FOR THE RECORD.

After a long summer break, Mater Dei students returned to find the school had received a facelift. The lockers were painted with a fresh coat of burnt orange paint, and the new lights on the ceiling provided for a better view of the school's improvements. Along with the other alterations, the long awaited construction of our gym addition began.

As the faculty and students became accustomed to the new physical aspects, we also had to adjust to a new principal. Mr. Walter Bowman was here to guide us through another year of MD traditions.

Our transition was not an easy one. Such changes usually bring uncomfortable, unsure feelings, but what began with uncertainty, eventually led to our

"Summer Breeze"

Many people view summer as a chance to sit back and relax, either at home or on vacation. Others feel that summer is an excellent chance to earn extra spending money. Whatever your idea of summer is, the summer of 55 provided the perfect chance to do and see it all.

Vacationing was one outlet that provided relief. Whether it was 15 miles or 500, MD students found that travelling was one way to relax. For Seniors Dee Brenner and Kristi Rheinlander, the West Coast proved to be the perfect vacation spot.

However, for Kristi and Dee, California was also a hazardous place to spend their summer break. Within two hours of their arrival, they were involved in a four-car collision on the Santa Ana Freeway. According to Dee, the car they were riding in became involved in a traffic jam, and "the next thing we knew — BAM!" Neither was seriously injured, and they didn't let this mishap ruin their good times.

"We just partied with whiplash!" said Dee.

For those not able to afford the time or money to go on a trip, working proved to be a somewhat less than enjoyable way to spend the summer.

Sophomore Tim Laymon spent his summer working at Regency Properties. Much of his job involved pulling weeds out of concrete parking lots. There were many hazards involved with his job. One of Tim's more frightening experiences was almost getting hit by a car in a parking lot. He also received many concrete burns on his knuckles. Because of these hazards, Tim was more than ready for school to start. In fact, he was "kinda happy" that summer was over.

Junior Jodi Schilling enjoyed her summer for one common reason - the lack of homework. "I appreciated summer this year because I thought of the homework I didn't have and rejoiced!" she explained. Jodi spent part of her summer working the concession stand of the Tri-State Racquet Club.

Of all the things summer stood for, having fun was the dominant theme. Activities ranged from the calm, such as sunbathing and watching soap operas, to the crazy, such as throwing Super Balls down Eastland Mall and hitting people in the head. (This is how Senior Matt Greenwell and his cohorts spent part of their time.) Even if a person was ready for school to begin, this didn't mean that they were ready for the fun to end. In fact, the fun had just begun.

"Dancing in the Streets"

Not many students look forward to the end of summer, mainly because they know that the opening of school is just around the corner. Fortunately, there is one redeeming factor during the fall season — the annual West Side Nut Club Fall Festival.

Commonly known as "The Festival", the Nut Club presented its 64th version of fun and festivity during the first full week of October. The Festival combined all the elements of a good time. There were so many different types of foods, games, and rides, that practically no one had enough time to sample everything — but the fun part was trying.

For many people, the variety of foods available is what made the Festival exciting. Lining both sides of Franklin Street were booths from organizations all over Evansville. There were three times as many foods to choose from as there were booths, but many people tended to gravitate to the staples of junk-food heaven — pronto pups, monster and elephant ears, stromboli, candy and caramel apples, and cotton candy.

There were other reasons for attending the Festival. "Just messing around with friends", is what Sophomore Gary Postletheweight liked about the annual event. His brother Eric, a senior, enjoyed it for just about the same reason. "I like to talk to people, spend bucks and eat food," he related.

The Fall Festival wasn't just for kids. Many of the faculty from MD could be seen cruising Franklin Street. Mrs. Mary Ferley enjoyed the festival because of the parade and being able to "watch my kids on the kiddie rides. Mr. Tom Dick felt that the weather was what made the festival exciting. "This is about the last good weather of the year. It's a chance for a last fling. After this, the weather begins to fall off, get bad.'

Of all the functions performed by the Nut Club, one of the biggest purposes it serves is contributing money to local organizations. From all the money raised, most of it is donated to West Side organizations, including Mater Dei. This year, Mater Dei received $6200, which was used to support various activities around the school. But the biggest contribution that the Nut Club makes to

"Cool Change"

After what seemed like the longest day of their lives, students returned home to await another "Big Snowfall."

One of the hazards of winter

Winter brings snowmen, Christmas, and the ever-famous snowdays. Basketball becomes the sport to watch, and the weatherman is best friend to children who are waiting for word of the "Big Snowfall" of the vear.

Mater Dei students are no different than their younger counterparts. They pray for school to be cancelled or maybe only delayed. When it was discovered on that Friday the thirteenth that school would be opened on time, the ordeal of the drive to school began. Although the roads were hazardous, the students took their chances. While most arrived safely, many slid down Mater Dei's side hill or tried going down the "Teardrop" and ended up in the ditch. "My mom refused to drive me down the hill," explained Sophomore Sean LaGrone, "so she just dropped me off on top of the hill, and I had to walk down.

Trees are silhouetted against the winter sky.

Once here, students spent their classtimes staring out windows at the drifting snow, instead of paying attention to their teachers. "I remember sitting in class with five other people, wondering when they would announce that we were going home," related Junior Jim Kaiser.

The cheerleading squad of 1985-86 was the backbone to the spirit of Mater Dei. The cheerleaders, along with mascot Willy Wildcat, provided the added incentive for the teams to go on. Not only could you find cheerleaders at games, but they also helped pep clubs to decorate lockers and locker grooms.

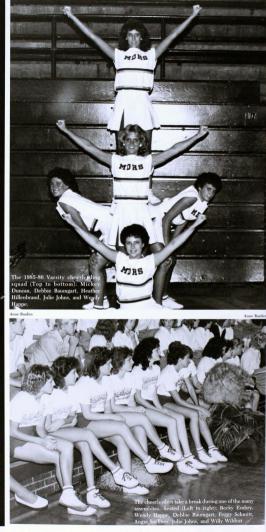

With just two seniors, Julie Johns and masco Cheryl Schiff, the squad was young, but was learning under the direction of sponsors Ms. Rose Rogge and Mrs. Donna Carnev.

The girls started the season in the summer by going to camp. After lengthy practice, the Reserve and Varsity squads cheered together during football season. Willy Wildcat provided comic relief to times that were not too fun.

Many times fans could independent and basketball yolleyball, and basketball games. However, the cheerleaders also supported the wrestlers, tennis players, cross country, and speech teams. The cheerleaders were constantly active.

The Varsity squad consisted this year of Julie Johns, Mickey Duncan, Debbie Baumgart, Heather Hillenbrand, and Wendy Happe. The Reserve squad was Peggy Schmitt, Cathy Griggs, Becky Embry, Chris Raven, and Angie Soellner. The Freshmen squad was Michelle Phillips, Lori Messal, Andrea Brenner, Susan Schaefer, and Lesly Mocsner.

The girls provided support to the teams, boosted school spirit, and also had fun. Junior Debbie Baumgart related, "This year was the most fun I've had being a cheerleader at MD." With hard work and perseverance, the cheerleaders accomplished their goals of increasing school spirit.

In many respects, being in the Mater Dei Wildcat marching band is like participating in a sport. It requires long hours of training and gractice. All of this is for the final product — The Performance.

