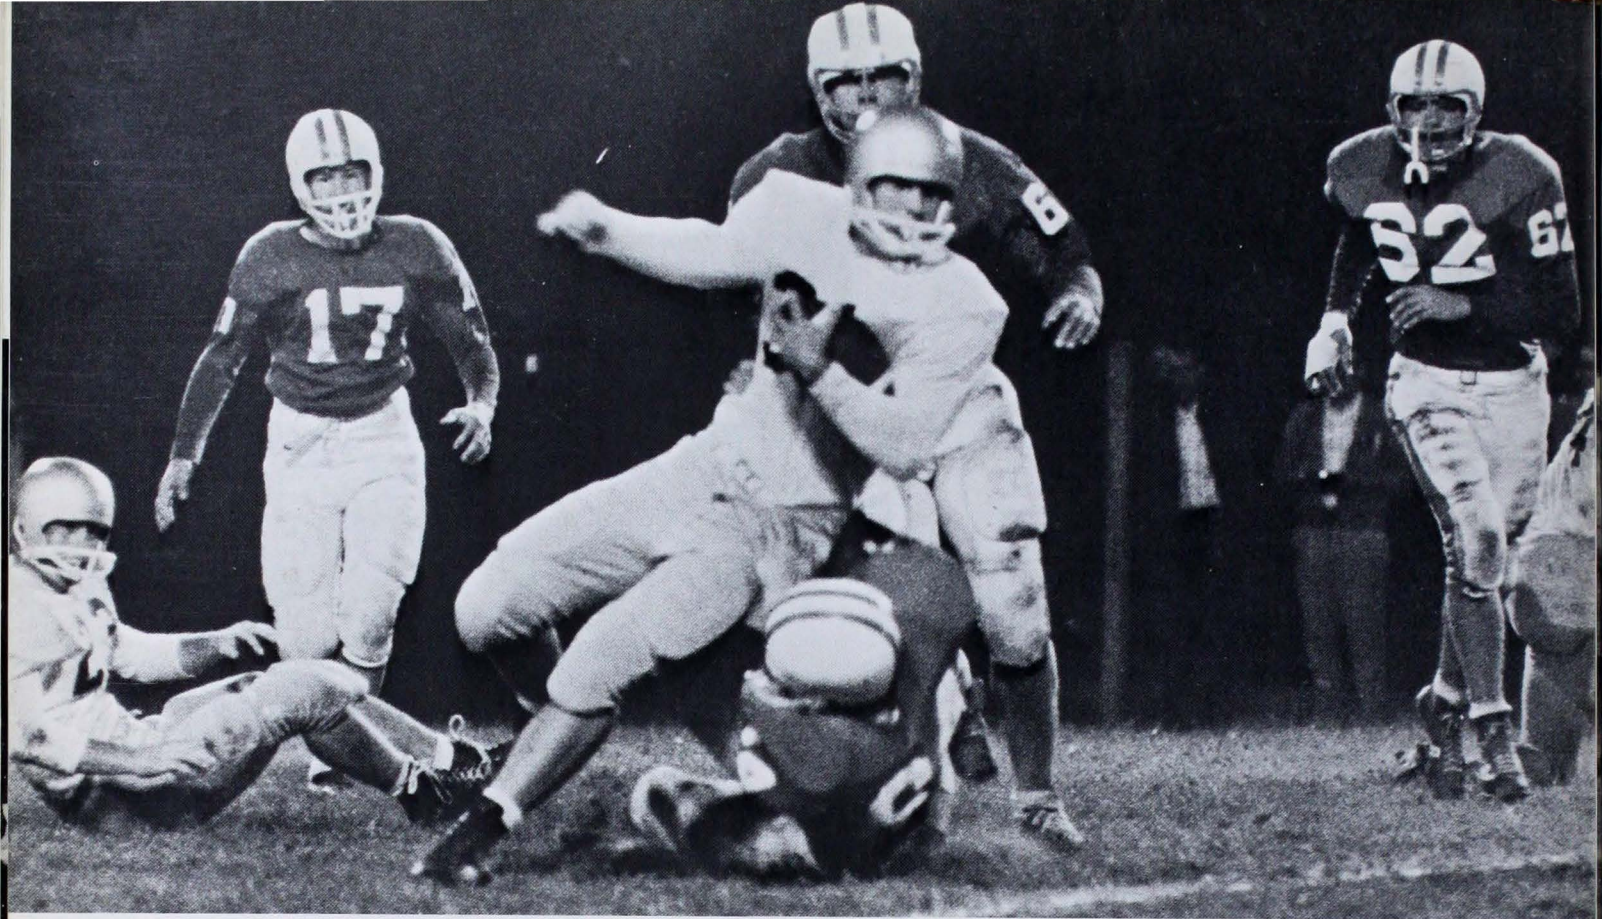

Five athletes who display the spirit and determination making Mater Dei a repeated city power in all sports are cagers

Duffy Gries (24) and Steve Nurrenbern; wrestler Art Happe; and Gridgers Steve Pfister and Frank Buerger.

Gridders go 4-5-1 as flock of injuries put damper on high, pre-season expectations

A typical Mater Dei season just about sized up the varsity football squad. Starting out the campaign with the most promising team since the days of Jerry Browning, the squad appeared to be well on its way to living up to expectations by taking its first two games.

