Seniors

As the Seniors of 1950-51 move on into their various vocations of life, they leave behind them at Mater Dei their four most important years of growing up. For the Seniors of '51, growing up was fun, because of the class spirit and cooperation they exercised.

This working together will not discontinue in their future but will serve as an example to others so that everyone they meet will notice the advantages of this extremely necessary quality.

Cooperation among neighbors makes friendly citizens; Cooperation among nations makes a peaceful world; Cooperation among Christians makes the Communion of Saints.

The Girls' Athletic Association is ably directed by Miss Ethel Parks. Through her untiring efforts she has instilled in the girls a greater love for sports.

The activities the girls partake in are baseball, volleyball, tennis, basketball, swimming, bowling, skating, bike-riding, and hiking.

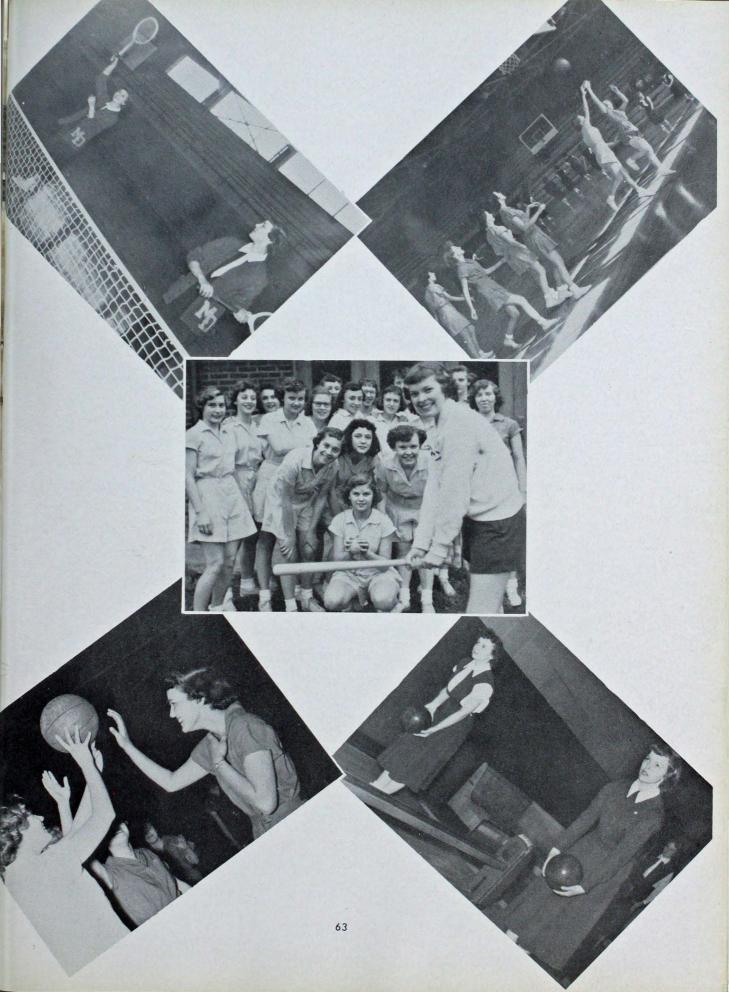

As a reward for their efforts, they receive pins, letters, sweaters, and chevrons according to their years of membership.

A GLORIOUS FUTURE

WORTH DOING SOMETHING ABOUT

Graduation from high school in the United States puts young men and women in a unique class—they have the greatest opportunity, the finest future, of any humans on earth. The possibilities are endless and the paths to success, many and varied. There is a place in America for every talent, every skill, every type of constructive enterprise. The future of the individual here is not decided for him, but by him. That's the way it is done where free people practice free enterprise, where you have a choice . . . a country, a way of life and a future worth doing something about.

Started in 1910 with a handful of people, International Steel has grown into a big industry providing employment for more than 600—an important fabricator of structural steel, the biggest builder of revolving doors, and a leading manufacturer of such products as hangars and all-steel industrial and commercial buildings.