"It's hard," stated Freshman Missy Jackson about band camp. The marching band attends a camp during the summer where they learn their show for the football games.

"It's really tough and takes a lot of practice," she recalled.

"We started off further back and came a lot further," said Mr. Kurt Wambach, band director.

Besides having hard work to look forward to, the playing members of the band also looked forward to a new band room. "It's a beautiful room." said Mr. Wambach.

It provides for better acoustics and the band can get a better idea of how they sound. The old room echoed and leaked when it rained.

Many people only see the band performing at football games. However, unlike sports which only last one season, the band plays year-round. During the football season, the band goes to contests. This year, they went to two contests and came away with a third place from the Evansville Invitational at Central High School.

After the marching season is over, the band plays for basketball games. The auxiliary corp members perform during halftime. The band also plays during the Christmas and Spring concerts

Band members who wanted to added more hours to their practice time went to a contest in February. Junior Hannah Kirsch decided that she didn't mind the extra work. Hannah went to state level competition in three different areas. She played in a saxophone quartet, an oboe solo, and a solo on the piano. Both the oboe solo and the sax quartet placed second. The piano solo placed first.

"I really had to put a lot of work into that," Hannah commented. She had to practice for five hours a night the week before the contest to make up for choosing the piece at a late date. When Hannah found out that she had won a first, she was glad she had taken the extra practice time. "I was really happy about (winning a first)."

These contests weren't restricted to playing members only. The auxiliary corps went to a contest, too.

The dance corp placed first, the flag corp placed second, and the majorettes placed first.

"I enjoyed going to the contest," said flag corp member Missy Jackson, "even though we didn't get a first. It was good practice." Overall, most band and auxiliary members felt they had a pretty good marching season and were also happy with the results of their competitions.

Of his experience as drum major, Shawn said he was, "proud to have been drum major for three years."

For many MD athletes, participating in sports is a serious matter. The athletes do what is needed to win, and sometimes they have full. For the boys tennis team, nowever, having fun was a theme for the whole season.

The team members were quick to point out that they worked hard and learned more about tennis. "We weren't pressured that much to win. Our coach (Bill Dayton) wanted us to win, but he also wanted us to learn," explained Junior Eric Eades.

The team's record of 1-14 doesn't accurately reflect the team's ability. Many of the matches were lost by a score of 3-2.

A strong sense of humor was exhibited in various ways throughout the season. According to Senior Cuong Nguyen, one of the best parts of the season was the "end of the season party." He also added, "We went out to have a good time, and we did."

Matt Ubehlor, senior, coped with the pressures of tennis by juggling tennis balls. Matt explained the season record by saying, "The reason we lost so many matches was because the other teams were better than us."

Other amusing activities the team participated in included the "Wave" and the "Tornado." The team did a shortened version of the "Wave," with three men, after the first victory of the season at North Posey. The team did the "Tornado" several times throughout the season. The "Tornado" was a variation of the "Wave" in which the participants stood up, put their arms in the air, and turned around.

In addition to the win against North Posey, there was another big victory. Nguyen placed third in the SIAC tournament. His hopes of placing in Sectionals and advancing to Regionals, though, were dashed by Matt Alexander of North in the first round.

While the team might not have had as many victories as they would have liked, they did have as much fun, and possibly more, than they wanted.

For an up and coming sport, soccer appears to have arrived. In only its sixth year. the Soccats ended their season with a 9-7-5 record. Under Coaches Dick Roe and Lester Steinmetz

There were several high points throughout the season. One of those was beating Day School, a perennial power in area soccer, 1-10 with Sophomore Ralph Cole scoring.

Another plus for the team was the naming of Freshman goalie Bryan Boes and Sophomore mid-fielder Sam Steinmetz to the All City Team. Boes was named to the First Team, and Steinmetz to the Second.

There were other individual accomplishments as well. Boes and Sophomore Keith Rheinlander were selected to play on an All Star Team; Boes and Sophomore Mike Roe were named to the under-16 State Team; and Roe was named All State Honorable Mention

This year's record gives an indication of how future MD teams will fare. Of 16 varsity members, only four were upperclass-men. The remaining members will be with the team for at least two more years, improving both records and experience.

The season, despite being a little disappointing, was never dull.

"Most teams would spend their ride to a meet preparing for the race, talking things over. Not this bunch," laughed Neighbors. "They put a sign in the window of the van that said, 'We are being held captive.'

According to sources closest to the team, Junior Jim Kaiser was the biggest clown of all, with his singing, dancing, and telling jokes.

But Kaiser had his serious side, too. He placed first at Sectionals, first at Regionals, and seventh at Semi-State. By finishing 63rd in a field of 119 at the State finals in Indianapolis, Kaiser gained a position on the second team All-State squad.

"I was a little disappointed with my State performance. But I'll be back next year and I plan to kill!

— The Spirit of Tradition

The night was chilly on September 28, as a full moon loomed over Reitz Bowl. It was finally the night for the Homecoming Game against the Harrison Warriors. The Homecoming Court nervously awaited the ceremony, and as halftime drew near, the court proceeded onto the field. Court Members were Seniors: Beth Braun, Julie Johns, Cheryl Schiff, John Delano, Mike Eppler, and Kevin Hartz; Juniors: Lesley Will, Julie Perkins, Lance Adler, and Mike Happe; Sophomores: Wendy Happe, Miranda Knapp, Keith Rheinlander, and Rick Steinkamp; Freshmen: Lori Messal, Tracey Schapker, Travis Marx, and Jason Jacobs

Due to a change at MD this past year, the entire school, rather than just the Seniors, was allowed to vote for the king and queen. Cheryl Schiff was crowned as the 1985 Football Homecoming Queen. For the first time, a king was crowned at MD. Mike Eppler received this honor.

Although the football team lost the game, 38-7, it did not seem to put a damper on the evening. The dance followed from 9 to 12, and was entitled "The Spirit of Tradition." It turned out to be a great success, as it was well attended.

Homecoming Queen Cheryl Schiff was extremely excited about the evening. 'It was an unbelievable thrill for me because I was so shocked. I was so happy just to be part of it. It made everything worthwhile in my coming back to MD, because I missed it so much.' Cheryl had moved to Indianapolis her freshman year, and returned just before her junior year. She summed up the evening by exclaiming. 'It was just awesome!"

The first round draw for the Wildcats was North Posey. The Cats shut out the Vikings by a score of 34-0. In their next game, North Knox was defeated, 23-6.

In the final game of the sectional, MD faced a tough Tell City. The Marksmen handed the Gridders a 22-12 loss.

After the Tell City game, Junior Mark Messal felt "pretty bad. We didn't play very well." Townsend added, "We could have played better."

Senior Chris Schaefer was also disappointed. "They were better than us, but we should have won anyway. We just didn't play very well."

Looking back on the season, many players were satisfied with the outcome. "I didn't think we'd go 4-0. After we did, I thought we'd go on, but then we started playing harder teams," stated Senior Steve Spahn. "Nobody expected us to do this well," said Townsend.

Looking forward to next season, Messal had this to say: "We'll be back."

During the prelude to Basketball Homecoming, 1986, each class celebrated Spirit Week in its own way.