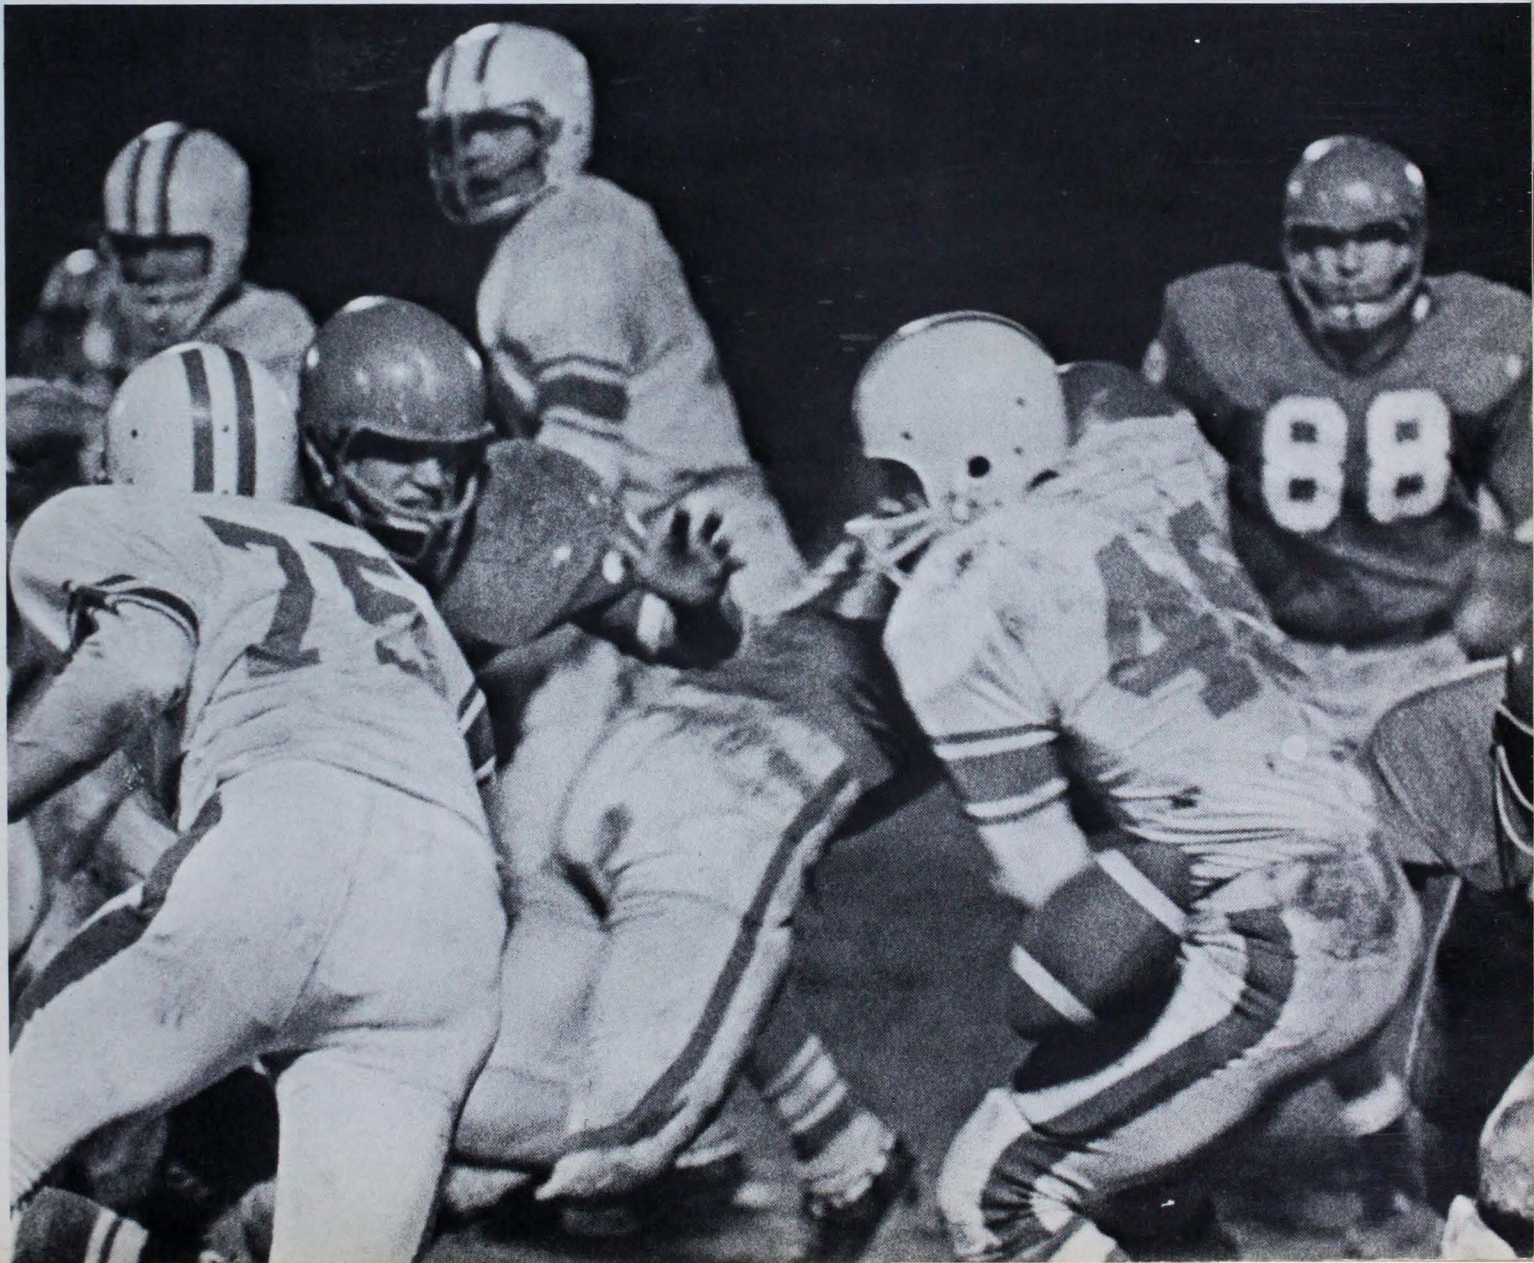

But a loss to Reitz before 12,000 fans and a list of injuries, which sidelined at least 12 gridders, turned the tide and the Cats ended up 4-5-1. Despite the losing season, Steve Pfister and Steve Nurrenbern were All City choices, Don Miller was an SIAC selection, and Pfister represented Mater Dei for the first time in the Indiana North-South All-Star Game.

On the reserve level, the Wildcats were 2-4-1, losing the four by a total of 27 points. The freshmen went 0-7.

causes quarterback Mike Forche to lose control of the pigskin. The game ended 0-0.

Cagers go 12-9 for first winning season since '64

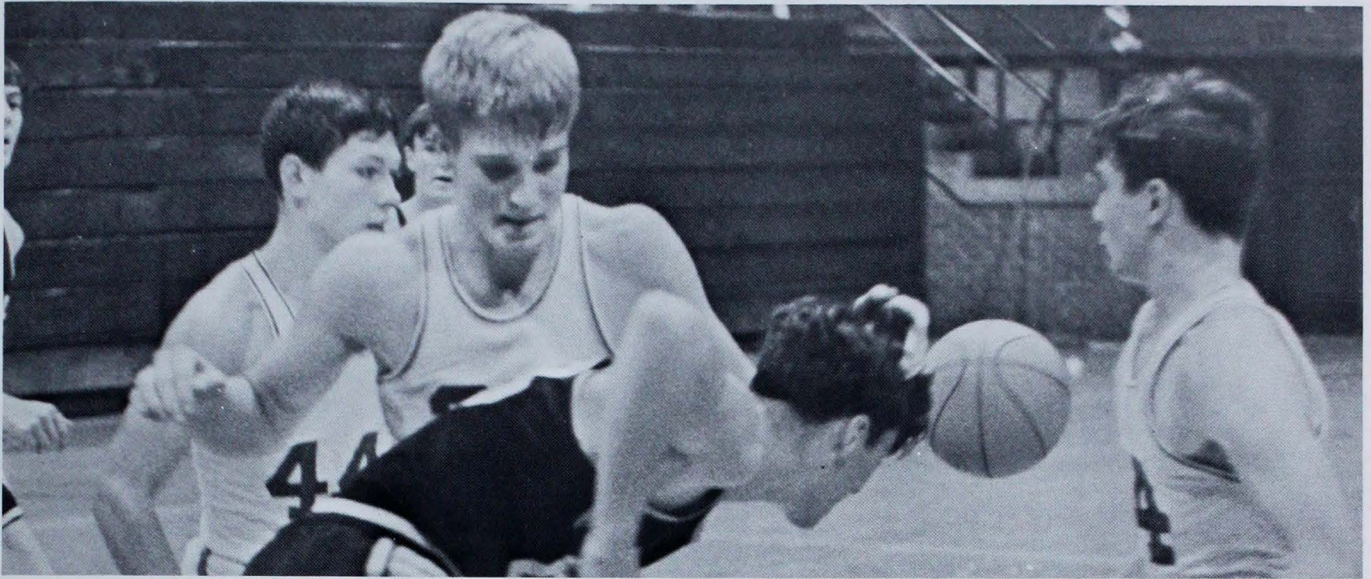

Wildcat cagers, behind the firepower of senior forward John Stocker, recorded their first winning season in four years with a 12-9 standing. Stocker, the fifth highest scorer in the city, dropped in 391 points, followed by junior guard Kenny Wannemuehler with 209. Stocker also propelled the Cats in rebounds, pulling down 255. He was followed by Bob Alstadt with 139, Steve Nurrenbern, 122 and Kim Schiff, 118.

The reserve team, showing exceptional balance, finished the campaign at 9-9, while the frosh snapped a two-year losing streak at 28 games with a 1-16 record.

match in Coach Gossman's 13-year reign

Senior Steve Pfister (180) attempts to take down his opponent.

Coming back with an exciting 24-22 win over a powerful Reitz team, the defending City Champs, the Matcats clinched second place in city competition with their only defeat coming at the hands of East Side rival, Harrison.

The loss to Harrison was only the fourth one to city foes in the last 13 years for Coach Gossman and his matches against strengthening city teams were marked by impressive wins over Central 48-8, North 35-11, Memorial 35-11, and Rex Mundi 33-16.

With a repeat of last years performances senior letterman Mike Schapker advanced to regional competition along with first time sectional winners junior Art Happe (127), and senior Steve Pfister (180). All were stopped in the Regionals.

Assistant coach Jim Schenk won his seventh reserve city championship in nine years and also captured the freshman city crown.