The Freshmen used the theme, "It's Not Easy Being Green" to promote their spirit.

"Huskies Take a Hike" was the idea the Sophomores chose to show their spirit. The Juniors had a difficult time deciding between "Carl Rodenberg Day" and "Western Day," but they chose the latter.

The Seniors used the theme, "Take the Huskies Out to Lunch.

School spirit was shared by all that Friday, January 17, as red and gold showed through the school on Color Day.

Friday night finally arrived and the reserve game began. Mater Dei beat the North Huskies 42-37.

The Homecoming ceremony took place between the reserve and varsity games.

For Homecoming, 1986, the Freshman class was represented by Loan Bui, Tim Weinzapfel, Shannon Hauke, and Brian Maurer. Representing the Sophomores were Kim Anslinger, Chuck Mangold, Amy Coomes, and Devin Delano. The Junior representatives were Cathy Prybil, Chad Klenck, Jodi Schilling, and John Goebel. And finally, representing the Seniors were Kelly Elpers, Brian Raben, julie Goedde, Mark Pugh, Tricia Hollander, and Duane Quinlin. The crown bearers were Jimmy Elpers and Amber Griswold.

Mayor Chris Knapp crowned Tricia Hollander and Duane Quinlin as queen and king.

"I do think when one is chosen Homecoming King," suggested Duane, "all the girls should get in line and have the honor of kissing the king."

Looking back to that night, Tricia said she really liked the way the voting was done this year because the whole school participated.

After the ceremony, the varsity game was played. The half-time score was tied at 25, but the Huskies pulled ahead and won 60-48.

After the game, a dance was held in the cafeteria and lasted until midnight. "The dance raised more money than any other Homecoming dance," pointed out Chris Knapp. The dance was planned by Sister Donna Marie and the Student Council while the Homecoming ceremony was planned by Miss Edwards and Miss Teipe.

"Heart And Soul"

Beginning a basketball season with a record of 3-7 might be just enough to dash the hopes of a common high school basketball team for the entire season.

However, 12 talented young men led by an ambitious coach shifted the mood for the Mater Dei Wildcats by ending the season with a record of 11-11.

"We started the season slow but finished strong," said coach Don Sheridan.

Although MD tied with their West Side rival in the Holiday Tourney, Reitz came back to defeat the Wildcats 64-60 in Ianuary.

Mater Dei also bowed out to the crosstown competition of Memorial with a score of 70-50

The Wildcats pushed on through the season and enjoyed a well-deserved three-game winning steak beginning with the Harrison Warriors.

"We played a tough schedule all the way through the season," stated coach Sheridan. "I think we played well against the very best teams in the area."

The Mater Dei Wildcats celebrated another victry over Harrison in the first round of the Sectionals. The final score was 63-49.

All in all, players and coaches alike were satisfied with the season's outcome.

Coach Sheridan feels confident about the season. "The season was a compliment to the kids," pointed out the coach. "They grabbed hold of their bootstraps and finished up strong."

Senior Chris Schaefer believed that the seniors were an important part in the season's end. "We had a real good season as far as seniors go," commented Chris.

Coach Sheridan agreed with Chris that the seniors had an exceptional season. "The seniors were the backbone of our team," stated coach Sheridan. "They did an outstanding job carrying us through the rough times."

Coach Sheridan feels that the returning younger players have a lot of talent to make up for the loss of the seniors.

"I hope our improvement at the end of the season carries over to next year," remarked junior Tom Titus, a returning player.

Mater Dei not only loses five senior players next year, but also its head basketball coach of 13 years.

Coach Sheridan, who announced his retirement in March, said that he had many good years coaching at MD. "I'll miss in next winter," admitted the coach. "Mult I'm looking forward to newer and greater things. I'll be watching the games associator from now on."

"Miss Edwards makes you work, but you don't improve if you don't work hard," stated Regional qualifier Debbie Kirsch.

Kirsch was one of four girls, and the lone sophomore, to qualify for the Girls Regional Track Meet in Bloomington. Kirsch, who placed third in the 100m and 300m hurdles during the Sectionals, was joined by Freshmen Paula Kiesel and Dana Rainey and Junior Laura Bailev.

Kiesel's high jump of 5'4" in the Sectional placed her third. "I was really excited about qualifying for Regionals. I did much better than I thought I would." said Kiesel.

"It was really exciting making it to Regionals as a freshman," commented Rainey, who placed fourth in the shot put competition during Sectionals.

Bailey earned her Regional berth by placing fourth in the 1600m race during Sectionals.

Senior Julie Goedde not only qualified for Regionals, but she also advanced to the State finals in Indianapolis. "I was pretty pleased with the season, considering I got a late start," said Goedde.

"I didn't feel any pressure because I wasn't expected to do anything. Qualifying for Sectionals in the 400m was a big surprise."

"Julie is an elite, in the sense of talent, personality, and dedication," stated Coach Darla Edwards.

The team, as a whole, did well also. Their season record was 3-4, but one of those losses was by three points to Mt. Vernon. They placed second in two dual meets, three points behind Harrison in one and two points behind Bosse in another. They finished third in the Mt. "Young Blood"

With a team of only three seniors, the Boys Track team was short on experience, but not not talent. Eleven Sectional qualifiers, two Regional qualifiers and one State qualifier provided Coach Herb Neighbors with another good season.

"We had a lot of young kids who scored a lot of points for us," said Neighbors. "We held our own: that's for sure."

One of those underclassmen was Freshman Travis Marx, who placed first in both the 1600m and 3200m race during the City Freshmen Meet.

"Travis ran very well for us while also playing soccer," explained Neighbors.

Sophomore Sean Bornefield placed fourth at Sectionals in the 800m to earn his Regional spot. Junior Jim Kaiser placed first at Sectionals in the 3200m race for the second year in a row. Kaiser then moved on to Regionals, where he placed second. At the State finals Kaiser placed fifth with a time of 9:27, just five seconds behind the first place finisher. "I was shooting for a medal (top 6)," declared Kaiser. "I was proud I did so well at State. I wish I could've done better, though."

"Jim is an extremely hard worker. He's selfdisciplined and the most coachable kid I've ever had here at Mater Dei — a coach's dream "boasted Neighbors.

Junior Phillip Adams was also pleased with his season. "I got my time down, but my knee injury came right before Sectionals. I'll be back next year."

The 2-6 record of this year's team does not truly reflect the kind of talent they have.

"We have a lot of good, young athletes, and if they stick with it, could be contenders for years to come," stated Neighbors confidently.

"Boys of Summer"

The Mater Dei Batcats are back on top. fifter three straight years of second place finishes, the Cats topped all other city teams to claim the 1986 Sectional crown. It was MD's first title in ten years, with the last win coming in 1976.

Through Sectionals, the Wildcats compiled 120-8 record after beating North, 3-0, Harrison, 7-0, and finally Central, 5-2, to take he title.

The team also took home various honors in sectional play. Besides the title, Junior stather Tim Marx, Sophomores Joe Dippel second base) and Todd Rohrbacher (centerield) were elected to the All Tourney team. Senior pitcher Chris Schaefer was named dVP for his consistently outstanding play.

By allowing only two runs throughout sectonal play, the Batcats established a .957 patting average, the best in school history.

The team had a remarkable season, as their ecord will attest, as well as their share of outstanding players. Over the year, many eam members held top spots in various ategories. Marx led the city in batting verages in the early going of the season, sefore ending with a .324 average, while Dippel closed out the season on top of the city with a .419 average. Dippel also captured the Designated Hitter spot on the All City Team.

Sophomore Chris Goedde ended the season with a pitching record of 4-2 and a city leading ERA of 1.17. Senior Steve Spahn finished with a 1.55 ERA.

Another well-known MD name made an impact on the high-school baseball scene this season. Senior Chris Schaefer bagged his share of honors, including being named as Pitcher to the All-City Team; ending the season with a 10-2 record and 1.38 ERA; signing a baseball scholarship with ISU Terre Haute; being voted the 1996 Indiana Player of the Year by Scholastic Coach Magazine; and, as a fitting finish to his high school career, he was drafted into the Kansas City Royals Organization.

After taking the Sectional title, the Batcats were ready for Regionals. Schaefer faced his toughest opponent of the season, Tell City's Dave Schank, in the opening game. Schaefer and the Cats rose to the challenge as they beat Tell City 2-0. Schaefer tossed his first no-hitter, and helped his cause by slamming a two run homer.

In the nightcap, Spahn showed his pitching abilities as he went the distance to defeat Boonville, 10-1. He allowed two hits and struck out 10 as the Cats captured the Regional title.

"This was definitely the best game I've ever pitched," said Spahn, who, along with Schaefer, will be sorely missed on the athletic fields next year. Although he hasn't received as much recognition as Schaefer, Spahn has quietly proven his athletic abilities over the past four years in three sports — football, basketball, and baseball.

"We are definitely going to miss him next year," commented Head Coach Carl Vogel on Spahn's leaving.

The team was paired with a highly touted Center Grove in the second game of Semistate. They didn't let Center Grove's impressive stats intimidate them as they held on for a 2-1 victory. Schaefer allowed only six hits and struck out 13 for the win.

In the final game, MD faced host Jasper. Jasper proved to be more than the Cats could handle in the hot and humid night as they fell behind early and eventually lost 8-3. One bright spot was Schaefer's solo home run in the fourth inning.

While the loss was a disappointing way to end an outstanding season, the team can be proud of their many accomplishments. They closed out the season with a 23-9 record, a Sectional and Regional championship, a Semi-State Final appearance, and a strong chance of going even further next season with much returning talent.

Other highlights included the play of Soria and Senior Keri Pender during the SIAC to Transent. The Wildcats number one doubles team placed first in the end of the year tourney.

Schilling and Sophomore Sarah Ubelhor's

number two doubles record was 9-6

"I was very pleased with how Sarah and I played." said Schilling.

"Straight Down the Fairway"

"We struggled at first but came on very strong in the end," stated Boys' Golf Coach Kurt Wambach.

The team posted a 4-6 regular season mark with victories over Boonville, Princeton, and two victories over Mt. Vernon.

Two of their city losses were very close, however — a two-stroke loss to Bosse in the season opener and a one-stroke loss to Harrison in the second match of the season.

Post season play had a completely different result for the Wildcats, though.

Senior Don Reiner's second place finish in the City tournament helped the Wildcats place third behind Central and North, who later advanced to Semi-State.

The Wildcats "stumbled a little" at SIAC, according to Wambach, finishing seventh.

They turned it around, however, in the Sectional. The Wildcats placed fifth in a field of 19 and missed qualifying for Regionals by only three strokes.

Junior Chris Welsh advanced to Regionals by way of a sudden death playoff. Welsh fired a 77 during the Sectional competition, which tied him with John Godsey of Memorial for the final Regional spot. Because of darkness, the playoff was held the next day and that is when Welsh defeated Godsey on the first hole of sudden death

With only one team member graduating, Wambach's attitude for next year is very positive. "Prospects look very good and I'm looking forward to even bigger and better things next year."

"It's Only Rock-N-Roll . .

Many times events that take place in different parts of our country make a stir in our papers, but don't really seem to affect us. If the event is major enough, however, it will eventually trickle down from the coasts and hit us full force.

Such is the case with the issue of record censorship. In 1985, the music industry was hit head on by a group of women from Washington, D.C., Parents Music Resource Center, or PMRC. Leaders Tipper Gore, wife of Senator Albert Gore, and Susan Baker, wife of James Baker, Secretary of the Treasury, want to devise a rating system for records much like the one already being used for movies. They are requesting that record companies put a warning level on any recorded music that contains sexually explicit or violet lyrics.

A major opponent of the PMRC is the National Association of Recording Merchandisers (NARM). NARM is "unanimously opposed" to disestablishment of a rating system or mandatory warning label on recordings. While defending the right of free expression, the association calls for voluntary efforts by all segments of the community to "assure that industry product remains within the boundaries of good taste."

The trade groups' position on ratings, formulated at a board meeting in Nashville on October 14, 1985, runs counter to its manufacturer counterpart, the Recording Industry Association of America, which has called for voluntary compliance in the use of a parental guidance sticker on recordings judged to contain sexuall explicitly brits or violence.

In opposing ratings and warning strickers, the board concluded that the problem — which would be created by efforts to review and assess the more than 25,000 new songs released annually — would far outweigh the benefits. Such an effort might not only stifle creativity and freedom of expression, but might also deprive the general public of songs that would otherwise be appropriate.

The board believes that the best way to solve this problem lies within developing a sense of accountability on the part of the creative community.

Both the Recording Industry Association of America and NARM agree that only a small portion of the lyrics would be found objectionable. Even if this were the case, a number of record companies have already boycotted any ideas of a formulated rating system, and refuse to put a warning sticker on any of their products.

Should such a system of ratings be devised, it would only encourage interest on the part of young people to purchase recordings containing a warning label. Store clerks or managers in the position of determining when and under what circumstance such recordings should be displayed or sold would have an intolerable burden.

Listening to music is a privilege and a right. We should have the freedom to choose the type of music we enjoy without people censoring and categorizing it. Whether we prefer listening to Madonna singing in paisley and lace about her questionable virginity, or if we like Prince, Judas Priest, Beethovan, or Hank Williams Jr., it is our choice. We have the constitutional right to listen to whatever type of music we want, and no one should try to stifle our freedom or individual choice.

Heavy metal has been hit the hardest by the issue of rock censorship, especially groups like Judas Priest (shown here performing at Live Aid).

'Ain't Nothin' Like the Real Thing"

Marvin Gaye and Tammi Terrell

Which one is the real thing? Are they all the sme? Apparently not. The Battle of the Sodas is begun. Today we are experiencing a new meration of soft drinks. In school, at work, at ome, or at play, soft drinks are a part of exryday life. Our parents gree up with soft rinks (believe it or not), we grew up with soft rinks, and our children and their children illi probably be the next age of soda poppers.

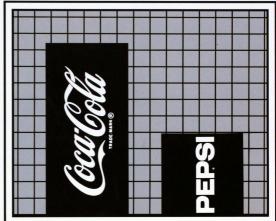

Coke has been with us through wars and allies, feats and falls, good times and bad mes, and then along came New Coke, as well 6 Cherry Coke and Coca-Cola Classic. Does is mean that harder times are yet to come? ruly in the fight against Pepsi. The commerals are out and running in the big feud.