Cross Country this year was undoubtedly the best year for the sport in the school's history, as the team ran its way to ninth place in the Regionals and finished unbeaten in the regular season.

The top five runners for the Cats were senior Steve Sammet, juniors Kenny Goans, Steve Markin, Dan Alvey and sophomore Wayne Emge, along with back-up runners junior Joe Schoenbachler and sophomores Pat Raley, and Gerry Ellsperman.

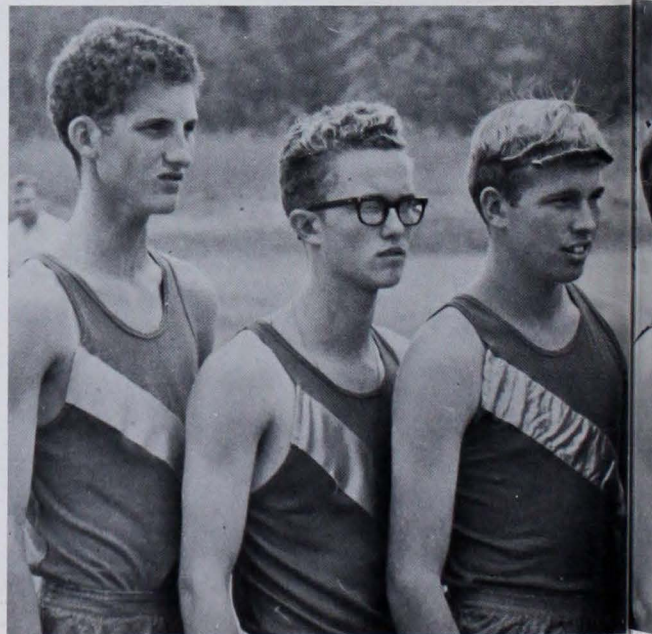

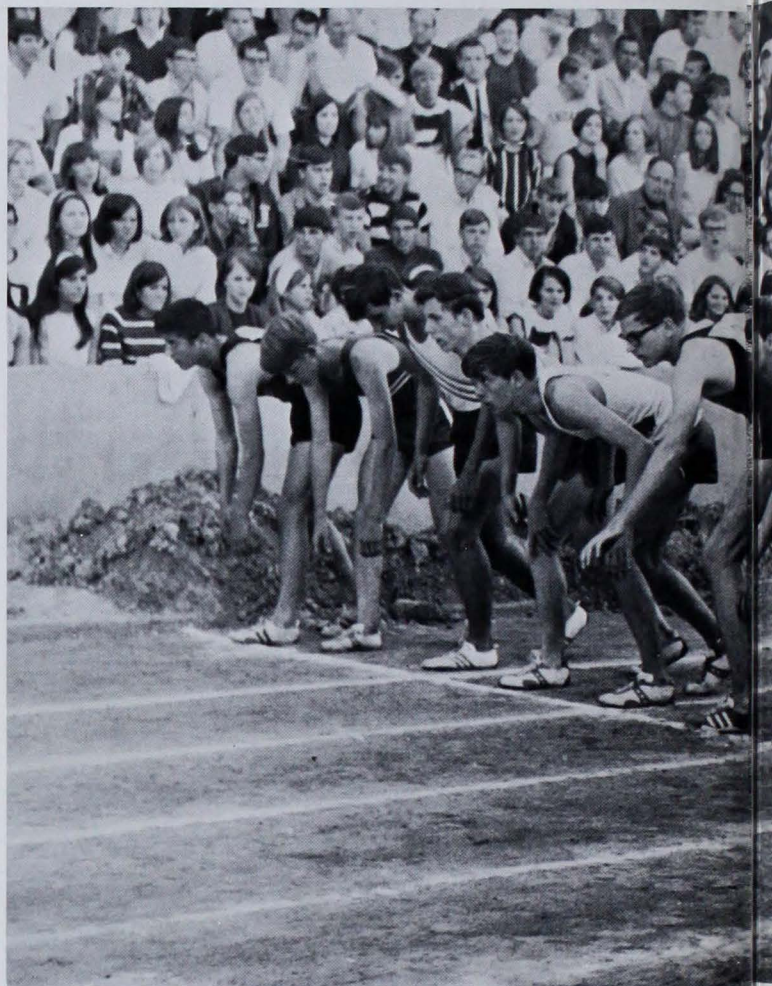

Goans and Sammet were the top individual record breakers. Goans holds the fastest time, a 10:21 clocking, while Sammet recorded the best time ever for the City meet at 10:24.

Team records go something like this: the first to get past the Sectionals and qualify for the Regionals; the first to have an undefeated regular season; the first to get the top five runners under 10:45 in the same meet; the first to take better than fifth in the SIAC with a third; and the first squad to get three finishers in the top ten in the City meet with Sammet, Goans, and Emge.