Pepsi has been taking the challenge around ne world. People are tasting a new era of soft rinks, diet and otherwise. Coke and Pepsi et he two major soft drink companies, and hey leave all other soft drinks behind.

ney leave an other soft drinks behind.

A student body poll was taken at MD to ecide their choice of Coke or Pepsi. All of the omerooms were asked to choose between he two. The results were astounding. The raph to the right shows the results.

"School Day"

One of Mater Dei's most outstanding traditions is the fine academic program available to the students. There are a number of classes offered under each topic.

ENGLISH

The largest department of MD is the English department. There is a class to meet everyone's needs. For students with a special interest, classes such as World Literature. The Novel, and American Literature offer the enriched background necessary for college preparation

'I enjoy it very much," stated American Lit. teacher, Ms. Rose Rogge. "It's my favorite class to teach.

Mr. Dan Tieken teaches The Novel. "It was my favorite class." He said the reason for this was that he chose the novels the students read. In picking each book, Mr. Tieken tried keeping within the season. For example, during Spring, the book read was The Natural, which deals with baseball.

Ms. Mary Pattison, who teaches the World Literature classes, enjoys the teaching experience. One point Ms. Pattison is trying to get across to her students is how universal the stories of yesterday are. "People throughout all ages and the world share the same feelings and the same problems.

MATHEMATICS

There are math courses to fit the needs of the individual student, too. Intro Algebra 2 is for the student with specialized needs. "It's pretty cool," stated Sophomore Tom Elderkin. Jason McBride, also a sophomore, said that he likes the class, too. "I like the teacher.

Mrs. Jeanne Qualls, Algebra teacher, has a view of teaching that most Mater Dei teachers don't get. Mrs. Qualls is a graduate of MD. "It's like I never left. I had always wanted to teach, but I never thought I'd end up in my alma mater. It was awkward at first, working with my former teachers, but knowing my way around here is a big plus. Overall, I enjoy it here.

BUSINESS AND COMPUTERS

The Computer Science class here is very good," commented Senior George Frank. It does give the students a challenge. "It's difficult," he said.

Mr. Tom Dick teaches Computer Science. "I think we're entering a new era," he related. He explained that "there is more support from everyone - Parents, students, and teachers.'

The freshmen boys' gym class is enjoyed by most of the boys.

"It's pretty fun," said Craig Goedde, "as long as we don't have to run

Academics aren't just hitting the books. It's learning many different things that will benefit the student in later life.

Mr. Walter Bowman joined the Mater Dei faculty this year as principal. "I really enjoy it." he said. "I like it on the West side."

Although his transition to MD was not easy, by the middle of the year, he was feeling at home with his position. When asked about how he felt about the atmosphere, he commented, "It's just like family."

Mr. Bowman graduated from Dartmouth College in Hanover, New Hampshire. He received a Masters in Business Administration and a Bachelors Degree in Physics. He enjoys running, reading, and sailing. Before accepting the position of principal, he spent 11 years at St. Joseph High School in South Bend, IN., and St. Edwards High School in Elgin, Ill.

Mr. Bowman's children, Monica and Brian, attend Mater Dei. "I'm so used to it," he said, i't doesn't phase me." They had attended other schools where their father was Dean of Students. Both Mr. Bowman and his kids agree that having their father or children around, whichever the case may be, causes no interference.

"We have to continue improving," he said in conclusion. "I want each department to be the best possible."

Although some people may not realze it, religion is somehow a part of their veryday lives. No matter how subtle, it s there. For example, the title of the vell known song by Mr. Mister, Kyrie," is actually the Greek word for .ord.

Religion is obviously a big part of Mater Dei. This year, we celebrated nasses together, attended retreats with ur classes, participated in the Rice Sowl collection, met together in eligion class, and prayed together each norning. As the year progressed, so did ur knowledge of religious aspects of our ives

As always, on Thanksgiving, each class collected food and clothing for the needy. This year, something new was added. For the Thanksgiving mass, each class was allowed to decorate the gym floor with the goods they collecteed.

Another event that was different from other years was the freshman class retreat. The class was divided up into groups and each group spent a Saturday in New Harmony.

Another change in Mater Dei's religious program is that Father Martin, our Director of Religious Programs for six years, is leaving. He will be the pastor of St. Clements Parish in Boonville.

All in all, Mater Dei's religious program has kept up its tradition of exFor the Thanksgiving mass, each class was allowed to decorate the gym floor with cans and boxes collected during the annual food and clothing drive. The junior class won with the best design, a figure of an Indian.

"Games People Play"

Once every other week, usually on Wednesdays, the bell to dismiss homeroom rang. The students, however, didn't make their way to first period. Instead, they headed to their assigned clubs.

The club schedule broke the monotomy caused by Schedule I day after day. Schedule IV, clubs schedule, provided for a 45-miniute club period and 43-minute classes.

There were clubs to suit practically everyone. If the students wanted some exercise while having some fun, co-ed volleyball was offered. Trivial Pursuit allowed students to use their knowledge, or in most cases, find out how little they had.

Bible Study was a new club offered second semester. There was not a large enrollment but was available for those who wanted a deeper understanding of God's Word. The students mostly studied the Book of Revelations. Sophomore Carla Soria participated in Bible Study stating, "It made me understand more of it (the Bible)."

Mr. Tieken got his group of students going to Europe together during clubs. They discussed what they would experience in Europe. One concern was the difference in electrical wattage. "It doesn't make any difference if you don't have any hair," joked Mr. Tieken, after it was mentioned that this would cause problems for female students and their blow dryers and curling irons.

Pep Club sponsor, Mrs. Harrington, was pleased with this year's members saying, "We were a lot more active, a lot due to a really organized set of officers." She was also pleased with the faculty. "I thought it was really neat the way the faculty participated in the pep assemblies.

Some teachers had all the fun during clubs. Mr. Rode took on the identity of hall monitor during clubs. "Many people don't realize the importance of this job. If it weren't for good hall monitors, the halls would not be what they are today. I have accepted the challenge of keeping our halls safe and secure for all of us here at Mater Dei," nobly stated Mr. Rode.

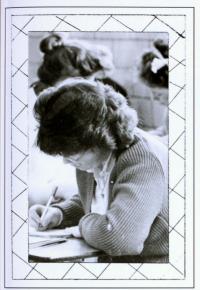

While clubs may not be all fun and games for everyone, Anne Basden sums it up by saying, "It's a good old time!"

The Mater Dei varsity and reserve choirs, better known as The Mater Dei Melodies, are made up of 28 hard-working, talented students

At their May 14 concert with the band, the choirs performed a wide range of songs, including tunes from the Broadway musical 42nd Street, and "Climb Every Mountain" from The Sound of Music.

Freshmen Debbie Greulich and Bridget Boots sang a duet version of Lee Greenwood's "God Bless the U.S.A."

The trio of Heather Rutter, Dana Rainey, and Jodi Marx performed Whitney Houston's hit ballad "Greatest Love of All," with Mrs. leanne Oualls accompanying on the piano.

Directed by Mrs. Betty Emmert, the members of the 1985-86 choirs were:

The Nons perform in the new gym. The money raised by the concert went to the Journalism Department.

At one point or another during the year, everyone at Mater Dei sold tubs of gummi bears, boxes of M&M's, or bottles of suntan lotion to raise money for the school. Innovation was the key to fund raising success, making it harder and harder to earn money.

The Student Council sold hundreds of boxes of M&M's to hungry students in the halls, in class, and at lunch.

In addition to cheese and sausage in the annual fund-raiser, students sold tubs of gummi bears, and tins of cookies and candy.

The cheerleading squads sold bottles of suntan oil and lotion to earn money for cheerleading camp and new uniforms.

The most creative fund-raiser of the year was sponsored by the Journalism Department. Called "Journalism-aid," it was a concert starring The Nons (alias Senior Eddie Burnett, Juniors Lance Adler, Jim Goebel, Chad Klenck, and Carl Rodenberg, and Freshman Lee Rodenberg).

The students and faculty of Mater Dei have always been willing to lend a helping hand, and the 1985-86 fund raising year was no exception.

Together with Fr. Mark Kurzendoefer. Debate Coach, the two took on the task of working with this year's Forensics Team.

"They're a fun and hard-working group." said Mrs. Qualls of the team's members. "So, naturally, the season was filled with excitement and intensity.

When asked what she liked best about the year, team member Junior Shannon Mathis responded enthusiastically.

"I liked my category. Duo Interpretation. You have someone with you and you're both relied on," revealed Shannon.

Another team member. Junior Kristen Poindexter, felt that the closeness of the team made the season great.

"We're like a big family — we're all really close," informed Kristen. "It reminds me of the movie The Breakfast Club. When we started, we really didn't know each other very well. Now we're close friends.

The team had three members who made it to State this year: Seniors Nikki Iones. Jeff Schilling, and Deavron Farmer.

It may have been a good week - an "A" in a test, a fun assembly, a chemistry experiment that worked - but however well things went, all of us, students and teachers, look forward to the weekend.

Some spent weekends at retreats, re-evaluating their lives and their goals, as teachers . . . or as students.

"Charade"

When a young novelist takes on a pseudonym and begins to write Grandma Letty's children's stories, he has no idea that this little charade will lead to a national scandal that threatens to ruin both his career and his marriage. This delightful comedy with a thoughtful message proved, indeed, to be "More Than Meets the Ev."

The play begins with Stan (Jeff Debes) and his wife Chris (Anne Adams) comfortably settled into a pleasant life. They have a mad Maude (Tine Wenzel) who, in her own fashion, takes care of them and Chris ornhaned niece Pergy (Monica Bowman).

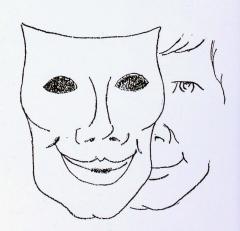

Stan has momentarily put aside the profitable Grandma Letty stories to pursue his Henry Mancini dream of being a serious, philosophica writer. His endeavors are abruptly interupte by Hoskins, the publisher, who telegraph them to announce that Grandma Letty ha been named "Grandma of the Year," and he personally will present the plaque to her.

Cars are the toys of the high school generation. They bring excitement, independence, and freedom to their teenage owners. Teens are finding that cars are essential to enjoy many activities, such as driving to school events, and cruising through popular hourouts.

Many teens had their parents' help in buying and repairing their cars. Senior Amy Itzer's parents not only financed most of her 1973 Dodger Challenger, they also helped her sand the car and rebuild the engine. Lunior Mark Messal and his father renovated a 1969 Camaro.

Some students at MD were given cars as giftn, such as Seniors Rita Folz, Eddie Burnett, Dee Dee Gallagher, and Dierdre Brenner. Others bought their cars from friends or relatives. Most students had jobs to help for the car payments and the insurance.

A few of the students at MD opted for a different means of transportation than the traditional car. Senior Duane Quinlin prefers motorcycles over cars. He has been riding motorcycles since he was seven years old. "Either on dirt or street, motorcycling is great

From the caveman's first campfire rap and grunt session to today's highly synthesized sounds, music is something that is always a part of our lives. And the past concert season in Evansville showed that, while Evansville might not be a mecca of the stars, we do treat our musician guests with all the style of a big town.

With two facilities, Roberts Stadium and the Mesker Park Amphitheater, Evansville has plenty of room for rockers. And Evansville's teens have proven time and again that they are receptive to almost any musicians. This is especially true at Mesker Park, where if you can't afford a ticket, you can always sit around outside with friends and listen to the music.

Many of the concerts draw mainly teenagers, but there are a few acts that attract older fans as well. These concerts are usually country rock, such as Kenny Rogers or Alabama.

Evansville is a small but growing town, and th growth will only add to Evansville's reputation a nunsic city. Whether it was the Lolly Pops con cert for the young, Alabama for country fans, o Ozzy Osburne for the hard rockers, Evansvillhad music for everyone.

Art is not just the display of talent (though that is obvious on these passes), but it can also be an accurate reflection of life in a school. Challenger's first mission on April 4, 1983, would become symbolic of its record: a dichotomy of successes and failures. That mission marked the first U.S. spacewalk in nine years — man's triumphant return to the universe. Its attempt to place a tracking satellite failed, however, because the satellite did not maintain a proper orbit. This balance of success and failure would continue through its next eight missions. But no one, least of all the astronauts, could foresee the terrible disaster which would befall the Tenth Mission.

June 18, 1983: The Second Mission made history in that the first U.S. woman, Sally Ride, was a member of the five-member crew. We rejoiced with the crew. "Ride, Sally, Ride" we sang, celebrating her personal victory over space.

August 30, 1983: The Third Mission launched INSAT, India's satellite. This would be a successful, if not spectacular, voyage.

February 3, 1984: The Fourth Mission caught the world's imagination. Two astronauts, not wearing lifelines, walked in space. Man was truly free to explore the heavens. But two communication satelites, launched into useless orbit, were lost. April 6, 1984: The Fifth Mission saw the first successful capture and repair of a satelite with sum-watching instruments.

October 5, 1984: The Sixth Mission was surely one of the most significant because of its personnel. Having the first seven-member crew, it marked the first walk in space by an American woman, the first time two women rode together, and the first flight by a Canadian astronaut.

April 29, July 29, and October 30, 1985: The last three missions carried Spacelab D-3, Spacelab D-2 and Spacelab-1, all of which had hundreds of experiments that met with varying degrees of success.

January 28, 1986: The flight had already been delayed several times. The weather and mechanical problems had contributed to a feeling of urgency — our American obsession with punctuality.

Commander Francis R. Scobee and Pilot Michael J. Smith were on the flight deck absorbed in the details of the launch. Behind them were Mission Specialists Ronald E. McNair and Judith Resnik. Because she had flown previously, the procedures were routine for her. almost mechanical.

Below them on the Mid-deck were Payload Specialists Gregory Jarvis and Mission Specialist Ellison S. Onizuka. Sitting next to Jarvis was undoubtedly the most publicized member of the crew, Teacher/Observer Christa McAulifle. Because of her enthusiasm and natural spontaneity, she had won the hearts of other Americans, who also dreamed of flying into space.