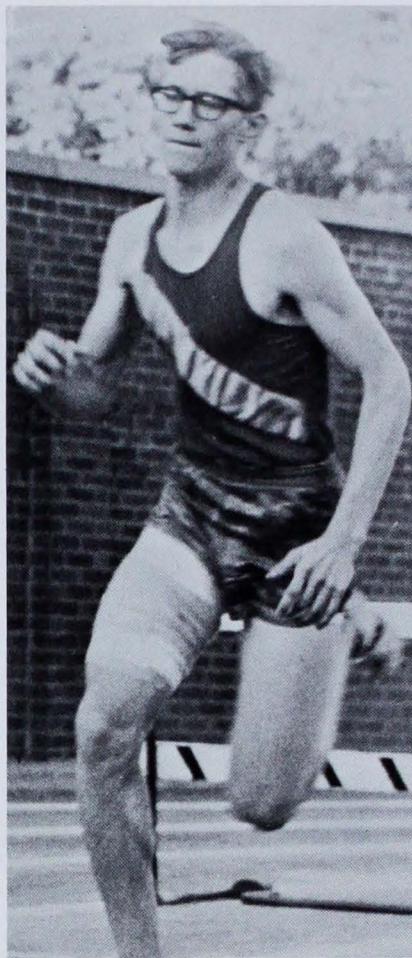

Juniors lead the Track team with six broken records. Junior Steve Nurrenbern, who took second in the sectional, broke his own shot put record with a heave of 50' 2½". Mike Clark set the 440 at 53.2, while junior distance men Dan Alvey and Ken Goans put new tabs on the mile and 2 mile runs with clockings of 4.49 and 10:40, respectively. Seniors Don Miller and Dan Payne tied the 100 mark at 10.7 and Miller equalled the 220 at 23.6. Both the mile relay and half mile relay have new timings at 3:25 and 1:37.5, respectively. Members of the mile relay are Seniors Larry Crouch, Dan Payne, Don Miller and junior Mike Clark, half mile team are Juniors Mike Forche, Bob Clayton, John Hamilton and sophomore Mark Freeman. Although the team established eight new records it won only one meet in six.

Cats make rapid strides to lead city at mid-season

Thom Liffick, Dave Fischer, Steve Sammet, Jim Schiff and Ken Wannemuehler display frowns for the umpire after a so-called bad call.

At the half-way mark of the season when the year-book went to press, the baseball team was in first place in the city and SIAC, winning nine of twelve contests. A slight favorite to win the Evansville Sectionals, the Cats instead suffered a 2-1 setback to Harrison. Memorial eventually captured the crown.

During the first half of the campaign, the Cats racked up some impressive statistics, outscoring the opposition, 60-25, and outhitting them .250 to .190. Junior Ken Wannemuehler, who had a disastrous sophomore year, bounced back to lead the club in hitting with a .375 mark. Sophomore Paul Martin, juniors Jim Schiff and Tom Schapker and seniors John Stocker and Mike Schapker were in the .250 to .275 category.