This was the "All-American crew"— Christian, Buddist, Jew; white, black, Oriental; male, female. NASA had carefully picked a cross-section of the elements which make America unique in a world of homogenous nations. Perhaps that is why we, as a nation, responded so quickly and so profoundly when, less than two minutes into the flight, the quest of the Challenger ended.

May Day, 1986 A Tradition

Mater Dei is a school of tradition and excellence. May Day, an annual celebration to honor the patron saint of our school, has become one of the many rich traditions of spring. The May Day celebration at Mater Dei resembles the rites of early Rome, when the celebrations would start with civilized rituals and end with frolicing fun.

May 2nd began with a beautiful and simple mass to honor the Mother of God. The May Day mass is a very solemn occasion with the crowning of Mary as a highlight. The May Queen for 1986 was Renee Hatful, escorted by David Townsend. First attendant was Tircia Hollander, escorted by Aaron Muller, and second attendant was Rita Folz, escorted by John Delano. May Court consisted of Anne Adams, Jeff Schilling; Anne Basden, Duane Quinlin; Becky Black, Tin Antey; Lori Fox, Matt Greenwell; Julie Goedde, Kevin Hartz, Annette Hildlenbrand, Kent Rexing, Amy Kaiser, Ed Kuhn and Keturah Thomas, escorted by Matt Ubelhor. The junior couple was Ashley Richardson and Curt Schmitt.

The mass was celebrated by Msgr. Kenneth Knapp, and concelebrated by Fr. Mark Kurzendoerfer and Fr. David Martin. Ms. Rose Rogge added much to the ceremony with the singing of "Ave Maria." It was a beautiful and quiet ceremony to honor the patron of our school.

The gentle and quiet celebration was over and it was time for the "friendly" games to begin. The school-wide competition began with the dreaded Emergency Cat Run. The Sophomores won, leaving the Seniors in second place.

Slaughter ball followed and the Juniors took first place; the Seniors were still in second. The Seniors struggled and remained in second place through the pie-eating contest, nutty cat race and sack full of cats.

The turning event was the blind scott-a-cat race, when the Seniors finally took first place. The stage was set for the final round of the tug-of-war. The seniors were leading by two points against the Sophomores. The winner of the tug-of-war would be the winner of May Day. The Sophomores tried but just couldn't pull it off. The stronger and more experienced Seniors proved once again that they were the best with a score of 49, followed by the Sophomores with 43, the Juniors with 41, and the Freshmen bringing up the rear with 27.

The wild and crazy celebration ended. Seniors were once again #1, as if there was any doubt. May Day once more proved to be both a reflective as well as a joyful time. The tradition continues.

The prom favors this year were not the traditional mugs and glasses, but instead, couples were given blue and silver T-shirt with the theme printed on them. Memory books and small silve balloons were also given to each couple.

After the dance, couples bowled at Diamond Lanes from 1-3 a.m. Because of all of the careful and detailed planning, the night was truly "heavenly."

"Through the Years"

Kenny Rogers

As cameras clicked and seniors sighed, the graduating class of 1986 said their final farewells to Mater Dei during the Baccalaureate ceremony on Thursday, May 29.

The theme of the event, "Through the Years" by Kenny Rogers, along with "Just for a Moment" from the motion picture soundtrack of St. Elmo's Fire and "Memory" by Barry Manilow were played throughout the tearful slide presentation.

The collection of slides were provided by graduating Senior Anne Basden. Anne had been taking pictures of her class since their freshman year.

Former principal of Mater Dei, Joseph Delehunt, was in attendance to look back on the graduates' first three years at Mater Dei during his homily.

Following the Baccalaureate and a reception held by junior class sponsor Mrs. Carol Hudgions and the junior class, the seniors shed their formal attire, donned their surfer shorts, and got wild at a chemical-free party sponsored by the Area Chemical People.

Beginning at nine and continuing until one, the alcohol-free/drug-free bash packed the new gym annex with about 110 seniors.

With planned activities such as a pyramid building contest, Pass-The-Life-Saver-On-A-Toothpick game, and Let's Make a Deal, the seniors also feasted on a 20-foot submarine sandwich while listening to the blasting music of a disc jockey.

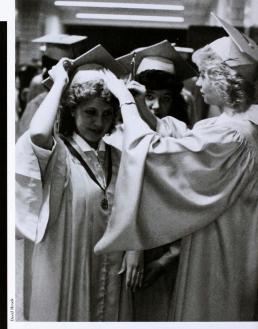

Area businesses and Mater Dei parents donated the food and prizes for the evening's festivities.

The entire evening proved to be a great success thanks to all of those who put in their time and energy to make the night a memorable one for the graduates.

"Be yourself. A self, however, who is willing to grow and change if necessary. A self who recognizes mistakes and profits from them." This was part of former principal Sister Mary

Carmel's message to the one hundred thirty seven seniors as they awaited anxiously the awarding of diplomas.

Sister Mary Carmel also emphasized the fact that success and material things don't necessarily make the quality of one's life better. "Do these things make a real difference in our lives? To our dismay... something is missing."

She continued by encouraging the graduates to go after things "which inspire, enrich, ennoble, those that are enduring. Many are free and easily within our grasp if we open our minds, our ears, and our hearts."

Before the graduates were presented and the diplomas were awarded, Mr. Herb Neighbors, assistant principal, asked that all applause should be held until all graduates had received their diplomas. A few parents and other fans of some of the graduates, however, couldn't wait that long,

As Senior Andy Petitjean's name was called, a jubilant burst came from an excited group in the auditorium. The cheering was acknowledged with a simple wave of his hand and a big grin.

Long after the excitement of the day has worn away, the Commencement will always be remembered by the graduates and many others.

Ioan Iett and the Blackhearts

Who is the only member of Mater Dei's faculty whom you can find lounging at home with her six-foot boa constrictor? She must be Mater Dei's Mrs. Jeanne Williams.

But besides her six foot snake, Rosie, Mrs. Williams had other pets. She owns two cats, Cricket and Murphy.

When Mrs. Williams isn't taking care of her pets, she enjoys cooking. Her specialties include homemade bread, Italian foods and Syrian cuisine.

She also enjoys reading, going to movies, canoeing and rafting.

Mrs. Williams attended Bosse High School. She then went to IU and received her Bachelors Degree in botany. She obtained her Masters in zoology from the University of Minnesota and her Masters Equivalency Degree at San Diego State in California.

Mrs. Williams has three children. Shannon, who is a junior at Washington University in St. Louis, is working on a biology major.

Nathan, a senior at Harrison, plays on the Select League soccer team. He is also on Harrison's varsity soccer team. Mrs. Williams serves on the Board of Directors for soccer at Harrison

And there is also Megan, who is in the eighth grade at Plaza Grade School. She too plays soccer.

Mrs. Williams has been teaching science at Mater Dei for seven years. Quite a few strange things have happened during that time.

One incident she recalled was when someone brought a pregnant stray cat in for a biology assignment. The cat escaped into the chemistry lab and hid for four days. Luckily, it was found before the kittens were born.

What Mrs. Williams enjoys most about Mater Dei is the students. "They make teaching easy because everyone else is so enthusiastic."

This summer, she is planning to attend school in Berkeley, California. She will take a class at the Institute of Chemical Education sponsored by the National Science Foundation

Next year, Mrs. Williams will be back at Mater Dei and be the Chairperson of the science department.

Mrs. Jeanne Williams spends time grading papers, one of the many things that fill her day.

What would you be doing with your vacant hours following school? Some students would trudge to a part-time job. Others would start on homework or watch "Scooby Doo" reruns. A few students hung around school for a practice.

In all probability, one would find Linda Kula on her way to the Y.M.C.A. for some quick laps around the pool and then perhaps on to some weight lifting.

"We do weights about three days a week," says the MD swimmer. "I end up getting about 15 hours of swimming in every week."

Linda, who began swimming in Chicago, first became interested in the sport when she was three years old. "I remember my swimming teacher. I was in love with him. He was the only reason I would jump off the diving board."

Linda moved to Evansville when she was seven after her father was transferred to another job. "Swimming has really helped me make friends," comments Linda. "I've met a lot of people through competition." On most high school swim teams there are around 30 members. Mater Dei's team has only three this year. "We can only compete in sectional meets because our team is so small," explains Linda.

Swimming takes up a lot of Linda's time. She practices six days every week, for about two and a half hours each day. "I usually don't get home until six o'clock every night, so I'm up until 11 doing my homework," reveals Linda. "I'm always tired."

Besides being tiring for Linda, swimming can also be somewhat of a bother. "It can be a real hassle going down to the Y.M.C.A. after school every day," explains Linda. "It would be nice to have a pool here at Mater Dei."

Linda enjoys being able to swim all year round. When asked if swimming ever gets monotonous for her, she replied, "Mostly on Fridays and Saturdays.

Linda's mother also finds that her swimming gets old on the weekends because she is not there to help around the house. She also doesn't like Linda to be gone so much over the weekend. Long hours of vigorous practice have paid off for Linda. She placed third in High School Sectionals last November and received a sixth place in the 200 vard Freestyle Although swimming keeps Linda busy most of the time, she still finds time for an occasional weekend trek to the mall with her friends. "I guess you could say that I could live and die in the mall," remarks Linda. After high school Linda plans to attend college. "Hopefully I can get a scholarship from swimming," stated Linda. "I would love to go to a

"So Far Away"

It all began as just an idea. When Rebecca Kirsch applied to be an exchange student in Mr. Rode's German class in October of her junior year, she thought that it would be a good idea to apply — just in case.

About five months later Rebecca advanced to the semi-finals held in Indianapolis, and in April she received word that she had been chosen to spend her senior year going to school in Germany.

With about 100 days to prepare for her year-long stay in Europe, Rebecca had to do everything from packing to obtaining her passport by mid-July. Packing was perhaps the most difficult since she was allowed only two suitcases.

When she first arrived in Germany, Rebecca attended a language school in a town called Gerolzhofen located in southern Germany. She stayed with a farm family there where she had a "big brother" for the first time. She also learned how to milk a cow and drive a tractor during her stay over the summer.

From Gerolzhofen Rebecca traveled to northern Germany to attend school in the city of Oldenburg. She sadly reports that it rains all the time in Oldenburg, which is about the same size as Evansville.

Rebecca's new family, who has a daughter her age, traveled to Switzerland at Christmas to spend the holiday.

Rebecca has made numerous friends at school, where she is studying such subjects as Roman history, biology, chemistry, and music. Gym is required every year, so Rebecca chose ice skating, boating, and volleyball.

Some of Rebecca's classes don't meet every day, so she goes to school six days a week.

Rebecca can't drive a car while she is in Europe, so she either walks or rides a bicycle to get around. Her mother reveals that Rebecca doesn't like riding the train very well. Rebecca once wrote to her family that she would never again complain about riding in a small car.

Rebecca, who is officially known as a Congress Bundestag Scholar, keeps in touch with American life by writing long letters to her family and friends often.

Before she left, especially during her last week, Rebecca had second thoughts about going. Although seeing Europe had always been a dream of hers, Rebecca would miss her senior year at Mater Dei.

"She cried when she found out Mater Dei had won the State Wrestling title," confides Rebecca's mother.

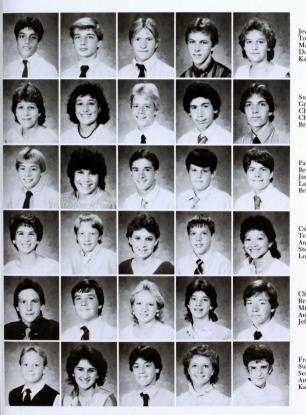

Despite being apart from home, family, and friends, Rebecca loves the experience and considers herself fortunate to have the opportunity. School is out for Rebecca on July 13 and she will return to the United States after a tour of the German Bundestag.

Before returning home to Evansville, Rebecca will also visit the United States Congress in Washington, D.C.

Pressure,

Anna Rardes

Do you remember purchasing crystal jewelry, raffle tickets for a television, or desserts from a bake sale? How about watching a scary movie before the Halloween Dance? The use of the profits from these fundraisers was probably unknown to most students, but it was definitely known by the vearbook staff.

The Staff was left with a $5,000 deficit from the preceeding year. Before they could begin spending money on the current yearbook, they had to pay off the debts on the old one. By having all of these fund-raisers and selling vearbook ads, they finally managed to raise enough money to pay the deficit.

Besides raising money, the yearbook staf was busy breaking in the new Publication Director, Mrs. Mary Ferley. She originally came from South Dakota, but moved to Evansville from Ankeny, Ioya. She formerly taught English and technical writing classes along with Liberal Arts Courses at colleges such as Washburn University and The Des Moines Area Community College. This was Mr. Ferley's first year as a high school publications director. It was a switch for Mrs. Ferley, who stated, "While we seem to work in a more relaxed atmosphere, we have a definite goal in mind. She was shocked to find that her first goal was to raise $5,000!

Mrs. Ferley was not the only newcomer to the yearbook staff. Twelve out of the 13 staff members had not been on the staff the previous year. Senior Chris Heuck was the only member with experience, and was therefore chosen as the yearbook editor.

The newspaper staff also held many fundraisers, but their profits went for different uses. They raised money in order to distribute newspapers free of charge. They also increased their workload by issuing sixpage papers instead of the standard four pages. This increased their expenses as well. They held fund-raisers such as selling novelty items, holding dances, making nachos to sell during lunch periods, and having a Valentine's Day post office. The post office turned out to be a disaster because the only snow day fell on Valentine's Day. Also, a refrigerator broke in our cafeteria, and it happened to have most of the roses in it. Naturally, the roses were dead by Monday. The newspaper staff made a 55¢ profit on this fund-raiser.

The newspaper staff didn't have to worry when it came to having experience. Six out of the 12 staff members had written for the paper the previous year. Jeff Schilling was chosen as editor, while Carol Pigman, Anne Adams, and Kristi Rheinlander were chosen as copy, layout, and sports editors. Senior Anne Basden was kept extremely busy, because she was the photo editor for the newspaper staff as well as the yearbook staff.

The newspaper staff made several changes in the 1985-86 papers, including the addition of a sports scoreboard in each issue. There was also an F.Y.I. (For Your Information) added that included upcoming events. Even though there were many changes in staff, advisers, and publishing styles, the tradition of hard work and cooperation remained in both staffs. Story by Jody Fulton Design by Stacey Lehman