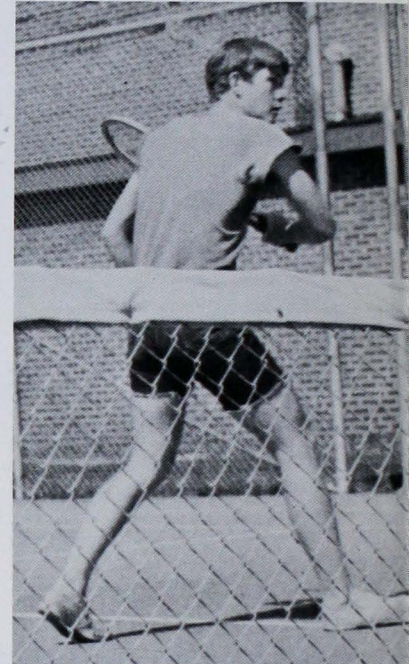

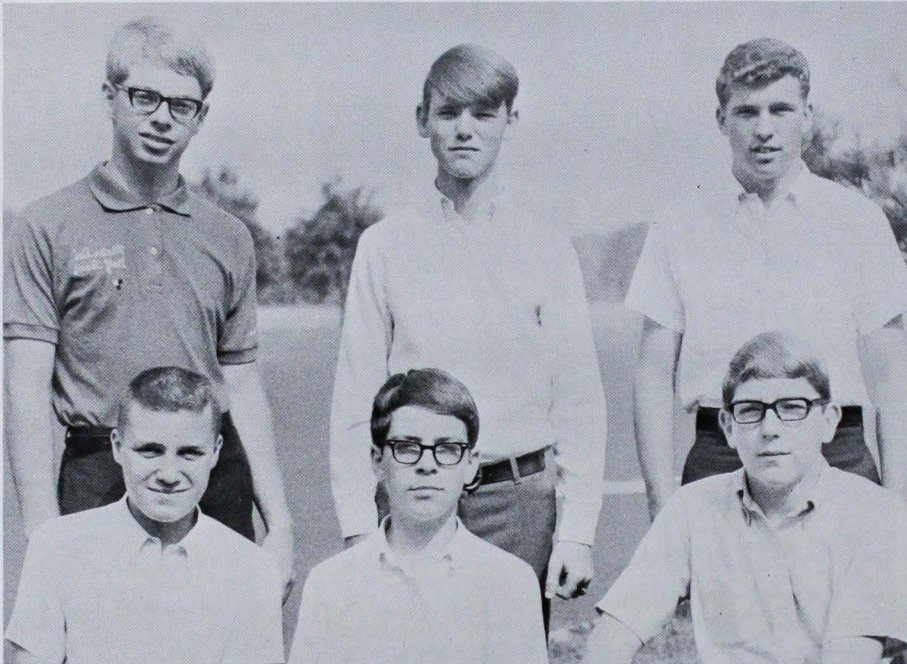

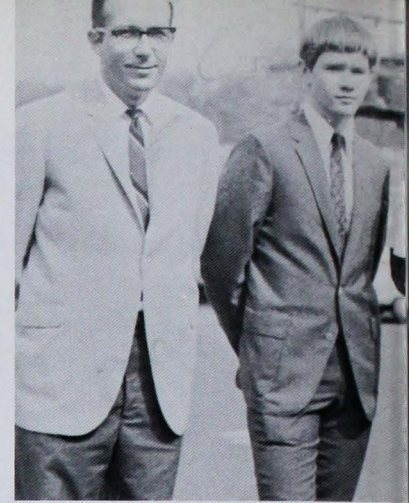

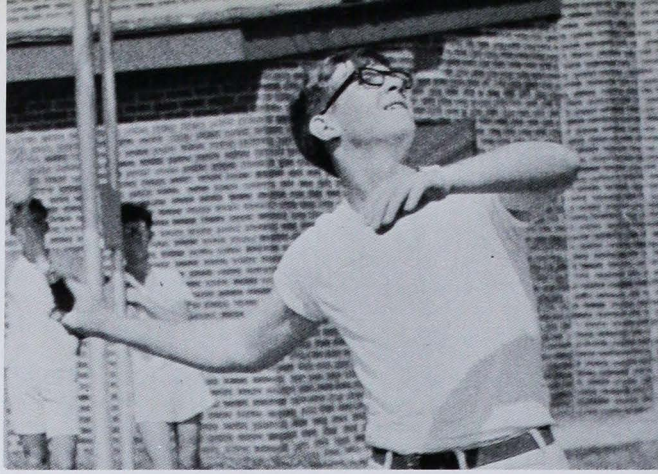

A doubtful performer at first, senior Steve Sammet came on strong and was hitting .500 after four starts. Juniors John Hamilton and Clem Muensterman shared starting duties in the outfield. Senior Kenny Rietman was undoubtedly the hard-luck player of the squad. Outstanding defensively, Rietman had trouble hitting this season after going .295 last year. And when he started coming around, he suffered a badly-bruised shoulder against Bosse when he hit the catcher coming into home. In fact, he hit him so hard that he dropped the ball and the game, as the Cats won 1-0.

In the pitching department, the Cats' big three also showed strong credentials. Stocker was 5-0 with 48 strikeouts in 32 innings, Bob Goedde, 3-2, with 41 strikeouts in 34 innings and junior Thom Liffick, 1-1, with a 1-0 nine-inning four hitter against Central.

Golfers 6th in Sectionals; net men end in blaze

The golf team, under coach Gary Kuhlenhoelter, rallied for a sixth place finish in the Sectionals after finishing the season with a disappointing 3-5 record. First man Bob Angermeier, a junior, and second man Wayne Emge, a sophomore, will be returning next year, along with junior Rick Weighman, who played fourth and fifth man most of the time. Dave Kriete-meier and Charles Guetling are graduating. The Cats three wins came over Central, Rex Mundi and Memorial. The tennis team ended with a three-match winning streak after losing its first seven. The predominantly sophomore-junior squad gained city wins over Central and Rex Mundi and SIAC foe Tell City. Coach Gene Moutoux has John Mathis, Jack Lee, Rick Miller, Randy Jochim, Mike Baumgart and Gerry Sotolongo all returning next year. Most of the boys will be playing their third and fourth years of varsity tennis.

A diploma certifies you received X grades for X hours of study in X subjects. It is not a passport into certain success. In business, it provides no exemptions from real-life problems of bankruptcy, IRS audits or mistakes in judgment. In romance, it gives no advantage over the dashing chap who was cum laude from dancing school. But don't underestimate it. It does give you an added edge of being able to think clearly in such situations. It does give you a job advantage. The rest is up to you. GOOD LUCK!

'Our Town' will live forever

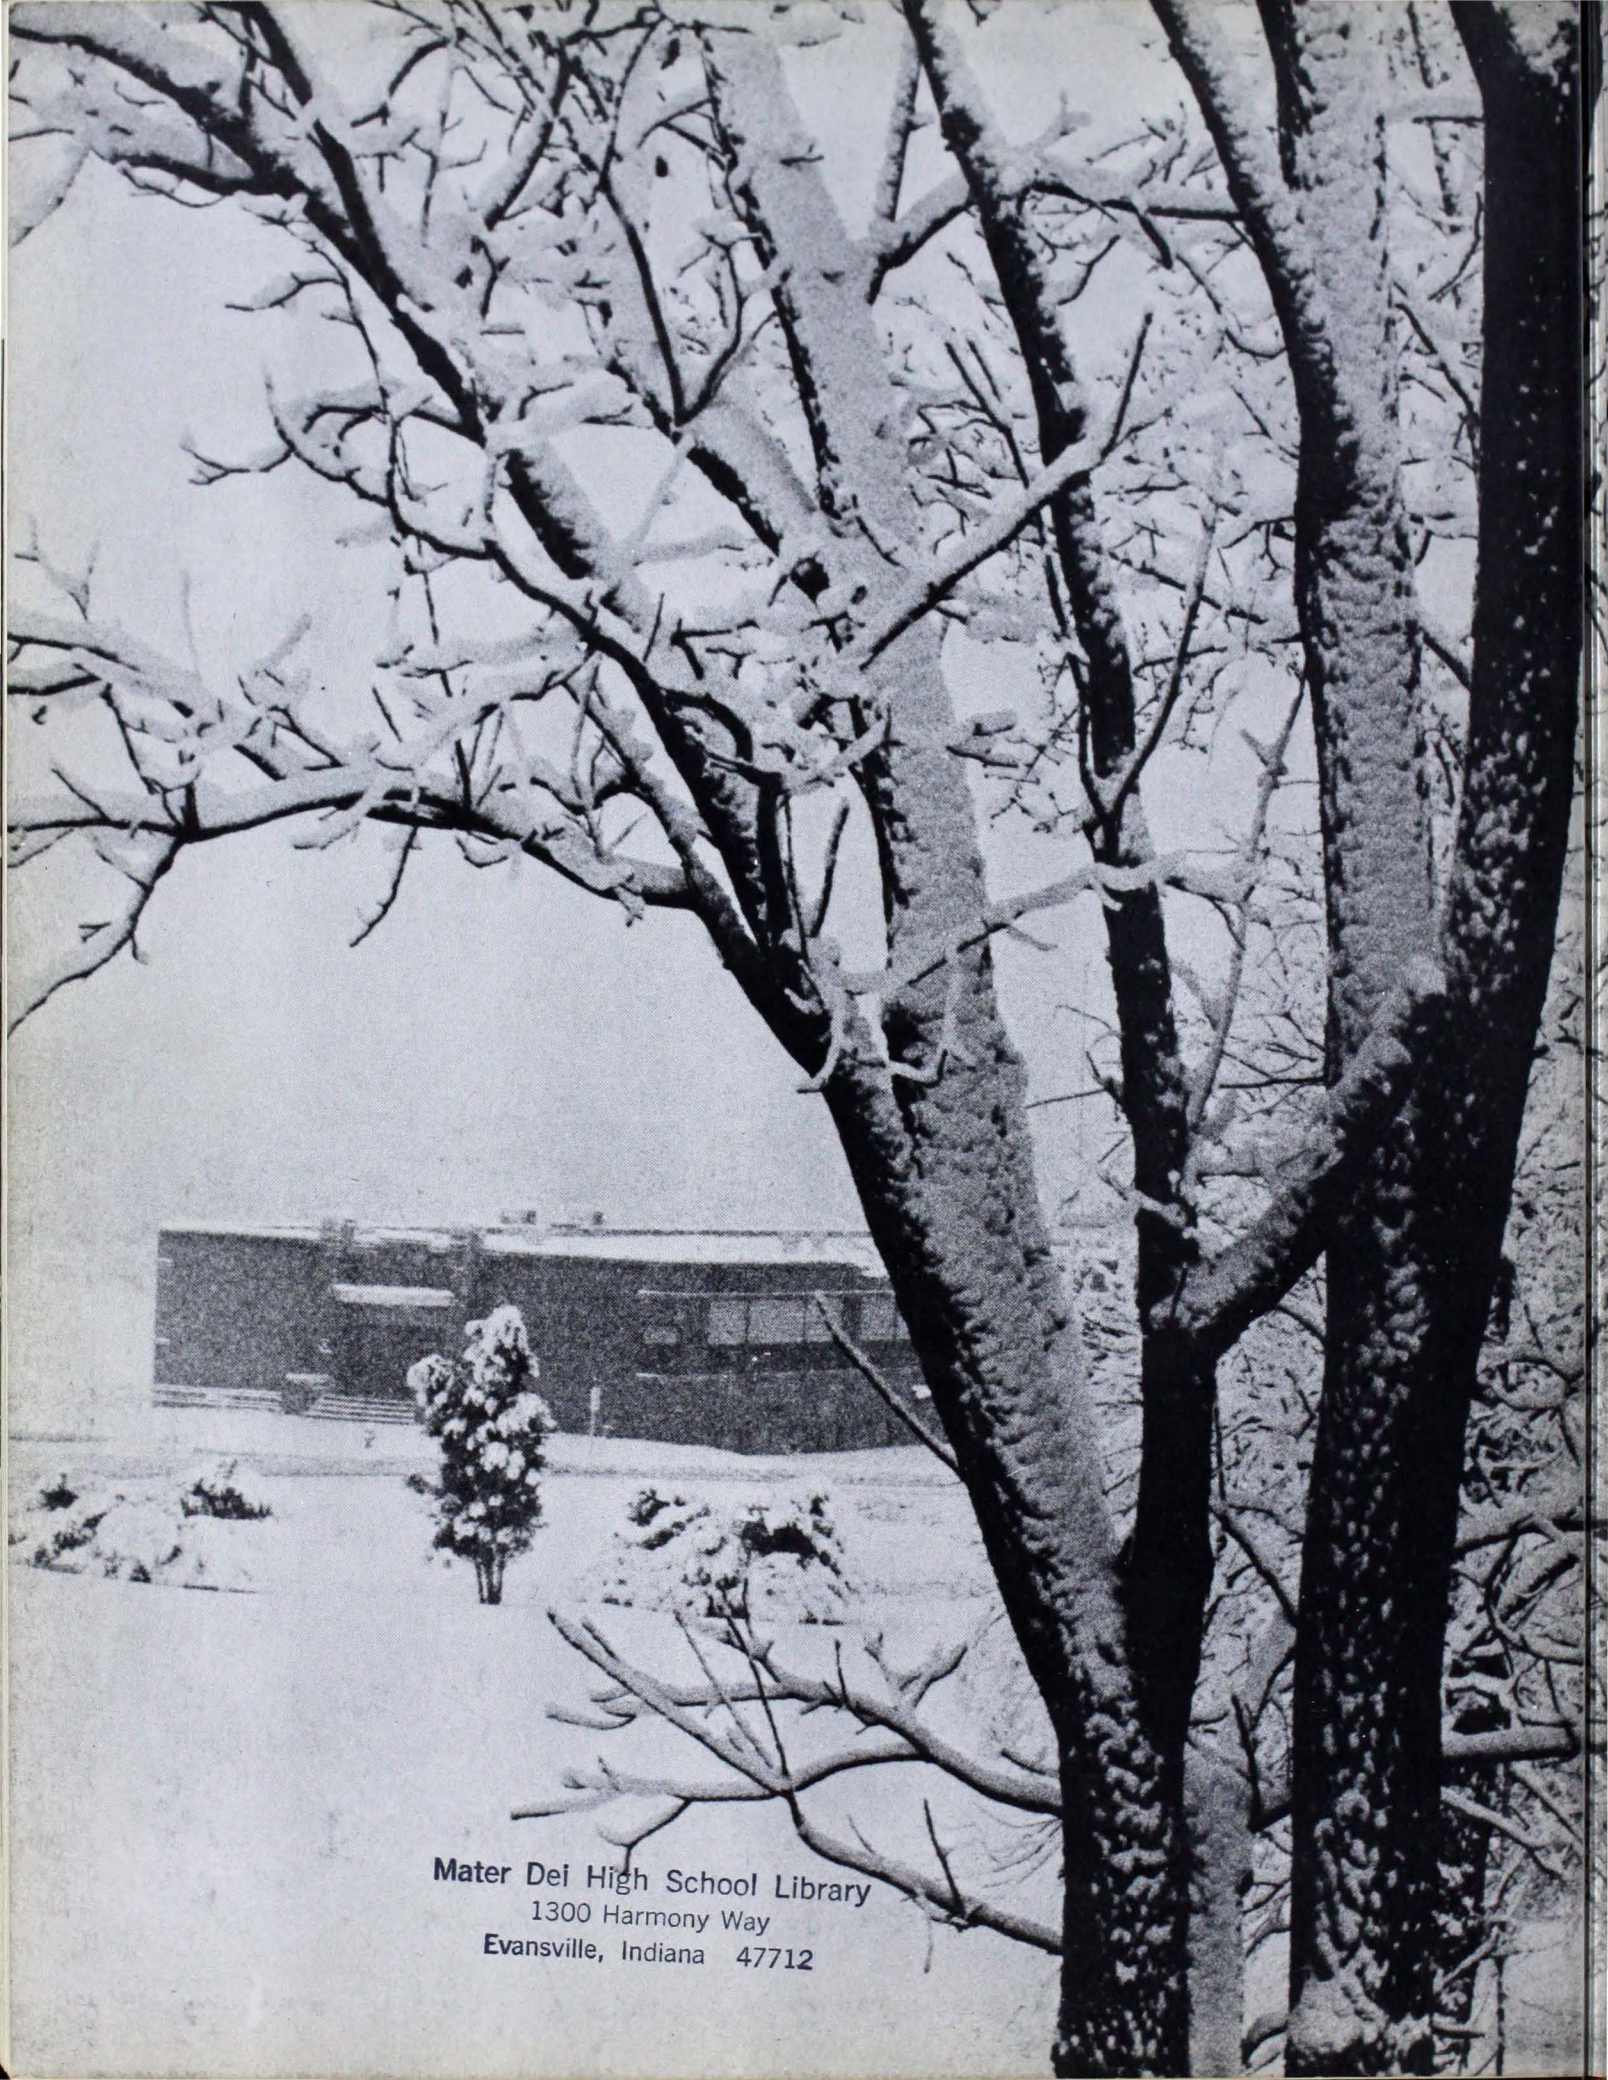

Editor	Jo Lynn Franks
Managing Editor	Mary Jo Hoefling
Adviser	Mr. Steve Halbig
Staff	Steve Sammet, Gary Metz, Rick Bledsoe, Phyllis Kissel, Doris Elpers, Pam Rebstock, Judy Englert
Advertising Manager	Jane Schenk
Senior Portraits	Beverly Studio
Yearbook Representative	Mr. Jerry Cranny Paragon Press

The first thing the staff, editors, and adviser of the 1968 Hi-Lights would like to admit is that we are not satisfied with the yearbook we feel is the best in the school's 19-year history. Our reason—we believe anyone publishing anything of artistic merit must never be satisfied. Otherwise, their next production will not show any improvement. We know that if photographers had been at certain places at the right time, some of our pictures would have been more representative of Student Life. We know if more time had been taken on intricate planning details and copy, headline, and caption writing, our book could have been even more interesting. But one must draw a limit somewhere, and our limit, we hope, is one representative of the school year.

As editor, I feel our limit was in many cases over and above the call of duty. A yearbook is not made during one class period a day. Many thanks go to the staff, section editor Mary Jo Hoefling, newspaper editor Joe Ellert, and faculty adviser Mr. Steve Halbig. Our staff includes these reputable seniors: Judy Englert, Pam Rebstock, Gary Metz, Jane Schenk, Doris Elpers, Rick Bledsoe, Steve Sammet and Phyllis Kissel. Thanks also go to Beverly Studio for their senior portraits and to Courier photographers Bill Adkins and Sonny Brown for their football pictures and available light basketball.

Sincerely,
Jo Lynn Franks
